Our Mission

Give everyone in America a friend who is there anytime, anywhere.

Using the power of audio and human companionship to create deep and engaged relationships in an increasingly fragmented and isolating world.
Our Purpose

Our responsibility begins with broadcast radio; we are available free over the air to all.

As the number one audio company in the U.S., and the largest broadcast radio company, the most important responsibility we have is to the communities we serve.

Our purpose is to change the world through the power of audio, using our multiple platforms and diverse content to connect people through companionship, compelling storytelling and service to our communities.

We are committed to cultivating and fostering diversity at every level of our company to ensure that we reflect our broad and diverse audiences across the many communities in which we live and work.

Broadcast radio is the most trusted medium in America – and iHeartMedia is the most trusted radio company. 79% of Americans value the opinion and perspectives of their favorite radio DJ/personality and believe radio is two times more trustworthy than social media.

As the nation’s largest broadcast radio company, our focus on targeted local programming and the deep connection on-air personalities have with listeners has led to iHeartRadio being considered the most trusted name in radio.

Trusted Source of Information

As federally-licensed entities, iHeartMedia’s 850+ radio stations are required to operate as public trustees of the nation’s airwaves. Every one of our stations takes seriously its duty to serve its local communities and operate, as we must -- and as we desire -- “in the public interest.”

In addition to the many voluntary ways iHeartMedia’s stations improve, inform and safeguard the lives of our local listeners, iHeartMedia operates its stations in compliance with extensive federal regulations designed to ensure, among other things, that: (1) listeners are not exposed to obscene content; (2) listeners are not misled, including by hoaxes or intentionally rigged or slanted news coverage; (3) children are not exposed to indecent or profane content (which is prohibited between the hours of 6 am and 10 pm); (4) listeners have ready access to rules and limitations governing on-air contests; (5) listeners are informed whenever on-air content has been sponsored and who that sponsor is, be it a political ad or entertainment content; (6) political candidates have nondiscriminatory access to our airwaves; (7) listeners are notified which station they are listening to, and instructed on how to participate in a station’s license-renewal process. Additionally, every one of iHeartMedia’s stations maintains a public file that is accessible online.
Our Values

Our values serve as a roadmap for the company and for our employees, and help us achieve our business goals while creating a company culture that sets the tone for how we operate.

OUR VALUES

Listen To & Consider Dissent
We should never feel uneasy about (politely, please) expressing dissenting opinions as we develop new products, services and processes. Dissent forces us to examine possible flaws; we want to find the holes we need to plug to make the new ideas or existing products even better, and dissenters tell us where to look.

Innovation & Curiosity
We are always in search of new ideas. Our success is built on continuing to foster new ideas and new insights. We need to be constantly looking further — driven by curiosity.

Take Risks & Tolerate Well-Thought-Out Mistakes
Mistakes are the byproduct of innovation, and mistakes made in the pursuit of new ideas are inevitable. If we’re afraid to make mistakes, we will never take the chances necessary to achieve truly breakthrough ideas. When we invariably do make a mistake, it’s critical to spot it quickly — and then change or fix it as soon as we can.

Chaos is OK
As we develop new ideas, they’re often so new and different that they don’t yet have a structure around them. And new ideas are our lifeblood.

Honesty & Integrity
The only way to be great is to be reliable and the only way to make great decisions is to base them on truth. We must base everything we do, both internally and externally, on honesty and integrity. Respect... Everyone
We should treat everyone as we’d like to be treated.

Collaboration, Transparency & Precise Communications
Working as a team is always more powerful. Except for information we must keep confidential for competitive or legal reasons, let’s be transparent about what we’re doing. Take the time to use precise communications so that everyone will know what they need to do and why.

Urgency Wins & Quick Decisions
We need to make decisions as soon as we have enough information, not wait until we have “all the information.” Everything is better done sooner. This should be a competitive advantage.

Look to Make a Difference
Our stations and our company are integral parts of their local communities, as are each of us. We should remember that, even as we work to make our company stronger, we must think about what we can do to make our communities stronger, both on-air and off.
Community Outreach

Our presence in, and responsiveness to, our communities enables us to deliver on our mission to give everyone in America a friend whenever they need one – especially in times of need.

Serving all of our communities across America is the core of what we do, and we place great emphasis on serving the neighborhoods and communities in which we live and work through our diverse portfolio of platforms and assets – broadcast, digital, podcasts, personalities, influencers, social, live events and more. iHeartMedia is dedicated to inspiring and creating positive change that improves the lives of others. The company’s community programs are built on the idea that through public awareness and education we give Americans enough information for them to make informed decisions around important public issues.

Local Advisory Boards

Local Advisory Boards (LABs) play an integral role in guiding iHeartMedia’s support of the most relevant issues impacting individual communities. iHeartMedia’s LABs bring together community representatives with broad-based expertise. Quarterly meetings serve as a forum for iHeartMedia executives, local communities, government and educational leaders to discuss issues and solutions in an open, collegial environment. The diverse boards in each market carefully monitor public opinion and assist iHeartMedia teams in identifying and implementing projects that enable meaningful public service in each community. For over 15 years, these Local Advisory Boards have improved iHeartMedia’s ability to effectively collaborate with community partners to meet important local needs.

iHeartMedia Communities

iHeartMedia Communities, the community engagement division of iHeartMedia, Inc. launched in 2011, serves to focus the company’s ongoing efforts by adding a layer of resources and commitment to address critical issues affecting the local communities we serve and to streamline all philanthropic commitments, ensuring consistent focus and messaging across all divisions and departments. iHeartMedia Communities amplifies the most pressing concerns facing each local community we serve and adds additional support and focus for stations working to address these local needs.

The company's local and national campaigns primarily fall into these categories: Family & Social Impact, Education & Literacy, Health & Wellness, Music & Arts and Disaster Response.

Family & Social Impact

iHeartMedia addresses topical issues that will spur positive impact in local communities across the country.

Health & Wellness

iHeartMedia continually looks for ways to rally the communities in which we live and work to protect the environment and to conserve energy and natural resources. From Public Service Announcements to local long-form shows and live events, local radio stations use their platforms to inform and educate its audiences and incite action.

Education & Literacy

Education is at the heart of countless critical issues facing many Americans. iHeartMedia Communities are committed to shining a light on the importance of education and literacy by empowering young people to take control of their future; supporting local schools; enabling teachers; and providing the tools and educational services desperately needed in underserved areas of our country.

Music & Arts

iHeartMedia recognizes the power of inspiring creativity and is committed to encouraging society to embrace artistic development within their own neighborhoods. Through an array of local and national programs, we emphasize the importance of art and music education and the benefits of fostering imagination. It is our mission to improve and increase access to the arts across the United States.

Environmental

iHeartMedia works with an array of health-related organizations to bring attention to key health issues while promoting the importance of living an active and safe lifestyle. By addressing specific issues afflicting the U.S. population we hope to improve the overall physical, mental and social well-being of our listeners, employees and those in the communities in which they live.
Disaster Assistance and Response Plan

iHeartMedia plays a critically important role in our communities when disasters or traumatic events occur. During these times of crisis iHeartMedia is essential to the lives of local residents, with our broadcast and digital platforms often serving as the sole information source for disrupted areas — providing news and critical information on everything from storm updates and evacuation routes to food banks, rescue and medical care. Because emergency broadcasting is an important element of iHeartMedia’s role in local communities, we have implemented a significant “Disaster Assistance and Response Plan,” which includes reserves of radio transmitters, emergency power generators and other news-gathering equipment positioned in locations around the country ready to travel — before, during and after disaster strikes — to impacted communities as needed. This ensures that we are able to stay on the air and deliver critical news and information to impacted areas during the most damaging hurricanes and other natural disasters. We are dedicated to continually improving our innovative procedures around disaster response efforts to ensure that our stations are ready to react at all times and can continue to serve the listeners and communities that depend on us.

First Informers: iHeartMedia Emergency Response Team

iHeartMedia has forged a deep and ongoing partnership with FEMA, which recognizes that in times of emergency, there is no more reliable source of information than local radio broadcasters. Pursuant to the “Sandy Act,” iHeartMedia is recognized as an essential service provider and must be afforded access to disaster sites to restore and repair essential services in an emergency or major disaster. By giving broadcast radio stations official status during emergencies, the Sandy Act places iHeartMedia radio stations among a statutorily-select group of “essential service providers” – also known as “First Informers” – for public safety purposes. This statute recognizes the unique and essential role of radio stations in providing critical and often lifesaving information before, during and after man-made and natural disasters.

The iHeartMedia Technical Operations Center (iTOC) and its Emergency Response Team – made up of more than 300 iHeartMedia engineers and team members – monitors operations and coordinates emergency planning and response for the company’s 850+ radio stations across the U.S. to ensure that our local communities can be served even under the most dire circumstances.
Local and Nationwide Emergency Alert and Warning Capabilities

iHeartMedia and FEMA continually partner to improve local and nationwide alert and warning capabilities that are critical when disasters threaten public safety and national security.

AM broadcast radio stations are beacons of information for the public and are often the most listened-to station for news and information, especially during emergencies. Class A AM stations operate at higher power levels and with FCC-mandated interference protections that enable their signals to be received reliably by millions of listeners and at great distances – especially at night, when changes in the ionosphere permit high-power AM signals to travel much farther distances – often hundreds of miles – than is possible during the day. iHeartMedia owns and operates 18 of the country’s Class A AM radio stations and as a result covers most of the United States with these strong signals at night.

FEMA’s Integrated Public Awareness and Warning System (IPAWS) relies heavily on Class A AM radio stations for rapid, nationwide dissemination of emergency information. Seven iHeartMedia Class A AM stations have been designated and specially reinforced by FEMA to serve as Primary Entry Point (PEP) stations to the IPAWS network to provide official emergency alert and warning information to the nation in the event of major emergencies because of their reach and interference protections. FEMA has also designated iHeartMedia’s Premiere Networks for satellite-based redundancy for its PEP emergency warning system.

In 2018, FEMA collaborated with iHeartMedia to initiate an important PEP station modernization project at iHeartMedia’s NewsRadio 700 WLW-AM in Cincinnati, Ohio to improve alert and warning capabilities of FEMA’s Class A AM PEP stations. WLW-AM is the second station in the country to complete the upgrade, which includes specialized sheltering capabilities, expanded broadcast transmission capacity, and sustainable power generation to withstand virtually all types of hazardous events.

iHeartIMPACT is a new philanthropic division of iHeartMedia that harnesses the power of advertising and channels it into tangible social change; utilizing media dollars to support nonprofit organizations globally. Our mission is to improve the quality of life for millions of Americans by leveraging advertising dollars to positively impact the communities in which we live and work.

Corporate Culture of Inclusion

Prioritizing Diverse Programming & Inclusive Workforce

At iHeartMedia, Inc. inclusion is key to our success. Serving 91% of the population monthly means that we reach and serve almost every community in America, and we need that same diverse representation guiding our company decisions. Inclusion is about letting people in – and eliminating barriers that may keep people out. Inclusion is also about people working together, creating solutions for our many programming and advertising partners across our multi-media assets.

iHeartMedia is committed to cultivating diversity throughout our company. We strive to create an inclusive culture which includes and supports gender identity, sexual orientation, race, ethnicity, religion, socioeconomic background, age, disability and more – a culture that reflects the diversity of the many audiences we serve.

It is our mission to foster and embrace a culture that empowers our employees of all backgrounds at every level of our company to grow through creativity, curiosity and constant innovation in our ever-changing industry.

Workforce Diversity

Creating an inclusive organizational culture is a key goal at iHeartMedia and is closely aligned with our business objectives. Workforce diversity, when defined as inclusion, drives a commitment to embrace our differences while creating solutions which serve both our partners and our listeners. We embrace those differences, and consider them to be one of our greatest strengths.

We are dedicated to attracting and developing an inclusive and talented workforce that will create and deliver a broad spectrum of content for our diverse audiences across our multiple platforms and live events. We encourage company-wide input as part of our company's key organizational values, and continually provide opportunities for our team members to offer recommendations, insights and key learnings, as these are often representations of the diverse communities in which we live and work. We also value and ask for employee feedback when making creative and strategic business decisions.

Diversity in Radio Programming

iHeartMedia seeks quality radio programming that appeals to the interests and views of all of our listeners, and we believe in delivering a lineup of on-air personalities that represents the diversity, opinions and perspectives of our many audiences. Our company purpose is to connect people through companionship and compelling storytelling, and the main way that we do that is through our personalities -- all of whom represent the specific communities they serve. As a company we celebrate the opinions and differences that make our world unique, and the common element at all of our local stations is that our personalities are relatable and understand the specific interests and concerns of the people they are connecting with.

Diversity in Live Events

iHeartMedia produces over 20,000 local events every year that represent the diverse communities we serve. Additionally, iHeartMedia’s nationally produced tentpole concerts are a representation of the collective audiences we reach. In fact, the main purpose of the annual iHeartRadio Music Festival is to bring together the most diverse group of artists and fans across all genres of music to unite around their common passion — music.

Focus on Veterans

For the last eight years, iHeartMedia has been committed to addressing veteran unemployment and employment retention. To address the national veteran unemployment crisis, iHeartMedia launched the largest public service campaign in its history — iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes, which helps returning veterans find jobs. As a company, we also actively recruit and aim to hire veterans, as we recognize their highly-specialized skills and training.

Additionally, iHeartMedia also participates in the Air Force’s Education with Industry (EWI) program. Through first-hand experience, the chosen officer will gain an understanding of iHeartMedia’s organizational structures, management methods, technology, operational methods and leadership perspectives.

