iHeartMedia (NASDAQ: IHRT) is the number one audio company in the United States, reaching nine out of 10 Americans every month. It consists of three business groups.

With its quarter of a billion monthly listeners, the iHeartMedia Multiplatform Group has a greater reach than any other media company in the U.S. Its leadership position in audio extends across multiple platforms, including more than 860 live broadcast stations in over 160 markets nationwide; its National Sales organization; and the company’s live and virtual events business. It also includes Premiere Networks, the industry’s largest Networks business, with its Total Traffic and Weather Network (TTWN); and BIN: Black Information Network, the first and only 24/7 national and local all news audio service for the Black community. iHeartMedia also leads the audio industry in analytics, targeting and attribution for its marketing partners with its SmartAudio suite of data targeting and attribution products using data from its massive consumer base.

The iHeartMedia Digital Audio Group includes the company’s fast-growing podcasting business — iHeartMedia is the number one podcast publisher in downloads, unique listeners, revenue and earnings — as well as its industry-leading iHeartRadio digital service, available across more than 250 platforms and 2,000 devices; the company’s digital sites, newsletters, digital services and programs; its digital advertising technology companies; and its audio industry leading social media footprint.

The company’s Audio & Media Services reportable segment includes Katz Media Group, the nation’s largest media representation company, and RCS, the world’s leading provider of broadcast and webcast software.

COMMITMENT TO COMMUNITY

iHeartMedia addresses topical issues that will spur positive impact in local communities across the country.

EDUCATION & LITERACY
Education is at the heart of countless critical issues facing many Americans. iHeartMedia is committed to shining a light on the importance of education and literacy by empowering young people to take control of their future; supporting local schools; enabling teachers; and providing the tools and educational services desperately needed in underserved areas of our country.

HEALTH & WELLNESS
iHeartMedia works with an array of health-related organizations to bring attention to a broad spectrum of key health issues, promoting the importance of living an active and safe lifestyle. By addressing specific issues affecting the U.S. population, iHeartMedia hopes to improve the overall physical, mental and social well-being of its listeners, employees and others in the community.

MUSIC & ARTS
iHeartMedia recognizes the power of inspiring creativity and is committed to encouraging society to embrace artistic development within their own neighborhoods. The company emphasizes the importance of art and music education and the benefits of fostering imagination through an array of local and national programs, with the mission to improve and increase access to the arts across the United States.

ENVIRONMENTAL
iHeartMedia continually looks for ways to rally the communities it serves to protect the environment and to conserve energy and natural resources. From Public Service Announcements (PSAs) to local long-form shows and live events, local radio stations use their platforms to inform and educate their audiences and incite action.

DISASTER RESPONSE
iHeartMedia plays a critically important role in its communities when disasters or traumatic events occur. During these times of crisis, iHeartMedia is essential to the lives of local residents. iHeartMedia’s broadcast and digital platforms often serve as the sole information source for disrupted areas – providing news, support, companionship and critical information on everything from storm updates and evacuation routes to food banks, rescue efforts, medical care and health safety guidelines.

iHeartMedia Communities, the community engagement division of iHeartMedia, Inc. launched in 2011, focuses the company’s ongoing philanthropic efforts by adding a layer of resources and commitment to address critical issues affecting the local communities we serve, and streamlines all philanthropic commitments, ensuring consistent focus and messaging across all divisions and departments. iHeartMedia Communities amplifies the most pressing concerns facing each local community and adds additional support and focus for local markets and stations working to address these local needs. The company’s local and national campaigns primarily fall into these categories:
At iHeart, we are fully committed to our mission of connecting communities, building relationships and creating opportunities to improve the lives of diverse audiences we serve.

We are pleased to present our 12th annual Community Impact Report, highlighting our company-wide commitment to making a difference every day in the communities we serve by using our platforms and our deep and trusted relationships with our listeners to influence better social outcomes that benefit communities across the United States. As a company, we recognize iHeart’s scale and multiple platforms give us a unique ability to broadly communicate with our listeners, sharing information that spreads hope, provides comfort and relief and addresses the most pressing issues facing our communities.

We are proud to present our 12th annual Community Impact Report, which highlights iHeart’s mission of connecting communities and informing our listeners about how they can take positive action, both in their communities and in their own lives.

This report highlights iHeart’s Community Engagement efforts in 2022, which played a critically important role for – and in – our communities, providing support, information, resources and companionship, and helped create positive change in the lives of individuals, families and children. Some of our major efforts in 2022 included:

- iHeartRadio Communities Spotlight: iHeart creates “Spotlight” campaigns in the company’s history to inspire iHeart’s millions of listeners to take action to positively impact the world. For 2022, iHeart created and produced the “HeartCountry October For Hope” concert, which aired on Veterans Day.

- Focus on Mental Health: iHeartRadio remains committed to ensuring that mental health messaging remains a priority for each of our radio stations. In 2022, we worked with leading mental health organizations, including the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI), Child Mind Institute, Crisis Textline and the Inspiring Children Foundation to raise awareness of mental health issues and foster a culture within communities that supports talking about mental health.

- Disaster Assistance and Response Plan (DARP): iHeart plays a vitally important role in our local communities when disasters or traumatic events occur. During times of crisis, from the COVID-19 pandemic to natural disasters like the wildfires and severe drought in California, Hurricane Ian floods in Missouri and Kentucky, and the horrific shootings in Uvalde and Colorado Springs, iHeart was essential to the lives of local residents, with our broadcast radio and digital platforms serving as the sole information source for disrupted areas. Additionally, DARP – which includes reserves of radio transmitters, emergency power generators and other newsw-gathering equipment positioned in locations around the country ready to travel – enabled our platforms to stay operational so they could provide essential connection, support, information and resources to local residents in impacted areas.

- Focus on Addiction: iHeartMedia’s commitment to combat substance misuse and overdose began with the launch of NOAC.org (National Opioid Action Coalition) in 2018 as a resource hub for the private and public sector to help communities and families combat the opioid epidemic. Additionally, for the past five years, iHeart’s Recovery Month media efforts have supported the recovery movement, including the families and caregivers, and have helped inspire interventions to start the recovery journey. As part of this initiative, iHeart has partnered with The Voices Project to support and promote “Mobilize Recovery,” a national bus tour that advocates for community-based recovery solutions and ending preventable overdose deaths. In 2022, iHeart announced a multi-faceted campaign with the Partnership to End Addiction, a national nonprofit uniquely positioned to reach, engage and help families impacted by addiction. iHeart was also honored by the Partnership to End Addiction for its support of the organization’s work and dedication to ending addiction.

- Commitment to Veterans: For the last 10 years, iHeartMedia has been committed to addressing veteran unemployment and employment retention and launched what is still the largest public service announcement campaign in the company’s history – iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes to address the national veteran unemployment crisis. On Veterans Day 2021, iHeart unveiled an all-new Show Your Stripes program that realigned the program with some of the most pressing issues facing veterans today, including a focus on wellness – from health and emotional wellness to environmental, financial, intellectual, occupational, physical, social and spiritual wellness. Additionally, in 2022, iHeart created and produced the “HeartCountry Oct. for Hope” concert, which aired on Veterans Day.

Children’s Food Insecurity: To help ensure kids have access to food during the summer months, iHeart is a long-time supporter of No Kid Hungry’s summer feeding service, providing over $6.6 million in donated media since 2018.

Our 12th annual Community Impact Report gives us the opportunity to reflect on all that our company – and, most importantly, our people – have done to help our communities move forward. We have enormous appreciation for the many nonprofit organizations included in this report that are working every day to create meaningful change – and we want to thank our listeners and our employees for their continued support of the communities in which we all live and work.
ABOUT iHEARTMEDIA

Our responsibility begins with broadcast radio; we are available free over the air to all.

As the number one audio company in the U.S., and the largest broadcast radio company, the most important responsibility we have is to the communities we serve.

Our purpose is to change the world through the power of audio, using our multiple platforms and diverse content to connect people through companionship, compelling storytelling and service to our communities.

We are committed to cultivating and fostering diversity at every level of our company to ensure that we reflect our broad and diverse audiences across the many communities in which we live and work.

Broadcast radio is the most trusted medium in America – and iHeartMedia is the most trusted radio company.

79% OF AMERICANS value the opinion and perspectives of their favorite radio DJ/personality, which is why radio is two times more trustworthy than social media.

As the nation’s largest broadcast radio company, our focus on targeted local programming and the deep connection on-air personalities have with listeners has led to iHeartRadio being considered the most trusted name in radio.
2022 was a year filled with hope and progress as the world began to feel more confident about relief from the COVID-19 pandemic thanks to readily available vaccinations and ongoing safety measures. While communities across the globe were still grappling with the ripple effects of COVID, nonprofits were also recovering financially — and navigating how to alter their mission to better serve the public in this new normal.

For decades, iHeart has played a critically important role for — and in — its communities, providing support, information, resources and companionship, and helping to create positive change in partnership with some of the most impactful nonprofits in the country. We have forged deep and ongoing relationships by supporting the work of nonprofit organizations and philanthropic causes that shine a light on the critical issues of our times, many of which have come to rely on our partnerships in order to connect to their communities. Through these close national partnerships, iHeart continues to address issues vital to our listeners while helping to further the missions of hundreds of organizations making real and lasting change around the most relevant national and global concerns.

The company’s community programs are built on the idea that, through public awareness and education, we can drive attention and action to bring deeper understanding of both world issues and individual community matters. In 2022, iHeartMedia supported thousands of local and nonprofit organizations nationwide and raised hundreds of millions of dollars for critical issues both in the United States and globally. From natural disaster relief and action to prioritizing the health and safety of our communities, iHeart reaches deep into communities through our diverse portfolio of platforms and assets — broadcast, digital, podcasts, personalities, influencers, social, live events and more — to create positive lasting change within the neighborhoods and communities in which we live and work.

The following pages showcase some of 2022’s most impactful national programs and partnerships.
Since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, scientific data indicates that deaths from heart disease and stroke have risen significantly, and more people are reporting lower physical and emotional wellness. Additionally, many people have delayed or avoided seeking medical care, and unhealthy use of alcohol and other substances has been on the rise.

For more than a decade, iHeartMedia has committed over $6.8 million in on-air media to help educate the public on the signs and risk factors associated with heart disease and stroke as part of its collaboration with the American Heart Association — the leading voluntary health organization devoted to a world of longer, healthier lives for all — and in support of American Heart Month.

In February, during American Heart Month, iHeart supported the American Heart Association in their campaign to help people all over the country “reclaim their rhythm” and take back control of their mental and physical well-being. The female-voiced PSA encouraged listeners to draw inspiration from the power of music to create healthy habits that work best for their life. The PSAs drove the public to heart.org for resources and examples of how to reclaim their health.

AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION

About
The American Heart Association is a relentless force for a world of longer, healthier lives. We are dedicated to ensuring equitable health in all communities. Through collaboration with numerous organizations, and powered by millions of volunteers, we fund innovative research, advocate for the public’s health and share lifesaving resources. The Dallas-based organization has been a leading source of health information for nearly a century.

We are thankful for iHeartMedia’s continued commitment to the American Heart Association and our lifesaving mission to be a relentless force for longer, healthier lives. Together, we are helping people create healthy habits that work best for their life, to give them the best chance at life.”

WOMENHEART
THE NATIONAL COALITION FOR WOMEN WITH HEART DISEASE

Misdiagnosis

When seeking health care, women often receive a delayed or wrong diagnosis before finding out that they have heart disease. This is due to myriad reasons, including the fact that women often exhibit different heart disease symptoms than men and therefore do not receive the appropriate diagnostic testing. However, heart disease is the leading cause of death in women—killing more women than all cancers combined.

For the sixth consecutive year, iHeart teamed up with WomenHeart: The National Coalition for Women with Heart Disease to highlight the very specific symptoms that women experience during a heart attack and to bring attention to the misdiagnosis of millions of women annually. All female-focused iHeartMedia stations ran a PSA reminding listeners to stay in touch with their healthcare providers, learn the signs of heart disease in women, and become an advocate for their own physical health. The spots were designed to empower women with knowledge and inspiration and to share the stories of women who have experienced missed and delayed diagnoses of heart disease.

WomenHeart is so grateful for iHeartMedia’s ongoing commitment to raising awareness of heart disease in women, and particularly for lifting up women’s stories. When our experiences of missed and delayed diagnosis are shared, we become empowered to advocate for our own heart health and to support other women in doing the same. This collaboration expands our reach to more women with information and messages of hope. Together we are saving lives.”

WOMENHEART: THE NATIONAL COALITION FOR WOMEN WITH HEART DISEASE

Black Women and Heart Disease

Nearly half of Black women over the age of 20 have heart disease, and many do not even know it. Additionally, the prevalence of high blood pressure among Black women is nearly 40% higher than white women in the U.S., posing an even greater risk for heart disease — the leading cause of death in the nation. In addition to a number of other efforts during Heart Health Month, iHeart set out to shine a spotlight on the disproportionate impact of heart disease among Black women, and the critical need to raise awareness about risk factors and heart-healthy living. To mark both Black History Month and Heart Month, iHeart created a PSA that inspired Black women to take control of their heart health by finding out what their blood pressure is and, if it’s high, work with a healthcare provider to get it under control. The spot also encouraged women to listen to their bodies and to advocate for themselves in a way that promotes health and wellness.

While it’s important to shine a spotlight on health inequity and the disparities in heart health outcomes experienced by Black women, it is equally important to empower them with knowledge and the tools to take control of their heart health. We are thankful that iHeartMedia is committed to working with WomenHeart to spread awareness and promote messages of encouragement and inspiration.”

Your Hour, Her Power

Women leaders, mentors and sponsors play a significant role in empowering women as they advance in their careers. Given the impact of COVID-19 on women’s careers and representation in the workforce, access to employment tools and resources has never been more critical. With a loss of $800 billion in global revenue as the result of women leaving the workforce due to the pandemic, it’s a critical time to support women and to help usher in socioeconomic change.

iHeart joined Dress for Success, a global nonprofit employment resource for women, for its annual Your Hour, Her Power® campaign. Your Hour, Her Power® was created to address the disparities women have faced in the wake of the pandemic, the economic crisis and other related challenges. In honor of Women’s History Month and International Women’s Day, the organization shared the stories of 28 groundbreaking women leaders from diverse industries who are making an impact in their industries and beyond, and asked people to donate the equivalent of one hour of pay to support the organization’s mission to help women achieve economic independence. By donating, individuals help women gain access to Dress for Success’ programs, services and tools.

iHeart adopted the stories of three media and entertainment individuals for its radio campaign, including iHeart CMO Gayle Troberman, “Good Morning America” co-anchor Robin Roberts and award-winning actor and The Outset founder Scarlett Johansson, all of whom have had a measurable impact in helping women achieve self-defined success.

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY

Home is the Key
Everyone deserves the security and stability of a decent home they can afford. But for too many in America, that isn’t the case. One in six U.S. households spend more than half of their paychecks on housing costs, creating a burden that often requires families to make difficult choices between their housing and essentials such as health care, education or healthy food.

For the past six years, iHeartMedia has teamed up with Habitat for Humanity International’s spring cause marketing campaign “Home is the Key” campaign aims to demonstrate how a safe and affordable home creates a better life for families and individuals, and encourages others to join the effort to make these homes a reality for more people in the U.S. and around the world.

Many local iHeartMedia radio stations are longtime supporters of their respective Habitat for Humanity chapters. For the last several years, they’ve come together to bring the “Home is the Key” campaign to life, expanding the opportunity for so many more families. Through a series of powerful PSAs voiced by Habitat for Humanity homeowners as well as iHeart on-air personalities, iHeartMedia highlighted the importance of home as a crucial key to a better life. The 2022 “Home is the Key” campaign reinforced the tremendous meaning of home and drew on support from Habitat’s community of advocates. The on-air, digital and live event program also called attention to the critical need for affordable housing across the U.S. and activated consumers to join the cause. Through radio and digital PSAs, as well as social media, iHeartMedia encouraged listeners to support the campaign.