Lastly, for the last two years iHeartMedia has produced iHeartCountry One Night For Our Military — an intimate performance for our military at the iHeartRadio Theater in Los Angeles, California. The country show is also broadcast across iHeartMedia’s Mainstream Country radio stations on Veteran’s Day.
Employee Training & Compliance

At iHeartMedia we invest in employee training and compliance programs that give our employees the tools and information needed to make better decisions and to work more collaboratively as a team. Every iHeartMedia employee must engage in a series of extensive training modules throughout the year that include anti-harassment training, code of conduct and business ethics.

Anti-Harassment Policy

iHeartMedia is committed to providing a work environment that is free of harassment. The Company prohibits all forms of harassment against applicants and employees based on any legally recognized basis, including, but not limited to: race, color, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, religion, physical or mental disability, pregnancy, ethnicity, national origin or ancestry, marital status, veteran status, uniformed service member status, genetic information or any other legally protected classification or status in accordance with applicable federal, state and local laws. All such harassment is prohibited.

Our anti-harassment policy applies to all persons involved in our operations and prohibits harassing conduct by any employee of iHeartMedia, including nonsupervisory employees and supervisors. This policy also protects employees from prohibited harassment by third parties, such as vendors, clients or contractors.

Complaint Procedure

iHeartMedia expects that all employees conduct themselves professionally and appropriately and takes all reports of discrimination and harassment very seriously. Any employee who believes that he or she has been subjected to prohibited harassment, discrimination or retaliation by a co-worker, supervisor, agent, client, vendor or customer of iHeartMedia, or who is aware of such harassment, discrimination or retaliation of others is strongly encouraged to report such incidents.

Discipline

After a report is received, a thorough and objective investigation will be undertaken. If a complaint of prohibited harassment or discrimination is substantiated, appropriate corrective action, up to and including suspension and/or termination of employment, will be taken.
Improving the Lives of Others

Radio is synonymous with community. It is our employees’ passion and dedication that drive our success and build our communities and help make the world better for us and future generations.

We work to serve our communities through music, information and companionship and hire people who are effective communicators and share our purpose of improving the lives of children and families across the U.S. through our airwaves and other platforms.

We employ thousands of people across America who have dedicated their careers to serving the public — donating millions of volunteer hours annually, helping to raise billions of dollars for a countless number of organizations and remaining on the front line when natural disasters occur.

Of the many strengths that iHeartMedia possesses, none is more valuable than our people. The commitment of our employees to serving the people in the communities in which they live and work is at the heart of our company.

iHeartMedia Disaster Relief Fund

In times of greatest need, our employees act as first responders -- often leaving their homes and living in studios for days, sometimes with family members, and with limited food and rest, to serve their listeners and communities at times when it is needed most. Our team’s efforts during disasters truly highlight the commitment of our people and our company to the communities they serve.

iHeartMedia established the iHeartMedia Disaster Relief Fund in 2005 to aid the families of our own team members who are impacted by natural disasters. The Fund is available to support iHeartMedia employees who require assistance as the result of a declared natural disaster, such as a tornado, flood, earthquake or hurricane.
Local Spirit Day of Service

We believe that we have a profound obligation to help shape the way our entire company — from our markets to individual stations and talent across our multiple platforms interacts, educates and connects with the public and we have made it a company priority to use our reach into communities, our unparalleled connection to our listeners and our broad array of assets to positively touch the lives of others. Every full-time iHeartMedia employee receives one additional paid leave day each calendar year to volunteer at an organization of their choosing.

Public Service Announcement Oversight

iHeartMedia will only support charities and other non-profit organizations that:

- Are not involved in the abuse of human rights
- Do not have employment policies or practices that discriminate on grounds of race, sex, creed, sexual orientation, religion, gender, disability or age
- Do not discriminate unfairly in the allocation of their support according to race, creed, sexual orientation, religion, gender, disability or age

- Fully disclose all relevant corporate and personal conflicts of interest
Environmental

Protecting the Future of Our Planet

At iHeartMedia our commitment to the environment spans every area of our business and we are continually looking for ways to reduce our environmental footprint at our stations, executive headquarters and at our live events, and to model the proper behaviors for our employees. Additionally, we support of number of nonprofit organizations that are changing the world by helping solve pressing issues facing our planet.

Greener Offices/Studios

⊲ iHeartMedia executive offices are LEED certified.

⊲ LED REFIT: iHeartMedia routinely conducts opportunity assessments to reduce electricity usage. In 2020, iHeartMedia will begin replacing fluorescent lighting with LED lighting across its facilities to reduce power consumption and ultimately long-term waste output.

⊲ MDCL: iHeartMedia has implemented the use of MDCL technology which allows broadcasters to reduce the power consumption in radio transmitters during periods of low audio activity or silence -- resulting in a 25% reduction in electricity consumption.

⊲ We are working to reduce the number of studios that we construct. That results in lower construction cost as well as reduced cooling and power needs which of course results in lower power consumption. Additionally, when we build or renovate existing studios we take measures to minimize our environmental footprint.

iHeartRadio Earth

In 2020, iHeartMedia launched iHeartRadio Earth, a long-term sustainability initiative designed to inspire iHeart’s millions of listeners to take action to positively impact the environment. iHeartRadio Earth was developed in partnership with the National Environmental Education Foundation and VolunteerMatch and was designed to sharpen the company’s focus on sustainability with the goal of increasing listeners’ knowledge of simple actions they can take every day to help the environment. The campaign is rooted in the belief that millions of small actions have the potential to make a massive difference for the environment.

Human Environment – Transmitters

⊲ Every year we evaluate the effect of emissions from our FCC-regulated transmitters on the quality of the human environment. While at this time there are no federally-mandated radio frequency exposure standards, iHeartMedia complies with several non-government organizations which have all issued recommendations for human exposure to RF electromagnetic fields.

ABOUT IHEARTMEDIA, INC.

iHeartMedia, Inc. is one of the leading global media and entertainment companies specializing in radio, digital, mobile, live events, social and on-demand entertainment and information services for local communities and providing premier opportunities for advertisers.
EXECUTIVE LETTER

As the leading audio company in America, iHeartMedia’s purpose is to serve our communities across the nation through the power of audio, using our multiple platforms and diverse content to connect with our listeners – providing companionship, compelling storytelling and information wherever they want to find us. Radio itself is synonymous with community, and iHeart’s community outreach and engagement efforts are authentically tied to our business purpose and embedded in every aspect of our corporate culture.

iHeartMedia has been at the forefront of defining the role community plays in corporate America for decades and we are proud to work with like-minded organizations which also use their resources and platforms to address the most pressing issues facing our country. In 2018, we focused heavily on cross-company collaboration as an opportunity to make the biggest impact, continually seeking opportunities to bring together the most innovative and diverse companies, celebrities and nonprofit organizations to work toward a common goal. For example, in response to the nation’s opioid epidemic, iHeartMedia teamed up with WPP, a creative transformation company, to form the National Opioid Action Coalition (NOAC), an initiative focused on reducing stigma as a barrier to addiction prevention, treatment and recovery. We also continued to serve on the Together for Safer Roads Coalition and became a founding member of the Civic Culture Coalition, which powered a nonpartisan movement aimed to create a cultural shift around voting and civic engagement. It is our goal to both inform and inspire our people and our audiences by working with others to make positive and lasting change.

In addition, iHeartMedia plays a critically important role in our communities when disasters or traumatic events occur. In fact, iHeartMedia is recognized by FEMA as a First Responder, an essential service provider that must be afforded access to disaster sites to restore and repair essential services in an emergency or major disaster. There were instances in 2018 when iHeartMedia was the sole media provider during a major natural disaster.

iHeartMedia uses its unparalleled reach and consumer connection to create positive change that improves the lives of others. As the only true multiplatform audio company, we have a unique opportunity to deliver on our mission to give everyone in America a friend whenever they need one – especially in times of need. Our listeners give us a vital window through which we can view the issues and concerns that affect our diverse audiences and communities, and the power of our broadcast radio enables our 850+ local stations to respond in real time to address the specific needs of their communities.

We are also committed to building on longstanding existing partnerships that will spur positive impact in local communities across the country. For example, we are proud to have worked with 9/11 Day for the last 8+ years to encourage our listeners to remember the 9/11 victims, first responders, and members of the military through acts of service. While it has been nearly two decades since 9/11, we believe it is important to continually highlight the role of community service to those who were impacted by 9/11 and are proud to have aided in reaching the +30 million Americans who paid tribute this year alone.

The following pages of this year’s Community Impact Report highlight just a few of the important initiatives iHeartMedia – our people and stations across the country – diligently invested our resources in to help find solutions that improve the lives of others and help communities in need. We look forward to building on these efforts and introducing new programs and initiatives that inspire and engage others to join in and participate.
COMMITMENT TO COMMUNITY

iHeartMedia plays a critically important role in our communities when disasters or traumatic events occur. During these times of crisis iHeartMedia is essential to the lives of local residents, with our broadcast and digital platforms often serving as the sole information source for disrupted areas — providing news and critical information on everything from storm updates and evacuation routes to food banks, rescue and medical care.

iHeartMedia and all of its broadcast radio stations are dedicated to inspiring and creating positive change that improves the lives of others. The company’s community programs are built on the idea that through public awareness and education we can drive attention and action to bring deeper understanding of both world issues and individual community matters. In 2018, iHeartMedia supported thousands of local and nonprofit organizations nationwide and raised hundreds of millions of dollars for critical issues both in the United States and globally. The following pages showcase some of the most impactful national programs of the year.
The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has a vital mission: To secure the nation from the threats we face. Informed, alert communities play a critical role in keeping our nation safe. iHeartMedia has been a key media platform to launch new creative from DHS’s “If You See Something, Say Something®” public awareness campaign.

“If You See Something, Say Something®” is a national campaign that raises public awareness of the indicators of terrorism and terrorism-related crime, as well as the importance of reporting suspicious activity to state and local law enforcement.

In late 2017 and through 2018, iHeartMedia ran a series of PSAs across all radio stations that reminded listeners not to take for granted the routine moments in their everyday lives, like going to work or school, the grocery store or the gas station, and if they see something that they know shouldn’t be there or someone’s behavior that doesn’t seem quite right – say something. Because only you know what’s supposed to be part of your everyday.

Additionally, DHS’s “If You See Something, Say Something®” message was highlighted at select live events throughout the year, including the entire 2018 iHeartRadio Jingle Ball tour and the 2018 iHeartRadio Music Festival.

In 2017, 3,166 people were killed in motor vehicle crashes involving distracted drivers. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), during daylight hours, approximately 481,000 drivers are using cell phones while driving. That creates enormous potential for deaths and injuries on U.S. roads. Teens were the largest age group reported as distracted at the time of fatal crashes. For the third consecutive year, iHeartMedia teamed up with the Ad Council to prevent texting and driving in partnership with Project Yellow Light, a national PSA contest and scholarship program.

iHeartMedia helped bring attention to the dangers of texting and driving by supporting the seventh annual Project Yellow Light contest, which was created by the family of Hunter Garner to honor his memory after his death in a car crash at age 16. The contest called upon high school and college students to submit PSAs to help raise awareness among their peers about the dangers of distracted driving. The contest allowed students to create their own radio, outdoor and television PSAs with the chance to win a scholarship and have their radio creative turned into a national PSA that would be distributed across the U.S. through iHeartMedia.

The 2018 Project Yellow Light radio winners were high school student Sarah Pearce (Jonesboro, GA) and college student Virginia Stephens (Green Cove Springs, FL), each of whom received $2,000 and had their radio creative aired nationally across iHeartMedia broadcast radio stations.

Project Yellow Light is thrilled to be entering our third year of a partnership with iHeartMedia. As our project grows, so does our reach in spreading the message against distracted driving; iHeartMedia and our radio contest play a big part not only in that growth, but in helping us save lives.”

Heart disease is the leading cause of death for both men and women in the United States. Every year, one in three deaths are caused by cardiovascular disease. The good news? Heart disease can often be prevented when people make healthy choices and manage their health conditions. Over the last seven years, iHeartMedia has committed nearly $4.8 million in on-air media to help educate the public on the signs and risk factors associated with heart disease and stroke as part of its collaboration with the American Heart Association and in support of American Heart Month.

Education is key to raising awareness about heart disease, its signs and symptoms and its impact as the number one killer of women and leading cause of death overall. Because both older and younger audiences are critical to changing the long-term heart disease outcome, iHeartMedia tailored its annual American Heart Month campaign to address the unique issues associated with both male and female audiences of all ages.

From February 2 through February 28, 2018, iHeartMedia hosted a month-long PSA campaign that included a series of five spots across select radio stations to educate listeners about the risks associated with uncontrolled high blood pressure, which often leads to stroke, heart attack or death, and offered information on how to regulate blood pressure. During the same timeframe, iHeartMedia’s female-targeted stations launched an educational campaign to raise awareness of heart disease and its specific impact on women as part of the Go Red For Women movement. The PSAs recognized that more women than men die every year from heart disease and stroke, but that 80 percent of cardiac events can be prevented with education and lifestyle changes.

“We are grateful for iHeartMedia’s support of the American Heart Association’s mission to be a relentless force for a world of longer, healthier lives. The continued collaboration between our two organizations allows millions of iHeartMedia’s listeners to learn how they can improve their heart health and decrease their personal risk for heart disease and stroke.”

48 million women are at risk or living with heart disease. For the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia teamed up with WomenHeart: The National Coalition for Women with Heart Disease to call attention to the very specific symptoms that women experience during a heart attack and to promote heart health screenings across the country.

During the month of February, iHeartMedia helped increase awareness about heart disease in females and encouraged women to take control of their heart health, as heart disease is the leading cause of death in women – killing more women than all cancers combined. All female-focused iHeartMedia stations ran a PSA highlighting that women often experience different heart attack symptoms than men. The entire campaign was centered on identifying the signs and symptoms of heart attacks specifically in women; the symptoms included pain in the jaw, neck, back and/or abdomen, nausea and shortness of breath.

Additionally, during the month of October, iHeartMedia’s Spanish-language stations ran a PSA promoting the free bilingual tools and resources available online, as well as helping to recruit bilingual women living with heart disease to attend the 17th Annual WomenHeart Science & Leadership conference at the prestigious Mayo Clinic. The symposium was a free national volunteer training program solely dedicated to empowering women survivors of heart disease and to educating and supporting women with and at risk for heart disease.

WomenHeart supports, educates and advocates on behalf of the 48 million women living with or at risk of heart disease. We work to ensure every woman has equal access to the healthcare they need to live a heart healthy life. Our partnership with iHeartMedia helps us share this important message with women about their greatest health threat. The more women we reach, the more lives we will save.”

In 2018, over 90 firefighters lost their lives in their line of duty. Established in 2008, Fire Family Foundation is committed to providing financial assistance to fire families in need, scholarships and financial education while supporting fire charities nationwide.

For the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia and Jack Daniel’s teamed up for the return of Rise From The Fire, a national effort to raise funds for charities that support communities that have been impacted by fire in partnership with the national nonprofit Fire Family Foundation.

Rise From The Fire highlighted the efforts of national and local community organizations that benefit the fire fighters, fire victims and the fire community. Through a nationwide benefit concert series featuring exclusive performances from surprise headliners, the campaign encouraged consumers to support the cause.

The concert series was part of an effort to generate awareness and raise funds in support of the Fire Family Foundation.

“The Fire Family Foundation is extremely grateful to be the generous recipient of the Rise From the Fire program. Youth violence is a significant public health problem. According to the Center for Disease Control (CDC), homicide is a major leading cause of death for young people between the ages of 15 and 24. iHeartMedia is a longtime partner of the Peace in the Streets Global Film Festival, which showcases young filmmakers from around the world sharing ideas about what peace looks like in their communities.

The Peace in the Streets Global Film Festival is a worldwide program from The Peacemaker Corps — an organization whose mission is to promote peace, tolerance and nonviolent conflict resolution. In one large study, approximately 49% of children in grades 4 - 12 reported being bullied by other students at school at least once during the past month, whereas 31% reported bullying others during that time. In a world where violence is a part of so many young people’s lives, the film festival offers an outlet for youth from the Americas, Africa, Asia and Europe to submit an original one to five minute video that expresses what peace means to them and illustrates how they influence peace and love in their own neighborhoods.

For the last four years, iHeartMedia has played an active role in sharing information about the festival and has aired thousands of PSAs across all of its radio stations to encourage submissions. Additionally, stations have conducted interviews with past festival winners and continue to find innovative ways to empower young people to get involved and participate. The 2018 Peace in the Streets Global Film Festival entries came from communities across the United States, eight countries internationally and four continents worldwide.

This year, the 2018 Peace in The Streets Festival finalists were hosted at iHeartMedia’s executive headquarters in New York City; more than 35 kids and their families gathered for a preview of the winning entries.

Additionally, iHeartMedia participated in the 67th Annual UN DPI NGO Conference at the United Nations in New York City and Jessica King, iHeartMedia’s Vice President of Marketing and Communications, was a panelist for the PeaceMaker Corps workshop discussing the use of technology to help solve global problems.

“We believe that giving young people the tools and platform to have their voices heard and actively participate in making peace at home are the first steps to achieving our mission. iHeartMedia has been an incredible partner and has helped us to reach thousands of young people across the United States that have shared their story and peaceful inspirations by participating in our Festival.”

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY

Housing insecurity touches nearly half of adults at some point in their lives, and currently in the U.S., one in four people are living in sub-standard conditions and could benefit from Habitat for Humanity. The issue of affordable housing continues to rise across our country. In 2018, iHeartMedia again teamed up with Habitat for Humanity International’s spring cause marketing campaign, ‘Home is the Key,’ and served as an official national media partner.

Many local iHeartMedia radio stations are long-time supporters of their respective Habitat for Humanity chapters, but in 2017 and 2018 all iHeartMedia radio stations came together to bring to life Habitat’s unified nationwide ‘Home is the Key’ campaign that opens opportunity for so many more families to have access to decent housing. Through a series of powerful PSAs voiced by families that have directly benefitted from Habitat for Humanity, iHeartMedia discussed the importance of home as a crucial key to a better life. The on-air, digital and live event program also called attention to the critical need for affordable housing across the U.S. and activated consumers to join the cause. Through radio and digital PSAs as well as social media, iHeartMedia encouraged listeners to purchase products that supported the campaign. Additionally, many stations including 107.5 The River in Nashville participated at local campaign events and builds. American singer and songwriter RaeLynn also joined the ‘Home is the Key’ dedication event at the end of April and performed at the event.

“The ‘Home is the Key’ campaign really comes from the view that housing is an invisible crisis in this country. Our partnership with iHeartMedia continues to shine a critical spotlight on the need. It brings communities and people together nationwide to join in the movement for support. As our media partner, iHeartMedia used its incredible platform to help spread the word about ‘Home is the Key’ through public service announcements, social media and participation at our campaign events across America. In 2018, iHeartMedia teamed up with T-Mobile for its Changemaker Challenge to inspire youth activism and to help give today’s youth the tools and resources to change the world for good.

The T-Mobile Changemaker Challenge was a nationwide search focused on finding and supporting trailblazing teens and young adults with big ideas that will create positive, long-lasting change in their communities. During the month of July, iHeartMedia aired a series of PSAs and deployed Seattle-based morning show Carla Marie and Anthony on 106.1 FM to help recruit submissions from youth teams between the ages of 13 and 23 from across the country.

Thirty winning teams were sent to the T-Mobile headquarters in Seattle to kickstart their projects at a two-day intensive Changemaker Lab. Winners also received in-depth mentorship, training and support for turning their revolutionary ideas into reality. The top six CEO picks then returned to T-Mobile headquarters for additional mentorship and to help get their projects launched.

The winning 2018 project ideas ranged from building libraries in underdeveloped countries to distributing excess food to hungry people to facilitating conversations between youth and local law enforcement.

1 billion children worldwide are living in poverty, depriving them of basic needs like food, shelter, safe drinking water, medical care or education. To help address this crisis iHeartMedia has again teamed up with its partner Walgreens in support of Red Nose Day and its mission to end child poverty.

Red Nose Day is a fundraising campaign run by the non-profit organization Comic Relief USA launched in the U.S. in 2015. The annual event harnesses the power of entertainment to raise money and awareness for children living in poverty in America and internationally.

Throughout the seven-week fundraising campaign, iHeartMedia helped drive its listeners to Walgreens and Duane Reade’s 9,000 locations nationwide to purchase the campaign’s iconic Red Noses. One hundred percent of net proceeds from the sale of the Red Noses helped support programs that ensure children in need are safe, healthy and educated, both in America and around the world.

Additionally, iHeartMedia ran a series of PSAs featuring its nationally recognized on-air personalities Ryan Seacrest, Steve Harvey and Bobby Bones and promoted tune-in to NBC’s fourth annual “Red Nose Day Special” on Thursday, May 24, 2018.

“The creativity and generous support of partners like iHeart and Walgreens has helped Red Nose Day’s message reach millions of Americans and engage them in our mission: to end child poverty, one nose at a time. By the end of 2018, Red Nose Day had raised almost $150 million and positively impacted more than 16 million children. The momentum continues to grow, and we are so grateful for all those who’ve helped to make Red Nose Day a success.”

There are no early warning symptoms for prostate cancer, which makes screening critical for all men. For the third consecutive year, iHeartMedia launched a public service campaign in conjunction with the Prostate Cancer Foundation around Father’s Day to raise awareness of the importance of screening and early detection.

The Prostate Cancer Foundation is the world’s leading philanthropic organization funding and accelerating prostate cancer research. During the month of June, and in celebration of Father’s Day, iHeartMedia teamed up with Major League Baseball (MLB) and the Prostate Cancer Foundation to support their annual Home Run Challenge. Now in its 23rd year, the Home Run Challenge encouraged baseball fans to make a pledge — ranging from $0.50 to $1,000 — for every home run hit during all MLB games from June 1 through Father’s Day, June 17.

In support of the program, iHeartMedia ran $2.3 million worth of media across all of its 850 stations and rallied support from some of its best known on-air personalities including Ryan Seacrest, Bobby Bones, Steve Harvey and others — all of whom delivered a tailored message for each radio station format.

“iHeartMedia has played a unique role during the Prostate Cancer Foundation and Major League’s Home Run Challenge campaign to broaden public awareness of the fight against prostate cancer. By elevating critical issues to inspire, energize, and accelerate actions that lead to greater awareness, new therapies, and fewer deaths from prostate cancer, iHeartMedia has been a transformational partner for millions of men and families affected by prostate cancer.”

The Prostate Cancer Foundation (PCF) is the world’s leading philanthropic organization dedicated to funding life-saving prostate cancer research. Founded in 1993, PCF has raised nearly $800 million to support cutting-edge research by 2,200 scientists at 220 leading cancer centers in 22 countries around the world. Nearly every FDA-approved treatment for prostate cancer since 2004 was seeded and supported by PCF. The overall scientific goal of PCF is to cure prostate cancer.
Each day, blood and platelets are needed for accident and burn victims, heart surgery and organ transplant patients, and those receiving treatment for leukemia, cancer or sickle cell disease. However, the blood donor base is shrinking. In fact, over the past few years, new blood donors to the American Red Cross have declined by about 80,000 each year. This is not just a Red Cross trend, but a challenge blood collection organizations face across the country and around the world. This is why iHeartMedia rallied around the American Red Cross Missing Types campaign, an international effort to encourage new blood donors, as well as donors who have not given in years, to give blood.

In support of this critical issue, all iHeartMedia stations aired a series of PSAs encouraging listeners to consider making a blood donation at a Red Cross blood drive. On June 11, and as part of the Missing Types campaign launch, the letters A, B, and O — symbols of the main blood groups — disappeared from corporate logos, brands, social media pages and websites across the US to illustrate the critical role every blood donor plays. iHeartMedia joined the effort and removed the missing letters from the iHeartRadio logo on all its digital and social platforms. On-air personalities amplified the campaign message by locally driving listeners to give blood.

Additionally, iHeartMedia’s corporate office as well as radio stations around the country, hosted American Red Cross blood drives to make it easy for employees to participate in the campaign.

"iHeartMedia’s partnership in this campaign helped us to create much needed awareness and educate the public about the critical need for blood and blood donors. The breadth and depth of their support across formats, geography and demographics propelled the campaign and helped us reach our aggressive goals. We are so grateful for their continued support of our mission."

NO KID HUNGRY

Summer can be the hungriest time of year for kids in need. When schools close, kids lose access to critical programs like school breakfast and lunch. The federal government estimates that 22 million kids eat free or reduced price lunch nationwide during the school year. Only 4 million eat summer meals. That means 6 out of 7 hungry kids don’t get the summer meals they need.

Many barriers stand in the way of children accessing summer meals; meal sites may be far away, hard to get to, or closed due to extreme heat or bad weather. But the biggest obstacle is awareness. Far too many families with hungry kids don’t even know these programs exist. To help solve this problem, iHeartMedia teamed up with No Kid Hungry to promote the campaign’s summer meals texting hotline, which allows children and families to easily and quickly identify open summer meal sites in their area with the use of a cell phone. No Kid Hungry, a national campaign that works to end childhood hunger in America, launched a Summer Meals Texting Program in 2013 and has helped connect children across the country with summer meals. The service is free and open to anyone – no questions asked. To receive information about open summer meals sites, users text ‘FOOD’ to 877-877, and the system prompts the user to provide their address or zip code, which is used to provide the location and service times of up to three nearby summer meal sites.

In 2018, all iHeartMedia radio stations ran public service campaigns promoting the text service to fill the gap for children and families who benefit from school breakfast and lunch programs during the rest of the year. Additionally, select stations discussed the issue live on-air and encouraged local participation.

“Summer break sparks joy for many kids across the country, but it’s a different reality if you’re a kid that lives with hunger. When the school doors close for the year, many lose access to the food they depend on. The summer meals program fills this gap, but far too many families don’t know these programs exist. Thanks to our partnership with iHeartMedia, we were able to raise awareness and reach families who may need these services, or know someone who might.”

Decades of research, tracked and curated by the National Summer Learning Association (NSLA), reveal that summer learning loss constitutes a significant, if largely unrecognized, threat to academic achievement in America. It is primarily during the summer months that tens of millions of American children miss out on quality learning experiences and go backwards academically, causing the achievement and opportunity gaps between the rich and poor to widen.

A growing body of research, however, shows that high-quality summer learning programs can maintain and advance students’ academic and social growth, keep children safe and healthy and send students back to school ready to learn.