A safe, decent and affordable home can open a world of opportunity, of equity, of better health outcomes and stronger, more resilient communities. But millions of people continue to face obstacles that prevent them from accessing affordable homeownership. With the support of partners like iHeartMedia, we have been able to expand our reach and spread awareness of the need for affordable housing across the country. iHeartMedia has been a valuable partner of Habitat’s annual ‘Home is the Key’ cause marketing campaign since its inception in 2017, and we are grateful for their continued support of our mission to build homes, community and hope around the world.”

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY
Habitat.org
Driven by the vision that everyone needs a decent place to live, Habitat for Humanity found its earliest inspirations as a grassroots movement on an interracial community farm in south Georgia. Since its founding in 1976, the Christian housing organization has grown to become a leading global nonprofit working in local communities across all 50 states in the U.S. and in more than 70 countries. Families and individuals in need of a hand-up partner with Habitat for Humanity to build or improve a place they can call home. Habitat homeowners help build their own homes alongside volunteers and pay an affordable mortgage. Through financial support, volunteering or adding a voice to support affordable housing, everyone can help families achieve the strength, stability and self-reliance they need to build better lives for themselves. Through shelter, we empower.

In April 2022, following the invasion of Ukraine by Russian forces, iHeartMedia joined forces with Global Citizen and “Stand Up for Ukraine” – a campaign that seeks to mobilize billions of dollars to support humanitarian efforts in Ukraine and in neighboring countries – to drive opportunities for iHeartRadio listeners to take action and contribute to the global appeal.

The partnership followed Ukraine President Volodymyr Zelenskyy’s appeal to the international community on behalf of Ukrainian citizens who were displaced and injured by the Russian invasion, saying, “On April 9, the biggest online event ‘Social Media Rally’ will support people who were forced to flee Ukraine. I’m inviting everybody: musicians, actors, athletes, businessmen, politicians, everybody. Everyone who wants to join this movement and ‘Stand Up for Ukraine.’

iHeartMedia is a longstanding partner of Global Citizen, which played a leading role, along with European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen and Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau, in organizing the April 9 “Stand Up for Ukraine” pledging summit to help mobilize funding in support of humanitarian efforts for Ukraine, and to show support to refugees everywhere. Hundreds of world-renowned artists, athletes, entertainers and advocates pledged to join the global social rally and urged world leaders to commit to aiding refugees. iHeartRadio shared special calls to action and PSAs, and amplified artists – including Billie Eilish, Celine Dion, Demi Lovato, Elton John, Jon Batiste, Jonas Brothers, Katy Perry, Leon Bridges, Madonna, Miley Cyrus, Pearl Jam, Pharrell Williams, Radiohead, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Stevie Nicks, Stevie Wonder, Tame Impala, U2 and Usher -- who posted unique performance content on their social channels in support of “Stand Up for Ukraine.”

All iHeart listeners were urged to join the social media rally by visiting www.forukraine.com and take action by calling on governments and businesses to pledge the billions that the refugee relief effort so urgently needs.

“We are so grateful to iHeartMedia for the support they gave to ‘Stand Up for Ukraine.’ We are thankful they encouraged their audiences to support Ukrainian refugees. Now is the time for us to use our voice to call on world leaders to commit the billions needed to address this humanitarian crisis.”

Global Citizen

Global Citizen is an international advocacy organization on a mission to end extreme poverty NOW. Powered by a worldwide community of everyday activists raising their voices and taking action, the movement is amplified by campaigns and events that convene leaders in music, entertainment, public policy, media, philanthropy and the corporate sector. Over the past 10 years, $41 billion in commitments announced on Global Citizen platforms has been deployed, impacting more than 1.15 billion lives. Established in Australia in 2008, Global Citizen’s team operates from New York, London, Paris, Berlin, Melbourne, Toronto, Johannesburg, Lagos and beyond.

STAND UP FOR UKRAINE

In April 2022, following the invasion of Ukraine by Russian forces, iHeartMedia joined forces with Global Citizen and “Stand Up for Ukraine.” – a campaign that seeks to mobilize billions of dollars to support humanitarian efforts in Ukraine and in neighboring countries – to drive opportunities for iHeartRadio listeners to take action and contribute to the global appeal. Every year, Make-A-Wish®, the organization that grants life-changing wishes for children with critical illnesses, celebrates World Wish Day® on April 29, the anniversary of the wish that inspired the founding of Make-A-Wish in 1980. World Wish Day® commemorates the hundreds of thousands of life-changing wishes that have been granted – and the thousands of wishes still to come.

iHeart joined with its longtime partner Make-A-Wish to promote this year’s theme, “Restore Hope with a Wish,” which encouraged individuals and corporations to donate to make life-changing wishes possible for children who are waiting for their wishes to come true. Inspired by new research on the impact of a wish, World Wish Day 2022 focused on how the hope that a wish provides can improve the emotional and mental well-being of children with critical illnesses, helping them deal with and overcome their illnesses.

World Wish Day shines a light on the imperative role a wish plays in a child’s medical treatment. Research shows that a wish can help kids build the physical and emotional strength they need to fight a critical illness – an eye-opening finding in light of the fact that Make-A-Wish is currently only able to grant the wish of one out of every two eligible children in the U.S. The radio campaign ran during the week leading up to World Wish Day across all iHeart radio stations.