For the past several years, iHeartMedia has joined forces with NSLA on a national public service campaign to promote the importance of summer learning and fun. Through a multi-platform awareness campaign, including National Summer Learning Day (National Summer Learning Week in 2019), iHeartMedia aired public service announcements across its more than 850 radio stations nationwide during the month of July. NSLA kicked off the summer learning season with the ringing of the Closing Bell at the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), followed by its annual National Summer Learning Day – an awareness celebration aimed at elevating the importance of keeping all kids learning, safe and healthy every summer, as well as promoting affordable, quality summer enrichment options for families. This important message was aired across iHeartRadio airwaves through PSAs voiced by John Urschel, former guard for the Baltimore Ravens and current doctoral candidate in applied mathematics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT).

As part of National Summer Learning Day, more than 900 celebrations took place in 45 states plus D.C. including a National Read-Aloud of the award-winning book ‘Trombone Shorty’. The book’s acclaimed illustrator and 2016 Caldecott Honor recipient, Bryan Collier, served as the 2018 Summer Learning Ambassador, and library systems in Chicago, King County (WA), Salt Lake City, Sacramento, Nashville, New Orleans and New York served as flagship Summer Learning Day sites for the National Read-Aloud.

“The committed, bold leadership of iHeartMedia is making a tremendous difference in elevating why summers matter for all young people in this country. When we communicate and harness the power of summer our children in every community can grow and thrive.”

Global Citizens can have an impact on ending extreme poverty through the actions they take. Each year, Global Citizen Festival brings together music fans and activists to spread awareness and help advocate for necessary change to help make the world a better place. For the fifth consecutive year, iHeartMedia was a media partner and played an instrumental role in promoting the event both in NYC and across the U.S. leading up to the event through on-air and digital PSAs, as well as ticket giveaways and contesting.

On Saturday, September 29, 2018, Janet Jackson, The Weeknd, Shawn Mendes, Cardi B, Janelle Monáe and special guest John Legend took the stage in NYC for the Global Citizen Festival. iHeartMedia broadcast the festival live from Central Park on over 150 radio stations across the U.S. and streamed it on the iHeartRadio app, as Global Citizen’s exclusive audio media partner for the seventh consecutive year in a row.

Additionally, coinciding with the annual UN General Assembly meetings was Global Citizen’s “Mandela 100” campaign which honored the life and legacy of Nelson Mandela in his centenary year. On December 2, 2018, The Global Citizen Festival Mandela 100 concert took place in Johannesburg, South Africa and featured a lineup of stars including Beyoncé, JAY-Z, Ed Sheeran, Eddie Vedder, Pharrell Williams, Chris Martin, Usher, Wizkid, Cassper Nyovest, D’Banj, Femi Kuti, Sho Madjozi, Tiwa Savage and more, which iHeartMedia also broadcasted live.

2018 marked the 17th anniversary of the 9/11 attacks. For the eighth consecutive year, iHeartMedia led listeners nationwide to participate in the September 11th National Day of Service and Remembrance (“9/11 Day”) and to promote national unity, empathy and charitable service on 9/11.

In support of 9/11 Day, iHeartMedia launched a large-scale national and local on-air PSA campaign, encouraging listeners to participate in their own communities by volunteering, donating to charities of their choice or simply making a voluntary pledge to dedicate time to performing good deeds that help people and communities in need. In 2018, iHeartMedia’s local PSAs specifically encouraged listeners to participate in volunteer service projects across the country to support hunger relief. In New York City, 9/11 Day staged a major meal pack event at the Intrepid Sea, Air & Space Museum, docked in the Hudson River. Z100 Morning Show on-air personality Greg T joined the effort where more than 4,000 volunteers packed 850,000+ non-perishable meals for at-risk New Yorkers. Z100 promoted the high-energy charitable event on-air, as well as through social media and digital platforms, encouraging listeners to come together and do good deeds.

"iHeartMedia has played an instrumental role over many years in helping the 9/11 community transform September 11 from a day of tragedy into a day of doing good, as a National Day of Service and Remembrance. In many cities across the nation, market-leading iHeart stations are now partnering with us to establish and promote large-scale volunteer service projects, including in New York City, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Atlanta, St. Louis, Dallas and Chicago. These collaborative efforts help to completely redefine for the better how tens of millions of Americans perceive, remember and observe the anniversary of 9/11. Thanks to the support of hundreds of iHeartMedia outlets across the nation, more than 15 million Americans now observe the anniversary of the 2001 terrorist attacks as a day of service, unity and peace."

9/11 Day is a nonprofit observance that annually inspires tens of millions of Americans to observe the anniversary of the 9/11 attacks as a day of national unity and charitable service. 9/11 Day was originally established in 2002 by the nonprofit MyGoodDeed and the 9/11 community to provide a positive and permanent way to forever remember and pay tribute to the 9/11 victims, rescue and recovery workers, members of our military and others who rose in service in response to the attacks. In 2009, the U.S. Congress formally designated 9/11 as a National Day of Service and Remembrance under federal law. Today 9/11 Day is the nation’s largest annual day of charitable engagement, with tens of millions of Americans dedicating time to helping others in need each year and promote national unity.

As part of the effort, the organization sent teams to Puerto Rico to rebuild roofs and more importantly to teach local men and women carpentry skills through an apprenticeship program so they would have the tangible and empowering skills to rebuild their respective communities in years to come. To help reach the goal of building 100 roofs while teaching local Puerto Ricans construction skills through the apprenticeship program, iHeartMedia aired nearly 20,000 PSAs across all radio stations and activated select social media channels to raise awareness and funding for the cause.

The 2018 National Week of Action took place September 22 – 29th with organized voter registration events throughout the week in large and small cities that were designed to train people to help register their friends, family and neighbors and ensure all those who attended were registered. According to the Corporation for National and Community Service, over 44.6 million female volunteers contribute roughly 3.9 billion hours of service annually. Over the past 13 years, L’Oréal Paris, the #1 global beauty brand, and Points of Light, the world’s largest organization dedicated to volunteer service, have hosted Women of Worth – a year-long platform that elevates the stories of local heroes who represent the passion and spirit of the millions of women across the country who volunteer their time to serve others.

In 2018, iHeartMedia helped expand the reach of Women of Worth by encouraging listeners across the U.S. to nominate a volunteer to be a 2018 Women of Worth Honoree and to receive up to a $10,000 donation for her charity. One honoree was chosen by popular vote and was selected as a National Honoree and received an additional $25,000 donation for her organization.

In addition to receiving financial support for the winning organizations, iHeartMedia provided a platform to celebrate the stories of these women and the impact their service has had within their community. From a U.S. soldier suffering from PTSD who founded a nonprofit organization that serves, honors and empowers military women, veterans and their families, to a teenager tutoring sex-trafficking survivors and women who are tackling youth homelessness, at-risk teens and more, the Women of Worth winners have all improved the lives of others.

CRISIS TEXT LINE

350 million people of all ages around the world are affected by depression. Since its launch in 2013, Crisis Text Line – a free 24/7 support service for those in crisis – has exchanged more than 110 million messages on the platform, 39.6% of which are about depression, 28.4% about suicide and 20% that are received after midnight. Crisis Text Line employs over 4,500 volunteers to answer text messages from people feeling stressed, bullied or otherwise in crisis. From self-harm to romantic relationships, family issues to eating disorders, Crisis Text Line provides an immediate lifeline in the form of text message.

By simply texting 741741 from anywhere in the US, users are quickly connected with trained crisis counselors, all of whom undergo a rigorous multi-stage application process, background check and training program. All conversations are monitored by staff who either have a master’s degree in a relevant field or appropriate crisis intervention experience.

In 2018, Crisis Text Line identified a unique need – how to attract more late-night counselors. To help bridge this gap, iHeartMedia ran a series of PSAs across all its radio stations in overnight media, specifically targeting volunteers who are typically awake late at night and early morning. Additionally, all radio stations ran a series of PSAs informing listeners that this free service is available 24/7.

We’re thrilled to be able to work with iHeartMedia to spread awareness about mental health and the resources available. Together we’ve saved countless lives and supported so many people when they needed it most.”

LOVE HAS NO LABELS

We are living in divisive times. Bias and discrimination are some of the most pressing issues facing our nation today. However, research has showed that there is one moment where biases are eroded and we see incredible stories of people coming together—in times of disaster. In 2018, iHeartMedia teamed up with the Ad Council in support of the Love Has No Labels campaign.

Since its launch in 2015, the goal of the campaign has been to elevate messages of unbiased love to promote acceptance across race, religion, gender, sexuality, ability and age.

In 2018, the campaign released an original short film, RISING – a powerful film that captures the poignant story of a diverse neighborhood coming together in a flood, rising above their differences to support each other in a time of need. The film challenges Americans to consider “Why does it take a disaster to bring us together?” and encourages people to take everyday actions to create a more inclusive community.

In support of the film’s release and the powerful message that Love Has No Labels represents, iHeartMedia promoted the film with messages of support from artists including John Legend and Lukas Graham across stations nationwide. Additionally, iHeartMedia personalities Elvis Duran, Ryan Seacrest and Mario Lopez discussed the campaign on-air and highlighted via their social platforms.

All the PSAs directed audiences to view the film at LoveHasNoLabels.com, which all featured small actions people can take every day to create a more inclusive world and make others feel loved and accepted.

In 2002, roughly 1,500 babies were born every day with HIV. Today that number is down to 500. In an effort to help get that number close to zero, iHeartMedia once again supported (RED) in partnership with Amazon and Crowdrise to help kick off World AIDS Day and the 2018 (RED) SHOPATHON.

For the sixth consecutive year, iHeartMedia partnered with (RED) in the fight to end AIDS and leveraged its broad array of assets — its deep social influence, on-air, digital, live events and the strong relationships talent and on-air personalities have with listeners — to generate excitement for the massive annual (RED) campaign.

In support of the (RED) SHOPATHON and World AIDS Day, iHeartMedia and (RED) secured an exclusive, winnable behind the scenes VIP experience with pop duo Jack & Jack at Y100’s Jingle Ball concert in Miami on December 16, 2018. In addition, iHeartMedia radio stations encouraged listeners to donate to (RED), bid on the experience on Crowdrise or shop (RED) at Amazon.com.

Following the launch event, iHeartMedia continued to promote the (RED) SHOPATHON for the entire month of December.

“(RED) is always so grateful to iHeartMedia for supporting this key World AIDS Day campaign by engaging their broad audiences around the fight to end AIDS. From the winnable experience with Jack & Jack to airtime promotion urging people to shop (RED) during the holidays, the team at iHeart once again brought to bear their reach and scale in 2018.”

According to the Connecticut Hospital Association, each year an estimated three million children are hospitalized in the United States. The Ryan Seacrest Foundation (RSF) contributes positively to the healing process of these children by building broadcast media centers in hospitals across the country—providing a respite for children and families being treated. iHeartMedia is committed to helping further the mission of the Foundation.

The Ryan Seacrest Foundation builds broadcast media centers, named Seacrest Studios, in pediatric hospitals for patients to explore the creative realms of radio, television and new media. There are now studios in ten cities across the United States including Atlanta, Philadelphia, Dallas, Orange County, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Denver, Boston, D.C. and Nashville.

iHeartMedia supports the amazing work of the Ryan Seacrest Foundation in a variety of ways throughout the year, including providing national engineering & programming support and executing national and local fundraising programs.

For the sixth consecutive year, the foundation was named the official charity partner for select iHeartRadio Jingle Ball Tour concert cities, and iHeartMedia donated $1 from every ticket sold to the Ryan Seacrest Foundation in addition to donating a variety of exclusive, once-in-a-lifetime packages sold via online charity auction. Local radio stations also took an active role in routing artists and celebrities to nearby Seacrest Studios throughout the year and launched a variety of fundraising campaigns including online auctions.

"The Ryan Seacrest Foundation is grateful for its long-standing partnership with iHeartMedia and honored to have been the beneficiary of the 2018 Jingle Ball Tour. As many as 1.5 million people in the United States have lupus, which is most often diagnosed in young women, between the ages of 15 and 44. iHeartMedia has been a longtime supporter of the Lupus Research Alliance and a champion of Walk with Us to Cure Lupus, the Lupus Research Alliance’s national fundraising program.

Lupus is an autoimmune disease – in which your immune system attacks healthy cells by mistake – that can damage many parts of the body. There is no known cure for lupus, but available treatments can help. The Lupus Research Alliance is the largest private sector organization dedicated to advancing lupus research.

Through the Lupus Research Alliance’s Walk with Us to Cure Lupus program, thousands of community members came together to raise money to fund innovative research programs that will help lead to new treatments for the disease and one day a cure. For the past seven years, iHeartMedia radio stations have helped bring awareness for the disease through on-air media support and heavily support the annual walk events in many markets. In 2018, multiple iHeartMedia radio stations in South Florida, California, Massachusetts, Illinois, Texas, New York and Maryland participated in the live events, providing music and entertainment at the walks and coverage on-air.

Additionally, iHeartMedia helps the Lupus Research Alliance fundraise every year by providing VIP tickets to events like the iHeartRadio Jingle Ball and iHeartRadio Music Festival for the Alliance’s donors.

“iHeartMedia has been a tremendous partner for the lupus community, and we deeply appreciate their generosity. Their support greatly boosts awareness for lupus, encouraging people to talk to their doctor about possible signs of the disease and helping raise funds for the most promising research.”

iHeartMedia has helped shape the way in which media interacts, educates and connects with the public. Each year iHeartMedia makes a company-wide commitment beyond media or financial support to address a specific issue or cause, and in 2018, the company reacted to a number of timely and relevant concerns.

In 2018, iHeartMedia teamed up with the DEA to address the national opioid epidemic by promoting safe and local prescription drop-off locations; its campaign yielded the most drug take-backs in the agency's history.

The company also continued to address the national veteran unemployment crisis with the largest public service campaign in its history – iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes, which helps returning veterans find jobs, and continued its efforts as the founding member of Together for Safer Roads, a coalition to create safer roads for future generations both in the U.S and globally.

In addition, iHeartMedia granted holiday wishes for a number of families in local communities across America through its 10th annual “Granting Your Christmas Wish” program; and supported Stand Up 2 Cancer and its efforts towards more collaborative cancer research.
According to the National Cancer Institute an estimated 1.7 million new cases of cancer were projected to be diagnosed in the United States during 2018. For its first-ever digital live show, iHeartMedia teamed up with Stand Up To Cancer, a division of the Entertainment Industry Foundation that is built on the belief that collaboration among teams of researchers is the most effective approach in the fight against cancer.

In 2018, Stand Up To Cancer launched “It’s #Up2Us: Stand Up To Cancer | The Digital Live Show,” a one-hour standalone digital event that streamed live on iHeartRadio’s social media platforms, and Stand Up To Cancer’s Facebook, Twitter and YouTube from the Barker Hangar in Santa Monica. In an effort to empower a new generation to Stand Up to cancer, this first-of-its-kind show was co-hosted by Max Greenfield, Tyler Posey, and Brenda Song, and featured influencers and stars from digital, TV, film and music. iHeartRadio personality JoJo Wright was also featured within the show where he spoke about testicular cancer and the importance of self-examination in men.

The Digital Live Show, which aired one hour prior to the live television broadcast, further amplified the 2018 telecast and highlighted Stand Up To Cancer’s 10 years of impact, underscoring the measurable progress the organization has made in cancer research during its first decade.

Additionally, several weeks leading up to the broadcast event, iHeartMedia launched an on-air and online campaign across its more than 850 radio stations and websites and on iHeartRadio.com, designed to build awareness and funding for cancer research and drive tune-in to Stand Up To Cancer’s telecast and Digital Live Show.

“We are so grateful for iHeartMedia’s long-time support, and this unique, stand-alone digital event helped us greatly extend SU2C’s reach as we continue to encourage younger generations to join us in our global mission of making everyone diagnosed with cancer a survivor. By hearing the stories of inspiration, hope and courage on this broadcast, we hope more and more people worldwide were and will continue to be empowered to stand up, and make a real difference in the fight against cancer.”

Stand Up To Cancer (SU2C) raises funds to accelerate the pace of research to get new therapies to patients quickly and save lives now. SU2C, a division of the Entertainment Industry Foundation (EIF), a 501(c)(3) charitable organization, was established in 2008 by film and media leaders who utilize the industry’s resources to engage the public in supporting a new, collaborative model of cancer research, and to increase awareness about cancer prevention as well as progress being made in the fight against the disease. Under the direction of our Scientific Advisory Committee, led by Nobel Laureate Phillip A. Sharp, Ph.D., SU2C operates rigorous, competitive review processes to identify the best research proposals to recommend for funding, oversee grants administration, and ensure collaboration across research programs.

Current members of the SU2C Council of Founders and Advisors (CFA) include Katie Couric, Sherry Lansing, Lisa Paulsen, Rusty Robertson, Sue Schwartz, Pamela Oas Williams, Ellen Ziffren, and Kathleen Lobb. The late Laura Ziskin and the late Noreen Fraser are also co-founders. Sung Poblete, PhD, RN, has served as SU2C’s president and CEO since 2011.
According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the annual veteran unemployment rate declined to 3.5% in 2018 — the lowest level since 2000. While this a great improvement over previous years, there are still millions of veterans entering a period of unemployment upon transition. Now in its seventh year, iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes remains committed to addressing veteran unemployment and employment retention – encouraging businesses to hire and retain skilled veterans.

iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes – with the tagline “Hire Smart – Hire Vets” – is iHeartMedia’s long-term effort to help guide veterans back into civilian life by highlighting their valuable training and experience. Since the program’s launch, iHeartMedia has invested well over $180 million in radio, digital and out-of-home resources to highlight the skills brought home by returning servicemen and women and their value to employers in the workplace – making iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes the largest and longest-running public service program in the company’s history.

A series of over 200 PSAs have run in support of the program since launch and includes testimonials from real-life veterans, success stories from large and small businesses that have benefitted from hiring veterans, and encouragement and personal anecdotes on the importance of hiring veterans from some of the biggest artists and political leaders in the world, including First Lady Michelle Obama, Dr. Jill Biden, Elton John, John Legend, Kelly Clarkson, Carrie Underwood, Brad Paisley, Ryan Seacrest, Mario Lopez, Trace Adkins, Krewella, Adam Lambert, Flo Rida, LL Cool J and many more.

In 2018, iHeartMedia reinvented the successful showyourstripes.org – a centralized, easy-to-use destination for veterans, businesses and supporters. The new and improved website was launched in partnership with Career One Stop, the flagship career, training and job search website for the U.S. Department of Labor and provides veteran users with access to military-friendly jobs while also easily directing them to physical American Job Centers. The Job Centers offer free one-on-one counseling, job search workshops, free computer access, and more. Additionally, the website features the most relevant and timely resources to help veterans successfully transition into the civilian workforce.

iHeartMedia radio stations continually participate in regional, veteran focused career fairs and events which are supported via on-air and on-site promotion. The campaign leveraged social media and digital platforms including iHeartRadio’s Facebook and Twitter followers; individual radio stations’ social platforms; local station Facebook accounts; and partner social sites.

“The statistics on veterans’ employment have been positively impacted because of iHeartMedia’s Show Your Stripes campaign. The fact is that Show Your Stripes is having an impact because it’s building public awareness, it’s encouraging community involvement, and it’s promoting those opportunities that are local. That understanding has made a positive difference on the employment opportunities for our veterans and military families.”

Each year, the International Day of Peace is observed around the world on September 21. The United Nations General Assembly has declared this as a day devoted to strengthening the ideals of peace globally. In 2018, iHeartMedia teamed up with singer-songwriter, poet and producer Mike Posner and the DNA testing company 23andMe to spread a special message of love and unity in honor of the United Nations’ International Peace Day in association with non-profit organization Peace One Day.

Through initiatives and collaborations, Peace One Day encourages organizations and individuals to reduce violence at home, in the workplace, at school, in our communities and towards our environment.

During the iHeartRadio Music Festival in Las Vegas on September 21, iHeartMedia unveiled a powerful video montage of top artists performing an original Peace Day piece written by Mike Posner. The powerful poem urged fans to put their differences aside for peace. iHeartRadio Music Festival performers including Mariah Carey, Carrie Underwood, Kygo, Logic, 5 SOS, Belly and others as well as Nick Jonas, Troye Sivan, Dinah Jane and more lent their voices to this special moment.

The campaign’s main goal was to inspire people to come together as one for peace. In the video, the stars share how everyone — regardless of their differences — experiences happiness, sadness, laughter and gloom and pledged to make peace with someone and asked everyone watching to join. Collectively, each celebrity explained that despite our differences, at our core, we are all the same — and 23andMe also reflects this message, scientifically proving that all humans are 99.5 percent identical on the inside. Only .5 percent makes us unique.

Fans at The Daytime Village at the iHeartRadio Music Festival also shared personal messages of peace, and some of which were featured in a special episode of spit - a iHeartRadio and 23andMe podcast that explores how DNA testing gives us a new perspective on who we are and how we are all connected.

"It’s a call to action for the artists and the people around the world to show more love, more understanding and more compassion. The folks at iHeartRadio, 23andMe, they’re busy enough throwing a huge festival, running a huge company. For them to take time out to create this moment celebrating peace is really beautiful. All the artists who have participated in this message for peace are all very busy artists. There’s no shortage of people asking them to do stuff. I just feel proud to be a part of that team.”

PEACE ONE DAY
peaceoneday.org

Founded in 1999 by Jeremy Gilley, Peace One Day is a non-profit organization that successfully led the campaign which resulted in the unanimous adoption by United Nations Member States of the first ever ‘Peace Day’ – an annual day of global ceasefire and non-violence with a fixed calendar date: 21 September. Peace One Day’s track record demonstrates a unique ability to achieve remarkable brand partnerships and penetration that include some of the most famous multinational corporations, A-list celebrities and political influencers on the planet.

In 2016 it is estimated that 2.2 billion people were exposed to the Peace Day message, 940 million were fully aware of the day, resulting in around 16 million behaving more peacefully (McKinsey & Co).

Peace One Day has held major music celebrations, from London’s Wembley Arena (Elton John) to Goma in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (Akon). Since 2007, Peace One Day’s efforts in Afghanistan have led to the immunization against polio of over 4.5 million children, due to Peace Day agreements in the country.
GRANTING YOUR CHRISTMAS WISH

For the 12th consecutive year, iHeartMedia granted Christmas Wishes to those in need and deserving of a special holiday gift. The 2018 annual “Granting Your Christmas Wish” program attracted over 55,000 entries with wishes ranging from plane tickets to visit family members, toys for children, assistance with bills, family vacations, housing repairs and more.

Beginning November 22 through December 14, 2018, iHeartMedia stations encouraged listeners to share their wish requests via participating radio station websites during its annual “Grant Your Christmas Wish” campaign. All participants were required to submit a short paragraph stating why they should have their wish granted or to nominate someone worthy in their lives. The program was designed to share listeners’ personal stories, with the goal of inspiring non-winners to give back and do something special for their own families or community. All 47 winning entries received a gift of between $2,000 - $4,000.

SAMPLE WISHES

MICHELLE W. – BREAST CANCER SURVIVOR
WISH: ROAD TRIP TO CALIFORNIA
"I have been going through breast cancer treatment for the last year and my best friend has been my everything through this journey. She is always asking what she can do for me – she brings me food and provides emotional support by just letting me know she is there if I need her. Prior to my diagnosis, we talked about taking a road trip to visit her brother in California and to make stops along the way to check out attractions and eateries. However, the road trip has been placed on hold because of my treatment. My Christmas Wish is funding for a road trip to California. As I continue to heal over the next few months it would be nice to have this road trip to look forward to and to be able to provide a special gift to my best friend."

BETHANY B. – COLLEGE STUDENT WISH: MONEY TOWARDS A NEW CAR.
"I moved away from home when I was 17 years old because my parents abused drugs, alcohol and pain medication ever since I could remember. I have been on my own ever since. I now go to the University of North Georgia and my major is Early Childhood Education with a Special Needs certification. While going to school full time, I work 40+ hours a week and juggle three jobs. I bought my car when I was 16 years old on my own and it is completely unreliable these days – I hope it will last me until I graduate! My Christmas Wish is money towards a newer car. Please help in any way you can."

DEBBIE M. - HURRICANE FLORENCE VICTIM
WISH: NEW FURNITURE
"I am wishing for some furniture. We moved to South Carolina about a year ago hoping for an easier life when along came Hurricane Florence. Our one-year-old home was flooded and we lost everything (including 2 cars). With no flood insurance things have been rough. With the help of FEMA and friends and family we have been able to start to rebuild but there is no money left for furniture. My Christmas wish would be to have some new furniture."

KAREN A. – GRANDMOTHER TO AUTISTIC SON
WISH: CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR HER DAUGHTER’S FAMILY
"I would like to do something nice for my daughter Holly. When my husband was diagnosed with Alzheimer’s she moved in with her kids to help me. She has struggles of her own; she is a single mom to an adult son who has autism and a 12-year-old. She works 40+ hours a week. She is the most giving and deserving person I know. I would like to see her give her kids a nice Christmas. My Christmas wish is for her to give her kids a beautiful and deserving Christmas – they all deserve it."

JACKIE H. – WILDFIRE VICTIM
WISH: CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR HER CHILDREN
"We’ve had a really tough year. My husband’s business is failing and that has hit us financially. We filed for bankruptcy last month. We also had a flood in our house in October and were evacuated by the California fires in November. So, we’ve been uprooted for a couple of months now. Through it all, my 3 and 6-year-old daughters have stayed happy and are amazing kids. This year, I just want to be able to give my kids the holidays they deserve…but I can’t afford it. I realize others have it worse. We have a roof over our head and food to eat. But I just wish I had some light to give to my kids this year. It’s been hard to stay positive lately.”

RUSSELL G. - EMT & VOLUNTEER
WISH TICKETS TO THE TRANS-SIBERIAN ORCHESTRA FOR HIS SON
“I'm an EMT at a paid service and I also volunteer hundreds of hours with a volunteer squad. No matter how hard we try, my wife and I are living paycheck to paycheck. My wish is simple. We hardly have enough money to get my son a few things for Christmas and we never get each other anything. My son has dreamed of going to see the Trans-Siberian Orchestra. We could never afford it. They are coming to Greensboro soon and I wish we could all go. My Christmas wish would be to have tickets to take him to the show. It would make my son’s Christmas.”

DENISE H. - DAUGHTER OF HURRICANE MICHAEL VICTIM
WISH TICKETS TO THE TRANS-SIBERIAN ORCHESTRA FOR HIS SON
“My Christmas wish is for my 76-year-old mother. She has lost a lot of her possessions during Hurricane Michael. She lives on social security and did not receive much from FEMA to replace her belongings. I would love for her to receive a new bedroom and living room set. She has always been there for her family and we are helping her all we can right now. For her to know she has furniture when she returns to her own place would make her happy and give her something to smile about once again.”