“ We are grateful for iHeart’s ongoing support. Wishes act as a turning point in a wish kid’s treatment, helping them find the motivation to persevere and envision a brighter future. Thanks to our national corporate partners like iHeart, wishes do come true.”

HOME BASE

There are nearly 17 million military veterans in the U.S. today, each of whom bravely and selflessly served our nation. But returning home and healing from the invisible wounds of war may be the longest and most difficult battle they have ever faced. Since 2001, more than 250,000 veterans have died by suicide; an estimated 20 veterans are tragically lost to suicide every day; and hundreds of thousands more suffer from service-connected conditions.

Home Base is devoted to helping veterans, service members and their families by treating conditions such as post-traumatic stress disorder, traumatic brain injury, military sexual trauma and co-occurring challenges such as depression and anxiety— and iHeart is committed to lifting Home Base’s cause through support and awareness.

In 2022, iHeart forged a relationship with Home Base to bring awareness to the profound struggle of mental health and suicide among U.S. veterans. To launch this partnership, iHeart hosted Home Base Director of Health and Wellness Ron Hirschberg, MD, a physiatrist at Massachusetts General Hospital, on its national community affairs show. Dr. Hirschberg is also the host of Home Base Nation, Home Base’s podcast featuring discussions on serving those who have served with military and civilian leaders of a grateful nation.

Additionally, Home Base became a premier partner of iHeartRadio’s “Show Your Stripes,” an initiative that addresses some of the most pressing issues facing veterans today, including a focus on wellness—from health and emotional wellness to environmental, financial, intellectual, occupational, physical, social and spiritual wellness.

Last year, iHeart also premiered two radio campaigns, valued at over $1 million in media support, that focused on helping veterans find and access care, and launched a digital public fundraising campaign during Veterans Day to help Home Base provide free care to those in need.

Home Base is tremendously grateful for, and excited about, our partnership with iHeart. They not only value the health and wellness welfare of our military community but put actions behind their words. We look forward to a long-lasting relationship in which our two organizations will raise vital awareness and funds for the critical care we provide to our veterans of all eras, service members, military families and families of the fallen.”

HOME BASE
HomeBase.org

Home Base is a national nonprofit dedicated to healing the invisible wounds of war for veterans of all eras, service members, military families and families of the fallen through world-class, direct clinical care, wellness, education and research—all at no cost to them—regardless of their era of service, discharge status or geographical location. The program was founded by Massachusetts General Hospital and the Boston Red Sox.
Summer is the hungriest time of year for kids and teens who rely on programs like school meals. While free summer meal programs, run by schools and community groups, are available to any kid or teenager who needs a healthy meal when school is out, many families don’t know about them or how to access the programs in their communities. This summer presented even more challenges for kids, as rising food and fuel costs made it harder for families to put food on the table.

To help solve this problem and raise awareness, iHeartMedia teamed up with No Kid Hungry for the fourth consecutive summer to promote the campaign’s summer meals texting service and Free Meals Finder Map. To help ensure kids have access to food during the summer months and raise awareness, No Kid Hungry runs a summer meals texting service, available in English and Spanish. Students, parents, grandparents and caregivers can text ‘FOOD’ or ‘COMIDA’ to 304-304 to find free summer meal sites in their nearby community, open to anyone 18 years or younger. Each text received prompts the user to provide their address or zip code to generate the locations and service information for summer meal sites in the nearby community. This service is also available through the web via No Kid Hungry’s Free Meals Finder Map by visiting www.NoKidHungry.org/Help. iHeart is a major supporter of No Kid Hungry’s summer meals program, providing over $6.6 million in donated media since 2018. In 2022, all iHeartMedia radio stations ran public service campaigns promoting the texting service and Free Meals Finder Map nationwide to help spread the word and connect as many kids as possible to free summer meals.

Millions of kids in the United States rely on school for more than just an education. It’s where they can rely on getting the food they need through meal programs like breakfast, lunch and afterschool meals. But when school is out, many of those meals disappear. This summer, the rise in food and fuel prices presented even more challenges for families to put food on the table, making raising awareness of free summer meals sites across the nation, extremely critical. We’re grateful for the continued partnership with iHeartMedia to help us promote our summer meals text service and letting families know where to find healthy meals for their kids.”

“NO KID HUNGRY

No child should go hungry in America. But millions of kids in the United States live with hunger. No Kid Hungry is working to end childhood hunger by helping launch and improve programs that give all kids the healthy food they need to thrive. This is a problem we know how to solve. No Kid Hungry is a campaign of Share Our Strength, an organization committed to ending hunger and poverty.

After more than two years of remote work and living in a pandemic, many employees are questioning their careers in what is being dubbed “The Great Resignation.” Black, Indigenous and people of color (BIPOC) employees in particular were feeling overworked and undervalued, and were seeking a “better work environment,” according to a VMLY&R study on the advertising industry.

iHeart joined the 4A’s Foundation to help advocate for and improve diversity within the advertising and media industry for its launch of “Dear Black Talent,” an initiative designed to empower the next generation of Black advertising leaders. “Dear Black Talent” was intended to be a recruitment platform geared toward attracting new talent into the industry, driving consideration for those returning to the industry, and elevating individuals seeking professional growth and development.

The iHeart-created radio PSAs called on Black professionals interested in exploring a career in media to visit the all-new “Dear Black Talent” website that was designed to drive discovery about agency life, shed light on other Black professionals’ journeys, and provide educational resources and networking opportunities. Users were also able to view and apply to a range of job listings provided by agency partners directly from the website.

Our success would not have been possible without the advertising and media industry coming together to do their part, which is exactly what iHeart did for us as a key media partner. To ensure we had the right scale and reach, iHeart provided us with pro-bono media targeted at our key target consumers and even supported the creative development of the PSA asset. Without their support, we would not have been able to expand our footprint beyond digital and reach our target in a truly impactful and contextually relevant way.”

Established in 1997, the 4A’s Foundation has been investing in education and providing financial support, primarily through scholarships, for future multicultural advertising and media executives. The 4A’s Foundation team discovers, develops, and delivers best-in-class diverse talent to the industry through pipeline programs, scholarships, grants, and training from the high school to professional level for all stages of one’s career. Our programs work to amplify and catalyze the voices and actions of multicultural talent to ensure we are fueling a more equitable future for the marketing industry. We directly impact the lives of over 4,000 professionals by providing the platform to launch and sustain their careers and offer a place for community to all multicultural talent.
Kidde partnered with iHeart for this initiative to engage and educate communities across the country so that fires like Twin Parks don’t happen again. We want to thank iHeartMedia for its commitment to this campaign and the $25,000 contribution to the Bronx Community Foundation. ‘Cause For Alarm’ empowers communities to take control of their safety by providing fire safety tips and best practices before an incident occurs.”

Fatal residential fires disproportionately affect Black communities where the risk of fire-related death is almost twice that of individuals of any other race. According to the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), the lack of access to fire safety educational resources and websites in popular languages spoken in the U.S. contributes to the gap in fire safety.

In response to these statistics, Kidde, an iHeart partner and a trusted leader in fire safety for more than 100 years, created “Cause For Alarm,” a fire safety awareness initiative addressing gaps in education and access to fire safety measures. The “Cause for Alarm” campaign strives to provide access to education on home safety basics, product placement guides, emergency plans and more.

The “Cause for Alarm” campaign was featured on the nationally-syndicated “The Breakfast Club” morning show with on-air personalities DJ Envy, Angela Yee and Angie Martinez supporting the program. To strengthen the partnership, DJ Envy hosted an event with The Bronx Community Foundation in the Bronx, New York and helped unveil a thought-provoking mural by renowned New York City-based visual artist Cey Adams. Following the event, iHeart premiered a radio PSA program across all radio stations that discussed the socioeconomic factors that are among the best-known predictors of fire rates in neighborhoods and drove listeners to CauseForAlarm.com to access visual and multilingual fire safety resources.

iHeart also featured Kidde on its national Community Affairs program and interviewed Michael Kozo, the commanding officer of the FDNY’s Fire Safety Education Unit, and Ivantee Bonilla, Director of Communications and Public Relations for Fire & Security Products at Carrier Corporation for iHeart’s Spanish stations. During the 30-minute show, both speakers discussed the importance of fire preparedness as well as Kidde’s “Cause For Alarm” campaign. Bronx Borough President Vanessa L. Gibson was also a guest on “The Breakfast Club” to talk about the work they have done in the community since the catastrophic Twin Parks fires.

High-quality summer and afterschool programs can change the trajectory of a young person’s life. In 2022, the National Summer Learning Association (NSLA) organized its annual National Summer Learning Week from July 12-16. The week consists of hundreds of partner events across the U.S. to raise awareness and elevate the importance of keeping all kids—regardless of background, income or zip code—learning, earning, safe and healthy every summer, ensuring they return to school each fall prepared to succeed and thrive.

In 2022, Summer Learning Week was focused on supporting academic and social-emotional gains, and celebrating educators, youth providers and community partners who have provided safe, healthy and enriching experiences to young people throughout the pandemic. Daily themes throughout the week were designed to shine a spotlight on high-quality summer programs across the nation and to focus attention on critical summer issues like nutrition; social-emotional wellness; literacy and the arts; STEM; career skills; and employment opportunities for older youth. Additionally, to celebrate and bring summer learning to life, they launched a new overnight National Youth Leadership Institute at American University in Washington, D.C. for student and staff leaders from 50 summer programs across the United States.

Since 2016, iHeartMedia and NSLA have joined forces on national summer PSA campaigns to promote the importance of summer learning and fun English and Spanish PSAs voiced by U.S. Department of Education Secretary Miguel Cardona included a call for families to visit DiscoverSummer.org—a new online destination, developed in response to COVID-19, to help families discover affordable summer programs, summer meals, youth employment opportunities, mentors and a sea of summer enrichment resources.

Additionally, iHeart featured the NSLA on its National Community Affairs program and interviewed Aaron Philip Dworkin, CEO of NSLA. During the interview, Dworkin discussed DiscoverSummer.org, its online database of Summer Learning Resources sponsored in part by iHeartMedia—that encourages families to discover both in-person and virtual summer programs in their communities. He also talked about the effects of summer learning loss, equity in education and the impact of COVID-19 on summer education.