NIKKI S. - DAUGHTER
WISH: SEND HER DAD TO SEE HIS AGING MOTHER.
“My Great Grandma just turned 99 and as much as I would love to go to Texas to visit her I’d LOVE to send my dad to see her. It’s been years since he has been able to return to Texas to see his family, especially my Great Granny. It would be a dream come true to see the look on her face when my dad surprised her at her front door. Time is valuable, and we cherish that she has been here for 99 blissful years. Thank you for considering granting our wishes. Happy Holidays!”
Road crashes are expected to rise to the seventh leading cause of death by the year 2030. Collisions on the world’s roads involving drivers, passengers, pedestrians, and cyclists are rapidly becoming one of this generation’s most pressing global health and development crises, posing grave consequences for life and for economies.

As a founding member of Together for Safer Roads, iHeartMedia is committed to helping communities transform transportation systems into a sustainable, safer source of prosperity—ultimately saving lives. The coalition includes other companies with the knowledge and expertise to improve road safety: AB InBev, AIG, AT&T, Republic Services, Abertis, CalAmp, Ericsson, GM, IBM, Octo Telematics, PepsiCo, Ryder, UPS and Walmart. As a private sector coalition, Together for Safer Roads engages with road users, governments, policymakers and other stakeholders to identify top road safety issues and turn into reality the vision of a world where roads are safer for all people.

As a coalition member, iHeartMedia is focused on helping deliver key messages to its millions of listeners to drive awareness of this prevalent and growing issue and helping to educate the public to be safer road users. In 2018, iHeartMedia produced and aired two new PSAs that focused solely on the consequences of distracted driving and the impact that it has on car crashes and pedestrian fatalities — noting that nearly 300K pedestrians die annually in traffic collisions worldwide — and drivers who use cellphones while driving are four times more likely to be involved in car wrecks.

“TSR’s focus on private sector solutions to save lives on the world’s roads matches the passion and desire from companies to prioritize social good. As a media company dedicated to educating and connecting with the public, it’s humbling to see global companies, such as iHeartMedia, adopt a leadership role to combat road safety challenges and save lives.”

The majority of prescription drug abusers report in surveys that they get their drugs from friends and family. In 2018, iHeartMedia helped The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration surpass their goal to collect 10 million pounds of unused prescription drugs at the 16th National Prescription Take Back Day on October 27, 2018.

The National Prescription Drug Take Back Day Initiative addresses a crucial public safety and public health issue. According to the 2015 National Survey on Drug Use and Health, 6.4 million Americans abused controlled prescription drugs. The study shows that a majority of abused prescription drugs were obtained from family and friends, often from the home medicine cabinet. National Prescription Drug Take Back Day events continue to remove opioids and other medicines from the nation’s homes, where they could be stolen and abused by family members and visitors, including children and teens.

During the 16th semiannual event on October 27, DEA and federal, state and local partners disposed of more than 900,000 pounds of prescription medications collected at nearly 6,000 sites across the country. Together with almost 5,000 local, state and federal partners, DEA collected and destroyed more than 457 tons of potentially dangerous leftover prescription drugs.

For the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia leveraged all its on-air and digital assets to bring attention to the local National Prescription Drug Take Back Day and targeted audiences by behavior, demographic, interest and intent. All efforts drove listeners to DEATakeBack.com and made it easy to find the closest drop-off sites.

“The results of our most recent Take Back Day clearly demonstrate a need for this initiative as a tool in the fight against America’s opioid crisis. The success of this event is a direct reflection of DEA’s commitment to prevent drug addiction and overdose deaths in the U.S. Together, we are all helping to make a difference to keep our friends and families safe.”

THE U.S. DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION (DEA) NATIONAL PRESCRIPTION DRUG TAKE-BACK DAY
deatakeback.com

The mission of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) is to enforce the controlled substances laws and regulations of the United States and bring to the criminal and civil justice system of the United States, or any other competent jurisdiction, those organizations and principal members of organizations, involved in the growing, manufacture, or distribution of controlled substances appearing in or destined for illicit traffic in the United States; and to recommend and support non-enforcement programs aimed at reducing the availability of illicit controlled substances on the domestic and international markets.
In the days after the tragedy at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Florida where 17 students and staffers were killed in a mass shooting on February 14, the young leaders of March For Our Lives took to the streets of Washington, DC and in cities across the country and spurred a national debate on gun violence and the need for new gun reform laws. Their courage to hold elected officials accountable and demand action inspired millions.

During summer 2018, the students embarked on a two-month, nationwide bus tour dubbed March For Our Lives: Road to Change, which made stops across America to get young people educated, registered and motivated to vote. The tour visited 100+ communities in 24+ different states in 63 days. At each stop, the organizers registered young people to vote and shared personal stories with others affected by gun violence.

iHeartMedia radio stations were available to the students in many communities to help spread the word about the local events and to give the students a platform for their voices to be heard. In some markets, the stations were on-site to cover the story from a news perspective.

“We want young people to be excited about voting. People’s lives are at stake. Road to Change is about harnessing the incredible energy coming out of the March For Our Lives and turning that energy into action. Gun violence has affected far too many neighborhoods and schools, and we need to do everything we can to stop it. By visiting communities across the country, we hope to connect with young people who care about this issue and want to take action.”

Small businesses are the heartbeat of our local communities and they employ more people than all large U.S. corporations. According to research firm Civic Economics, if you spend $100 at a local business, roughly $68 stays in your local economy. If you spend the same at a large business, only $43 stays in the local economy. For the ninth consecutive year, iHeartMedia played a major role in American Express’ national initiative to encourage consumers to shop locally as they kick off the holiday shopping season.

Saturday, November 24, 2018 marked the ninth annual Small Business Saturday — a day to celebrate and support small businesses and all they do for their communities. Created by American Express, Small Business Saturday brings attention to the local businesses that create jobs, boost the economy and preserve neighborhoods around the country.

iHeartMedia has been a major media partner for the initiative since 2010. In November, iHeartMedia aired PSAs leading up to Small Business Saturday encouraging listeners to support their local communities and shop at a small business. The PSAs included a series of messages from select public officials as well as customized local stories that celebrated individual community merchants.

According to the most recent census there are over 18 million veterans living in America. One out of every 10 Americans is living with diabetes. Additionally, nearly 25 percent of the Veterans Affairs (VA) patient population is living with this chronic condition. For National Diabetes Awareness Month, iHeartMedia partnered with Roche Diabetes Care for the iHeartCountry One Night For Our Military concert at the iHeartRadio Theater in Los Angeles, California on November 7. The exclusive show was hosted by iHeartRadio’s well-known on-air personality Bobby Bones and featured performances by Country stars Brantley Gilbert, Eli Young Band and Ben Rue.

The intimate performance was broadcasted across iHeartMedia’s Mainstream Country radio stations on Veteran’s Day, November 11, and the iHeartRadio Theater in Los Angeles was filled with American heroes and their guests from across the country.
Every 11 minutes, an American dies from an opioid overdose and one out of every four American families has a loved one struggling with an opioid addiction. Opioid overdoses are the number one leading cause of death for the U.S. population under the age of 50. In response to the national opioid epidemic that has killed tens of thousands of Americans and impacted millions more in the past year, WPP, iHeartMedia and Fors Marsh Group launched the National Opioid Action Coalition (NOAC), an initiative focused on reducing stigma as a barrier to addiction prevention, treatment and recovery.

NOAC aims to help support local, state and federal opioid misuse and addiction prevention, treatment and recovery efforts by elevating the conversation around stigma and harnessing the power of individuals, communities and companies to get engaged. Since its inception, NOAC has launched targeted programs in a number of local communities – all of which are highly affected by the crisis – and has brought together like-minded organizations that have offered expertise and tools to help address the opioid epidemic.

In early 2018, the coalition developed and launched www.noac.org – a free online resource for people seeking information related to opioid misuse prevention, treatment and recovery, and which provides free access to online resources including a treatment locator for people seeking assistance.

To officially launch the campaign, NOAC led a panel called “Fight or Flight” during the annual New York City Advertising Week on October 3, 2018. Moderated by Bobby Bones, iHeartMedia’s nationally syndicated radio host and best-selling NY Times author who tragically lost his own mother to addiction, the U.S. Surgeon General and rock legend Nikki Sixx (Mötley Crüe), the panel presentation brought together voices from prominent companies and government agencies to explore the role that brands and pop culture can play in assisting public efforts to address the opioid crisis.

In addition, iHeartMedia launched a sales-driven matching program that incentivizes companies and government agencies to develop campaigns that address the epidemic, offering additional media support across various iHeartMedia platforms.

“This is an epidemic that is impacting families and individuals across America, and we want to harness our national reach to expand awareness, prevention, treatment and recovery efforts in communities across the country – and highlight local, state and federal government resources that are available to those fighting against this epidemic.”

At iHeartMedia, we are committed to using the power of all our local assets in the service of giving back and in assisting the organizations that help our neighbors in need. iHeartMedia’s radiothon program has leveraged the company’s unparalleled reach and local influence to raise hundreds of millions of dollars for charitable organizations over the last decade.

A radiothon typically lasts between one and two days, during which stations press pause on their day-to-day programming to dedicate all attention and resources to the issue being addressed. Through its many local radiothon programs, iHeartMedia is one of the biggest supporters of The Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals and St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital. In addition, many iHeartMedia radio stations have established annual radiothon programs to address local, critical issues, ranging from childhood diseases and homelessness to domestic violence and mental health. Founded in 2017, The Breakfast Club’s annual #Change4Change radiothon featuring on-air personalities DJ Envy, Angela Yee and Charlamagne Tha God has raised over $900k for issues ranging from mental illness to social justice.

In 2018, iHeartMedia stations raised nearly $24 million through the power, dedication and uniqueness of their radiothon programs.
Every day there are thousands of children in local communities treated at nearby hospitals for both common childhood afflictions and other more severe challenges. Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals® treat 16,000 kids with trauma every day. iHeartMedia is one of Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals’ main media supporters through its many local programs.

Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals raises funds and awareness for 170 children’s hospitals across the United States and Canada. When Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals receive a donation, it stays in the community to help local kids — a dynamic that is closely aligned with iHeartMedia’s commitment to serve its local listeners and communities. iHeartMedia helps Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals fundraise locally by airing a significant number of PSAs that raise awareness for the organization and its member hospitals, as well as hosting annual one or two-day English and Spanish radiothon events which have been an integral part of Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals’ fundraising efforts since 1997.

iHeartMedia radiothon programs represent annual giving traditions for many local communities. A radiothon typically lasts between one and two days and highlights personal patient and family stories related to local hospital treatment.

iHeartMedia’s continued commitment to Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals provides benefits to thousands of kids in local communities. The power of local radio is demonstrated by the selfless dedication of the iHeartMedia teams across the country who provide a connection to local audiences. The passion and loyalty of these fans is the driving force year over year behind the success of our campaigns. Consumers overwhelmingly prefer supporting purpose-driven companies and iHeartMedia has secured their position as a charitable leader in the industry through their impressive efforts to save kids’ lives.”

Mental illness is all around us. It doesn’t matter whether you’re old or young, male or female, rich or poor or your skin color – mental illness affects 1 in 4 people. In 2018, the Breakfast Club launched their second annual #Change4Change radiothon to help benefit Project 375 and its mission to create impactful dialogue around the way we collectively view mental health.

The Breakfast Club teamed up with Project 375 for its second annual #Change4Change radiothon fundraiser on Thursday, November 15 from 10am-midnight. During the radiothon, The Breakfast Club’s DJ Envy, Angela Yee and Charlamagne Tha God encouraged listeners to donate in support of Project 375, a charity co-founded by NFL wide receiver Brandon Marshall and his wife. Marshall, who struggled with mental illness himself for years, was diagnosed with a borderline personality disorder in 2011.

The broadcast was heard across more than 77 syndicated markets and featured interviews with celebrities and representatives from charities that support all forms of mental health issues and awareness, and informed listeners how to get involved in their local community efforts. The event raised more than $200K for Project 375.
Project 375 offers many free community programs and resources addressing mental health such as Project Prevent, which provides Youth Mental Health First Aid training, and Mind Over Matter Talks, where members of the organization visit schools to speak with students, principals, community leaders and parents about mental health.

NATIONAL PUBLIC AFFAIRS SPECIALS

Through iHeartMedia Communities, the community engagement division of iHeartMedia, the company organizes and produces a number of national long-form public affairs shows that harness the power of the company’s assets and relationships to address local listeners’ very specific concerns and needs. The following are examples of nationally produced shows that were distributed to stations to run at their discretion throughout 2018.
One Week. One Cause. 10 Million Kids. More than 10 million kids enter a children’s hospital across North America every year. To provide the best care for kids, children’s hospitals rely on donations and community support. Since 1983, Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals has helped fill funding gaps for families by raising more than $5 billion.

For #ChildrensHospitalWeek a series of week-long events designed to shine a spotlight on the 24-7, around-the-clock charitable needs of children’s hospitals iHeartMedia produced and aired a 30-minute public affairs program with Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals that ran on over 250 radio stations during March.

The show highlighted the importance of children’s hospitals in local communities and discussed how donations continue to help patients and families no matter what their injuries or illnesses are. Young patients and their families shared personal experiences of being treated at a Children’s Miracle Network Hospital.

The check is held by a group of people and they are all smiling.
2018 marked 17 years since the horrific events of 9/11 and our country is still feeling the aftermath of the terrorist attacks, in which thousands of families lost loved ones and many first responders are falling ill from inhaling the toxins found at the disaster site. To commemorate the 17th anniversary, iHeartMedia produced a 30-minute radio show that spotlighted two incredible families who turned their personal tragedies into promoting good work and service through non-profit work: The Tunnel to Towers Foundation and the 9/11 Day of Service. The show also touched upon the current state of health for workers and first responders who were at Ground Zero up to 8 months after 9/11.