DiscoverSummer.org saw an overwhelming uptick in online visitors in search of resources and programs offering meals, academic support, caring mentors, college and career preparation, exposure to the arts, health and fitness in 2022. COVID impacted all of us, but research shows it affected the lowest income and most vulnerable students the hardest. Summer learning has been identified as a key national strategy to help kids recover and DiscoverSummer.org makes it easier for families to find and sign up for local summer learning programs. We are pleased to work with iHeart to share this important resource and expand the 2023 listings across the nation.”

Global Citizen is an international advocacy organization on a mission to “End Extreme Poverty NOW.” Each year, its Global Citizen Festival brings together the worlds of music, entertainment, public policy, philanthropy and big brands to raise funding and pledges toward its mission to end extreme poverty, defend the planet and demand equity for women and girls everywhere.

Last year, for the 10th anniversary Global Citizen Festival in New York City’s Central Park, iHeartMedia joined its longtime ally as the exclusive U.S. audio partner and played an instrumental role in promoting the event both in New York City and across the U.S. leading up to the show day through on-air and digital PSAs as well as ticket giveaways and contesting.

With two stages in international cultural capitals – New York City and Accra, Ghana – the 2022 Global Citizen Festival was broadcast and streamed on iHeartRadio and other major media outlets. Global Citizen Festival: Accra featured performances by Usher, SZA, Stormzy, Gyakie, Sarkodie, Stonebwoy, TEMS and Uncle Waffles, and was hosted by award-winning actor, playwright and activist Danai Gurira. Global Citizen Festival: NYC featured performances by Metallica, Charlie Puth, Jonas Brothers, Måneskin, Mariah Carey, Mickey Guyton and Rosalía, with special guest performances by Angélique Kidjo and Billy Porter, and was hosted by actor, producer, author and Global Citizen Ambassador Priyanka Chopra Jonas.

To further support this worldwide event, iHeart launched Global Citizen Radio, which featured music by past and present Global Citizen Festival performers and offered the latest news and information surrounding the campaign and event. 2022 was the tenth year that iHeart partnered with Global Citizen on its annual festival, which is just one part of iHeart’s longtime partnership with Global Citizen; they have also partnered on past events like One World: Together At Home; Global Goal: Unite for Our Future; Global Citizen Live; and VAX LIVE: The Concert to Reunite the World.

Since the first Global Citizen Festival in New York City in 2012, Global Citizen has grown into one of the largest, most visible platforms for people around the world calling on world leaders to honor their responsibilities in achieving the United Nations’ Sustainable Development Goals and ending extreme poverty by 2030.

We are so grateful for the long-standing partnership between Global Citizen and iHeart. From the first Global Citizen Festival in 2012, to the 10th anniversary Global Citizen Festival in New York’s Central Park and including many more events along the way, iHeart has engaged its listeners in our mission of ending extreme poverty. We look forward to the years to come, and to the positive impact we will continue to create together.”

Youth violence is a significant public health problem. According to the Center for Disease Control (CDC), homicide is a major leading cause of death for young people between the ages of 15 and 24. iHeartMedia is a longtime partner of the Peace in the Streets Global Film Festival (PSGFF), which showcases young filmmakers from around the world sharing ideas about what peace looks like in their communities.

The Peace in the Streets Global Film Festival is a worldwide program from The Peacemaker Corps—an organization whose mission is to promote peace, tolerance and nonviolent conflict resolution. In a world where violence is a part of so many young people’s lives, the Peace in the Streets Global Film Festival offers an outlet for youth from the Americas, Africa, Asia and Europe to submit an original one to five-minute video that expresses what peace means to them and illustrates how they influence peace and love in their own neighborhoods.

For the last eight years, iHeartMedia has played an active role in sharing information about the festival, and has aired tens of thousands of PSAs across all iHeart radio stations to encourage submissions. In 2022, iHeart produced and aired a PSA encouraging young people globally to showcase their vision of peace in their own neighborhoods and in the world through video storytelling. The winning film was featured at the Peace In The Streets awards ceremony at the United Nations in New York City.

In today’s world the need for peace has never been greater. Each day, millions of children and young adults are victims of bullying, physical abuse, violent words, the ever present threat of school shootings – and now the consequences of war. Small acts of kindness can make a big impact. A growing body of research has demonstrated the tangible benefits of kindness, for communities and for individuals — and, according to the Born This Way Foundation’s “2017 Kind Communities — A Bridge to Youth Mental Wellness” report, young people who describe their environments as kind are more likely to be mentally healthy. That's true for youth in high schools, colleges and the workplace.

Born This Way Foundation is dedicated to supporting young people’s mental health, and to working with them to create a kinder, braver world. In 2022, iHeart launched a media partnership with Lady Gaga’s Born This Way Foundation’s “#BeKind21,” an annual program that invites young people, families, employers, educators and community members to take intentional kind actions in support of themselves and our collective wellness year-round.

Inspired by the idea that we each have the power to foster healthier communities through our kind acts, the radio PSA campaign, voiced by Cynthia Germanotta, co-founder and President of Born This Way Foundation, called on participants to practice an act of kindness each day from September 1 to September 21. Listeners were encouraged to take the pledge and share their experience on social media using the hashtag #BeKind21.

Culminating on U.N. International Day of Peace, #BeKind21 invited schools and colleges to kick off the new school year by establishing kinder habits, and for corporate partners, nonprofit partners and all other participants to head into the fall with a spirit of compassion and kindness across their organizations and in their communities.