Hosted and moderated by Shelli Sonstein, Q104.3 on-air personality of the Jim Kerr Rock and Roll Morning Show, the show featured interviews with Frank Siller - CEO, President and Co-founder of the Stephen Siller Tunnel to Towers Foundation; Carmela Raguso, a widow of a National Guard airman whose mortgage was paid off by Tunnel to Towers after her husband was killed in an Iraq helicopter crash; and 9/11 Day of Service Founders Jay Winuk & David Paine, who helped turn a day of tragedy into a day of doing good.

The show aired across all stations on the week leading up to September 11.
The U.S. Department of Homeland Security has designated September 25 as national "If You See Something, Say Something®" Awareness Day, a simple and effective program to raise public awareness of indicators of terrorism and terrorism-related crime, and to emphasize the importance of reporting suspicious activity to the proper state and local law enforcement authorities.

iHeartMedia partnered with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security for a 30-minute long-form show that discussed the critical role individuals and communities play in keeping our nation safe. The program also explored the importance of empowering and educating communities to increase suspicious activity reporting. Hosted by Bernie Lucas, Public Affairs Director for iHeartMedia Washington, D.C., the show featured Taylor Price, Campaign Manager for the U.S. Department of Homeland Security’s “If You See Something Say Something” program.

The long form show ran throughout the month of September across all 150 markets.

30 million Americans live with diabetes. In addition, 1 in 3 Americans live with prediabetes and might not even know it.

In 2018, iHeartMedia produced iHeartRadio’s Living with Diabetes, a long form radio show that took a closer look at what it means to have diabetes, effective ways to treat and manage the disease, and how to maintain a healthy lifestyle to reduce the risk of developing diabetes.

The show featured interviews with Dr. LaShawn McIver, Senior Vice President for Government Affairs & Advocacy for the American Diabetes Association; Heather Hodge, Senior Director for Evidence-based Health Interventions at YMCA of the USA; and Brad Moore, Head of Roche Diabetes Care North America. Over the course of the show, each guest helped to outline overall statistics and discussed ways to manage and prevent the disease as well as took a closer look at the financial implications for people living with diabetes and its impact on the veteran population.

The show ran across all iHeartMedia stations in November, which was also National Diabetes Awareness month.
Every year, local communities in which iHeartMedia employees live and work are impacted by unexpected community crises, as well as the domestic effects of global turmoil, natural disasters and terrorism. From gun violence and mental health disorders to racial tension, suicide and acts of terrorism in communities across the U.S., iHeartMedia stations are always prepared to respond immediately.
NATURAL DISASTERS

iHeartMedia plays a critically important role in our communities when disasters or traumatic events occur. During these times of crisis iHeartMedia is essential to the lives of local residents, with our broadcast and digital platforms often serving as the sole information source for disrupted areas — providing news and critical information on everything from storm updates and evacuation routes to food banks, rescue and medical care. Because emergency broadcasting is an important element of iHeartMedia’s role in local communities, we have implemented a significant “Disaster Assistance and Response Plan,” which includes reserves of radio transmitters, emergency power generators and other news-gathering equipment positioned in locations around the country ready to travel — before, during and after disaster strikes — to impacted communities as needed. This ensures that we are able to stay on the air and deliver critical news and information to impacted areas during the most damaging hurricanes and other natural disasters. We are dedicated to continually improving our innovative procedures around disaster response efforts to ensure that our stations are ready to react at all times and can continue to serve the listeners and communities that depend on us.

FIRST INFORMERS: iHEARTMEDIA EMERGENCY RESPONSE TEAM

iHeartMedia has forged a deep and ongoing partnership with FEMA, which recognizes that in times of emergency, there is no more reliable source of information than local radio broadcasters. Pursuant to the SANDy Act, iHeartMedia is recognized as an essential service provider and must be afforded access to disaster sites to restore and repair essential services in an emergency or major disaster. By giving broadcast radio stations official status during emergencies, the SANDy Act places iHeartMedia radio stations among a statutorily-select group of “essential service providers” — also known as First Informers — for public safety purposes. This statute recognizes the unique and essential role of radio stations in providing critical and often lifesaving information before, during and after man-made and natural disasters.

The iHeartMedia Technical Operations Center (iTOC) and its Emergency Response Team – made up of more than 300 iHeartMedia engineers and team members — monitor operations and coordinates emergency planning and response for the company’s 850 stations across the U.S. to ensure continuity of operations and safety of personnel before, during and after emergency situations occur.

LOCAL AND NATIONWIDE EMERGENCY ALERT AND WARNING CAPABILITIES

iHeartMedia and FEMA continually partner to improve local and nationwide alert and warning capabilities that are critical when disasters threaten public safety and national security.

AM broadcast radio stations are beacons of information for the public and are often the most listened-to stations for news and information, especially during emergencies. Class A AM stations operate at higher power levels and with FCC-mandated interference protections that enable their signals to be received reliably by millions of listeners and at great distances — especially at night, when changes in the ionosphere permit high-power AM signals to travel much farther distances – often hundreds of miles – than is possible during the day. iHeartMedia owns and operates 18 of the country’s Class A AM radio stations.

FEMA’s Integrated Public Awareness and Warning System (IPAWS) relies heavily on Class A AM radio stations for rapid, nationwide dissemination of emergency information. Seven iHeartMedia Class A AM stations have been designated and specially reinforced by FEMA to serve as Primary Entry Point (PEP) stations to the IPAWS network to provide official emergency alert and warning information to the nation in the event of major emergencies because of their reach and interference protections. FEMA has also designated iHeartMedia’s Premiere Networks for satellite-based redundancy for its PEP emergency warning system.

In 2018, FEMA collaborated with iHeartMedia to initiate an important PEP station modernization project at iHeartMedia’s NewsRadio 700 WLW-AM in Cincinnati, Ohio to improve alert and warning capabilities of FEMA’s Class A AM PEP stations. WLW-AM is the second station in the country to complete the upgrade, which includes specialized sheltering capabilities, expanded broadcast transmission capacity, and sustainable power generation to withstand virtually all types of hazardous events.

IHEARTMEDIA DISASTER RELIEF FUND

In times of greatest need, our employees act as first responders – often leaving their homes and living in broadcast studios for days, sometimes with family members, and with limited food and rest, to serve their listeners and communities at times when it is needed most. Our team’s efforts during disasters truly highlight the commitment of our people and our company to the communities they serve.

iHeartMedia established the iHeartMedia Disaster Relief Fund in 2005 to aid the families of our own team members who are impacted by natural disasters. The Fund is available to support iHeartMedia employees who require assistance as the result of a declared natural disaster, such as a tornado, flood, earthquake or hurricane.
NEWS EVENTS

When natural disasters or traumatic events occur, iHeartMedia stations do everything in their power to not only deliver comprehensive news coverage and relay key messages to listeners but also to mobilize listeners to action by donating appropriate relief efforts that will aid those affected.

The following are a few examples of how iHeartMedia has helped in rebuilding impacted communities in 2018.
Our thoughts & prayers are with you.
May the community know no more sorrow.

The 2018 Atlantic hurricane season was the third in a consecutive series of above-average and damaging Atlantic hurricane seasons, featuring 15 named storms, 8 hurricanes and 2 major hurricanes, which together caused over $50 billion in damages. However, the 2018 hurricane season was defined by two powerful storms: Hurricanes Florence and Michael. On September 5, Hurricane Florence became the first major hurricane of the season and caused catastrophic damage in the Carolinas, and on October 9, Hurricane Michael became the strongest storm on record in the Florida Panhandle and was the first Category 5 hurricane to strike the United States since Hurricane Andrew in 1992.

During the time when the residents and neighborhoods of impacted areas desperately needed information, reassurance and support, iHeartMedia radio stations were the voice for these communities—providing vital lifesaving information, encouragement and a close personal connection with listeners. From on-air and online updates on closures and evacuations to inspirational stories about how communities come together to help neighbors in need, iHeartMedia served as a lifeline for millions of people.

In addition to delivering comprehensive news coverage, iHeartMedia teamed up with The American Red Cross to nationally inform and educate listeners through its broadcast stations and iHeartRadio. Many iHeartMedia radio stations ran American Red Cross PSAs on air and digitally to encourage donations for victims of these natural disasters. Additionally, countless stations across the country hosted numerous radiothons and collection drives, manned phone banks and launched creative on-the-ground grassroots efforts to benefit families affected by the hurricanes. iHeartMedia also partnered with several benefit relief concerts and telethons to help amplify existing efforts.
On February 14, 2018, a gunman opened fire with a semi-automatic rifle at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Florida, killing 17 students and staff members and injuring 17 others. In the days after the tragedy, students from Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School banded together to bring attention to gun violence, claiming it as a national epidemic and supporting legislation to prevent gun violence in the United States. iHeartMedia opened its 2018 iHeartRadio Music Awards stage to the brave students of Parkland to remind viewers of the tragedy that had taken place a few weeks before and to incite action. Alongside rapper Big Sean, Parkland school shooting survivor Alex Moscou took to the stage during the live telecast held at The Forum in Inglewood, CA and invited viewers to join him and other students at the “March for our Lives” rally in Washington D.C. on March 24.

“On February 14, a gunman armed with a legally purchased semi-automatic rifle murdered 17 people at my high school, Marjory Stoneman Douglas, in Parkland, Florida. We’re tired of hearing politicians send their thoughts and prayers to us and doing nothing to make the necessary changes to prevent this tragedy from happening again.”

Eleven people were killed and seven were injured in a shooting at the Tree of Life Synagogue in the Squirrel Hill neighborhood of Pittsburgh, PA on October 27, 2018. This was the deadliest attack on the Jewish community in the United States.

Following the tragic mass shooting, iHeartMedia’s six Pittsburgh radio stations provided wall-to-wall coverage for six hours on the day of the shooting. The stations also used their morning shows the following day to allow local listeners an open forum to express their feelings and offer public condolences for the lives lost.

In addition, iHeartMedia Pittsburgh helped promote various community vigils and charity efforts, including a local benefit concert featuring local band The Clarks and the “Stronger Than Hate” concert with Kesha, that benefited the Jewish Federation’s Our Victims of Terror Fund.

“I’m so sorry for the pain and suffering that so many are going through, I will still be coming to Pittsburgh this Saturday to play my show and deliver as much peace and positivity as I can. Let’s show the world that there is only love and always hope in Pittsburgh.”

According to the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection and the National Interagency Fire Center, the 2018 wildfire season was the deadliest and most destructive wildfire season ever recorded in California, with a total of 8,527 fires burning an area of 1,893,913 acres.

In addition to providing wall-to-wall coverage during the wildfires including live news reports, information on evacuation routes and health warnings, local iHeartMedia California stations supported communities well after the fires ceased. iHeartMedia Los Angeles launched an ongoing effort in partnership with the nonprofit TreePeople to help restore surrounding mountain forests affected by devastating wildfires, including the Malibu Woolsey (2018) and Copper (2002) fires. Throughout the year, iHeart hosted a number of iHeart Replant SoCal volunteer events and encouraged local listeners to participate by joining in restoring their community’s local forests.

In front of a backdrop of heartbreaking video footage from that day, local responders took to the stage to be recognized for their selfless acts of service.

"Nearly one year ago, 22,000 fans gathered in Las Vegas to celebrate their love for country music. I was there myself, performing with my band, and what started as a beautiful weekend was shattered when a senseless act of violence took 58 lives and impacted countless others, and their families, forever. And on behalf of myself and my family, and my family in the country music community, I want to say thank you to the city of Las Vegas for your courage, strength, and kindness. Tonight, we are all proud to be Vegas strong."

ARTIST INTEGRATION PROGRAM (AIP)

iHeartMedia’s “Artist Integration Program” is designed to increase audience awareness of new music projects from both established and developing artists through on-air and online promotional campaigns. By leveraging iHeartMedia’s powerful properties, including its 850 radio stations in 150 markets and its national digital iHeartRadio platform, the campaigns provide the opportunity for artists, record labels and the music industry to maximize exposure for new singles and albums—ultimately strengthening artist development and sales.

DIGITAL ARTIST INTEGRATION PROGRAM

In 2012, iHeartMedia extended the “Artist Integration Program” to its iHeartRadio digital platform. Each month, four new tracks per format are featured in new music spots that run in national inventory across format-appropriate iHeartRadio digital stations. The songs run in their entirety 3-4 times per day across all format relevant digital streams online, helping to build impressions and artist familiarity. In 2018 alone, the iHeartRadio Digital “Artist Integration Program” accumulated 582MM+ digital streams.

ON THE VERGE

The “On The Verge” Artist program promotes key tracks and artists that iHeartMedia programmers are excited about and know their listeners will love. Each quarter, iHeartMedia selects an artist in each format based on surveys and feedback from these programmers and launches an eight-week program that includes on-air exposure as well as significant digital and social support across iHeartMedia’s entire platform. All “On The Verge” Artists charted to the Top 30, with more than half landing in the Top 10, and nearly a third claimed the No. 1 chart slot. iHeartMedia’s “On The Verge” program launched and positioned the success of the below artists. The “On The Verge” campaign has helped to kickstart the careers of artists including: Sam Smith, Iggy Azalea, Sam Hunt, Maren Morris, SZA, H.E.R., Judah & The Lion, Nick Jonas and Fifth Harmony.

Local Advisory Boards (LABs) play an integral role in guiding iHeartMedia’s support of the most relevant issues impacting individual communities. iHeartMedia’s LABs bring together community representatives with broad-based expertise, and quarterly meetings serve as a forum for iHeartMedia executives, local communities and government and educational leaders to discuss issues and solutions in an open, collegial environment. The diverse boards carefully monitor public opinion and assist iHeartMedia teams in identifying and implementing projects that enable meaningful public service in each community. For over 15 years, these LABs have improved iHeartMedia’s ability to effectively collaborate with community partners to meet important local needs.

IHeartMedia’s most popular on-air radio personalities are active members of local communities across the nation and have a rich history of connecting to listeners within their communities and offering companionship. Because of the highly personal nature of the connection between listeners and on-air talent, they are often driving forces in rallying local community support for important local issues. The following pages highlight a few examples of how Heart’s – and radio’s – most well-known voices make a difference in the communities in which they live and work both on-air and off. There is so much important work happening in every market every day that it is hard to capture it all but here is a representative sample.
Big Boy is a long-time supporter of Together in His Arms, which provides support for families who have lost a child and helps pay the family’s bills during their time of mourning. A Los Angeles icon, Big also participated in numerous community and charitable events throughout the city in 2018. He appeared at the Kingdom Day Parade, which celebrates the life and legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and he served as Grand Marshall of the annual East LA Christmas Parade – one of the longest-running Christmas parades in the Latino community. He attended and hosted events for NBA Champion Matt Barnes’ foundation Athletes vs. Cancer, including Bowl4ACure, Smoke4ACure, and the 5th annual Celebrity Flag Football Game. Big also hosted the Real West Coast Customs Car Show and Toy Drive, presented by his flagship station iHeartRadio’s REAL 92.3, which featured performances by O.T. Genasis and Kap G. Additionally, he hosted the 15th Annual Inner City Mini-Marathon & Health Festival for City Lites at Jesse Owens Park in Los Angeles. Joined by Ty Dolla $ign, Big also hosted and helped with the opening game coin toss at Dorsey High School’s homecoming football game.
Over a dinner with his family, iHeartMedia radio personality Ryan Seacrest decided he wanted to create a foundation that would lift the spirits of hospitalized kids and their families. Along with his parents and sister Meredith, he created the Ryan Seacrest Foundation, a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to inspiring today’s youth through entertainment and education-focused initiatives. The foundation’s main focus is building broadcast media centers, named Seacrest Studios, within pediatric hospitals for patients to explore the creative realms of radio, television and new media. Today, the Ryan Seacrest Foundation operates 10 studios, located in Atlanta, Boston, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Dallas, Denver, Nashville, Orange County, Washington D.C., and Philadelphia. Dan+Shay, Travis Scott, Little Big Town, Ed Sheeran, Halsey, The Chainsmokers, Twenty One Pilots, Camila Cabello, Dierks Bentley and Lana Del Rey are just a few of the artists who visited during 2018 and met with patients. iHeartMedia supports the amazing work of the Ryan Seacrest Foundation in a variety of ways throughout the year, including providing national engineering and programming support and executing a national and local fundraising program.
On November 15, 2018, The Breakfast Club’s Second Annual #Change4Change radiothon featuring on-air personalities DJ Envy, Angela Yee and Charlamagne Tha God raised over $200,000. Broadcasting throughout the day on nearly 80 stations nationwide, including flagship station Power 105.1 in New York City, the trio encouraged listeners to donate in support of PROJECT 375. Co-founded by NFL wide receiver Brandon Marshall and his wife Michi, the non-profit organization offers a number of free community programs and resources addressing mental health. The radiothon received support from thousands of listeners across the country, as well as a variety of organizations and artists. As part of Power 105.1’s partnership with Show Me Shoes Foundation, The Breakfast Club also supported the inaugural “Prom Project NYC,” which aimed to give underprivileged young girls the chance to go to prom. The Breakfast Club promoted “Dress Drives” across the city, where listeners could donate dresses, shoes, purses and anything else to help make a young lady’s prom complete. The campaign culminated on May 12, with an all-day, free event hosted by Angela Yee, where families came to “shop” for a dress of their choosing. The first 100 ladies were also able to pick a pair of new shoes from event partner ShoeDazzle® and attendees were treated to free mini-makeovers and giveaways, including a car service to the prom, dinner gift cards, retailer gift cards, electronics, concert tickets and more.
In 2018, The Johnjay and Rich Show continued its work with the Johnjay and Rich #LoveUp Foundation, a non-profit organization that strives to be a force for positive change and impact the lives of children and adults in our community, with a primary focus on improving the quality of life for children living in the foster care system. The show raises funds through the sale of #LoveUp t-shirts and merchandise, as well as private donors, corporate contributions and community grants. In 2018, the #LoveUp Foundation hosted more than 3,600 foster children at special events and experiences such as a back-to-school shoe shopping spree, Arizona Diamondbacks game, Arizona State Fair, VIP movie premiere and a spectacular Christmas party. In addition, in partnership with the Arizona Department of Child Safety, #LoveUp held six photoshoots for more than 200 foster children in 2018 for the Children’s Heart Gallery website, which helps children in foster care find forever homes.

The Johnjay and Rich Show also began granting “#LoveUp moments” via nominations on www.JohnjayandRich.com. The Foundation bought new cheerleading uniforms for a cheer squad at a local high school, arranged for a sick four-year-old girl who loves animals to be a "zookeeper for a day" at the Phoenix Zoo, flew an Arizona teacher and her family to Montana to watch her daughter play volleyball, and sent a large care package to a 19-year-old serving our country in the Navy and living overseas in Japan.

In 2018, #LovePup - an extension of the #LoveUp Foundation focused on rescuing and finding forever homes for dogs - launched the "A Dog is Forever" shelter intervention and “It’s Hip to Chip” microchip programs. To date, the Foundation has positively impacted nearly 10,000 dogs and has begun plans to construct a shelter facility in 2019 to safely and uniquely rescue more dogs and expand its volunteer program.

The Johnjay and Rich Show closed out 2018 with its annual Christmas Wish campaign, providing thousands of dollars’ worth of items and gifts to struggling families, including new TVs, washer and dryers, bikes, video game consoles and more. They also sent a family who lost their home in the Camp Fire in Paradise, CA on a seven-day "escape" cruise to rest, recharge and renew.
The mission of The Steve and Marjorie Harvey Foundation is to ensure that the needs of the whole child are met through the development of programs and support of community-based organizations that foster excellence in the areas of health, education and social well-being within urban and ethnically diverse communities. The two cornerstone programs are The Steve Harvey Mentoring Program for Young Men, which aims to teach young men the principles of manhood and create responsible leaders; and the Girls Who Rule The World Mentoring Weekend, a program designed by Marjorie Harvey to enhance the development of young girls through positive self-image, educational achievement and cultural enrichment. In 2018, these programs mentored hundreds of young people in cities across the country, who also participated in a monthly follow-up program that encourages and inspires their continued growth, education and success. In addition, the Foundation also donated more than $100,000 in college scholarships and participated in holiday toy drives and other charitable events. Plus, The Steve Harvey Morning Show and Premiere Networks partnered to give away more than 8,000 turkeys as part of The Steve Harvey Morning Show Annual Turkey Give. Affiliates of the national radio program gave the turkeys away to help the less fortunate celebrate the Thanksgiving holiday. Since the Turkey Give was launched in 2009, nearly 70,000 turkeys have been distributed.
Glenn Beck created the non-profit Mercury One to reflect his belief in the individual, self-determination, free enterprise and the essential need for faith. Through his national radio show, The Glenn Beck Program, and outreach events across the nation, Mercury One raises funds for disaster relief, veterans care and humanitarian initiatives like counter-human trafficking and protecting persecuted religious minorities. Through its education arm and vast library of rare artifacts, Mercury One also equips future leaders through student and teacher trainings and special exhibitions. This year, the non-profit launched the first phase of a capital campaign to build the American Journey Experience. The American Journey Experience, slated to break ground in Texas in three to five years, will tell the story of American history and democracy. The estimated 170,000 square foot center of education will be an international destination drawing life-long learners and tomorrow’s leaders. In 2018, Mercury One helped educate supporters through the “Rights & Responsibilities” temporary exhibit, which delved into what makes America the most innovative nation in the world. Over 2,500 guests visited this exhibit at Mercury Studios. Mercury One also supported disaster relief efforts during and after the California wildfires and Hurricane Florence, and was first on the ground to feed, clothe and assist those in need during Hurricane Michael. Additionally, Mercury One’s Nazarene Fund has been a beacon of hope to those suffering in the darkness of slavery, persecution and despair. Since its inception, Mercury One’s Nazarene Fund has completed over 10,000 evacuations from conflict zones and unsafe locations to new home countries.
Point Hope started as a handful of friends gathered around Delilah’s kitchen table making hundreds of tuna fish sandwiches for hungry families. Point Hope has grown into a non-profit organization focused on raising awareness of the broken condition of the foster care program in the United States and promoting forever adoptions as a viable solution. The organization is also dedicated to helping refugees in Buduburam, Ghana and the surrounding district. To date, Point Hope has saved countless lives, providing clean water, sanitation, nutritional and agricultural programs, medical care, women’s training and education to these refugees. Delilah has traveled to Ghana more than 30 times, and in 2018, she celebrated her 14-year commitment to Point Hope by hosting the fourth-annual Farm-To-Table dinner fundraiser for 60 people at her home in Seattle. Utilizing her national platforms and media appearances, Delilah also sheds light on important topics, including mental health, coping with the loss of a loved one, and more. In 2018, she was inducted into the Adoption Hall of Fame by the National Council for Adoption for her tireless advocacy for adoption and an improved foster care system. iHeartMedia supported Delilah’s philanthropic efforts in 2018 through national on-air programming and digital resources.
Given his affinity for helping others, Bobby Bones is involved in multiple charitable initiatives and supports an array of philanthropic causes. Since April 2014, Bones has helped raise more than $10 million for St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital with various events and fundraisers, including The Bobby Bones Show’s annual “Million Dollar Show” and St. Jude Radiothon, both of which feature support and live performances from some of Country music's biggest superstars. Additionally, Bones has made many visits to St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital in Memphis, TN with his comedy band The Raging Idiots, performing for patients and their families. Bones is also an avid supporter of The MusiCares Foundation, a non-profit organization that provides a safety net of critical assistance for musicians in times of need, and he serves on the Board of Directors for Musicians On Call, an organization that brings live and recorded music to the bedsides of patients in healthcare facilities. In 2018, they presented him with organization’s Leadership in Music Award. The Bobby Bones Show also raises funds for worthy causes through the sale of “Pimpin Joy” merchandise. In 2018 more than $200,000 was donated to K9s for Warriors; Task Force Dagger Foundation, which helps wounded special ops veterans and their families; and Epic Girl, which empowers young girls to reach their full potential through education, mentoring, counseling and community activities. Other beneficiaries included the American Red Cross’ hurricane relief efforts and the victims of the Borderline shooting.
Sean Hannity, the number one most-listened-to talk radio host in America, and host of The Sean Hannity Show, continued supporting several non-profit organizations in 2018, including: Building Homes for Heroes, a national non-profit organization that builds or modifies homes, and gifts them, mortgage-free, to veterans and their families; Samaritan’s Purse, a non-denominational evangelical Christian organization providing spiritual and physical aid to hurting people around the world; and Operation 300, which provide mentorship to children of fallen soldiers.

The National Radio Hall of Famer also supported The Nine Line Foundation, an organization supporting severely wounded combat veterans and their families; Folds of Honor, which provides educational scholarships to spouses and children of America’s fallen and disabled service-members; America’s VetDogs®, which provides service dogs free of charge to those who have served our country honorably so they can live with dignity and independence; and The Freedom Alliance, a charitable organization that provides help and support to wounded troops and military families.
Elvis Duran is a committed philanthropist with several causes close to his heart. He currently serves as co-chair of Rosie’s Theater Kids, an organization that brings enrichment through the arts to underprivileged Manhattan children, and serves on the board of directors for Rock & Rawhide, a non-profit organization that aims to increase animal adoptions while also providing a stress-free life for animals surrendered to shelters. As an advocate for the LGBTQ community, Duran works closely with GLAAD and takes part in their national Spirit Day campaign. In addition, Duran supports St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital and participates in the St. Jude Walk/Run to End Childhood Cancer.

In 2018, he helped raise funds and awareness for many organizations, including New York’s LGBT Community Center; Cookies for Kids’ Cancer, the notable non-profit dedicated to funding pediatric cancer research; Charity: Water, a non-profit organization focused on bringing clean and safe drinking water to people in developing countries; and DonorsChoose.org, which makes it possible for anyone to support a classroom in need. Elvis has already raised over $40K through DonorsChoose.org/Elvis.

In addition, Duran is a partner to Musicians On Call, which brings live and recorded music to the bedsides of patients in healthcare facilities.
CODY ALAN

Cody Alan gives back to the Country community with his unparalleled optimism and passion for organizations supporting equality, military families and children’s hospitals. A year after Cody made national headlines by boldly coming out as gay, he has embraced his role as a face of equality in Country music. As the host of GLAAD’s Annual Concert For Love & Acceptance, the Human Rights Campaign Awards, and Nashville’s Pride Week Equality Awards, Cody fearlessly represents Pride in the Country community.

Cody’s partnership with the Ryan Seacrest Foundation’s Seacrest Studios brings Country stars to Vanderbilt University’s Monroe Carrel, Jr. Children’s Hospital for interviews and performances, giving the young patients an experience of a lifetime.