Young people know kindness is the way forward to a kinder and braver world that supports our collective wellness. Our team is proud of all our #BeKind21 partners for joining us in leading the charge and working with us to amplify the acts of kindness that are happening in our communities. We are inspired by iHeartMedia’s commitment to supporting youth mental health and we look forward to creating more opportunities for connection, kindness and impactful change together.”

The mission of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation, Inc. (CBCF) is to advance the global Black community by developing leaders, informing policy and educating the public; and to foster equal voices in public policy through leadership cultivation, economic empowerment and civic engagement. The CBCF’s Annual Legislative Conference (ALC) is the nation’s leading public policy conference on issues impacting Black communities across the country and around the world. The Honorary Co-Chairs of the 2022 ALC, Congresswoman Val Demings of Florida and Congressman Steven Horsford of Nevada, established the ALC’s theme, “Advancing Our Purpose: Elevating Our Power.”

In 2022, for the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia and BIN: Black Information Network helped promote the 51st Annual Legislative Conference, which — after two years of exclusively virtual programming — attracted more than 10,000 in-person attendees to Washington, D.C. and thousands more to join free virtual events. Hundreds of local iHeartRadio and BIN stations across the country encouraged listeners to join the members of the Congressional Black Caucus, Black leaders and respected policy advocates supporting the ALC to share perspectives on issues that impact the global Black community including education, economic development, public health, voting rights, civic engagement and social and environmental justice. BIN also sponsored an ALC panel entitled “Our Voices Must Be Heard,” which focused on the importance of Black voices in media and journalism.

The Annual Legislative Conference serves as an opportunity for CBC members to connect with current and future leaders of our nation. Through the unique perspectives of thought leaders, community organizers, activists and others, we will generate the momentum necessary to propel the Black community to new heights.”

iHEARTMEDIA
Every year, millions of eligible voters are unable to cast ballots because of missed registration deadlines, outdated registration information, or other problems with their voter status. While 2022 was not a presidential election year, the 2022 midterm elections were a very important year with elections for 35 of the 100 seats in the U.S. Senate; all 435 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives; governors in 36 states; legislators in 88 of the country’s 99 state legislative chambers; and hundreds of local appointments.

Building on iHeartMedia’s longstanding efforts to encourage all Americans to vote, iHeart once again teamed up with the Civic Alliance in support of the ‘I am a voter’ nonpartisan movement that aims to create a cultural shift around voting and civic engagement. Launched in 2018, the program was created to encourage a common expectation of voter participation— not to sway one way or another. The Civic Alliance is a coalition of entertainment, tech, fashion, beauty and media companies that are working to advance nonpartisan civic engagement by promoting a culture of participation, both internally at their companies and externally through public awareness activations and strategic partnerships. As part of the Civic Alliance, iHeartMedia is committed to airing media during pivotal moments in the election cycle. For the midterm elections, iHeart ran PSAs across iHeartMedia radio stations over 20K times in the days leading up to important voter registration deadlines. All PSAs encouraged listeners to Text VOTER to 26797 to check their registration status before election day.

We are so grateful for the longstanding partnership with iHeart, which has leveraged their platform to push out the important message: that our democracy works best when we all participate! The reach of ‘I am a voter’ is only possible because of partners like iHeart.”

Delayed screenings are already resulting in a rise of later-stage breast cancer diagnoses and, devastatingly, still more preventable deaths.

Stressing the importance of screening is critical to saving lives. We are grateful for iHeartMedia for its commitment to improving women’s health."

MYRA BIBLOWIT
PRESIDENT & CEO,
THE BREAST CANCER RESEARCH FOUNDATION

The U.S. National Cancer Institute has estimated that there will be 10,000 excess deaths from breast and colorectal cancer in the decade ahead—deaths that may have been otherwise prevented with proper screening. Simultaneously, breast cancer incidence is increasing; in 2021, the World Health Organization announced that breast cancer is now the most common cancer worldwide, surpassing lung cancer for the first time. We know that early detection is a key determinant of survival, and increasing screening rates is imperative to reducing breast cancer deaths.

Supporting 250 scientists at leading academic and medical centers across 14 countries, Breast Cancer Research Foundation (BCRF) is the world’s most preeminent source for the latest advancements in breast cancer prevention, diagnoses, treatment, survivorship and metastasis. To date, BCRF-funded investigators have been involved in every major breakthrough in breast cancer research.

To encourage women to make appointments for their annual health screenings and to talk to their doctors about various screening options, iHeart teamed up with the BCRF—the largest private funder of breast cancer research in the world—for a national PSA campaign during Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October, an annual campaign to raise awareness about the impact of breast cancer.

About Breast Cancer Research Foundation

Breast cancer is a complex disease with no simple solution. Research is the key to stopping it in its tracks. Founded in 1993 by Evelyn H. Lauder, the Breast Cancer Research Foundation is the largest private funder of breast cancer research in the world. We invest in the best minds in science—from those investigating prevention to metastasis—and foster cross-disciplinary collaboration. Our approach accelerates the entire field and moves us closer to the answers we urgently need. We can’t stop now. Join us in fueling the world’s most promising research. With you, we will be the end of breast cancer.
GLAAD SPIRIT DAY

Today, LGBTQ youth, and especially transgender and non-binary youth, are still experiencing scrutiny in schools, adding to the peer-to-peer bullying of the past. Additionally, cyberbullying is at an all-time high. iHeartMedia is committed to working with GLAAD, the nation’s leading LGBTQ media advocacy organization, to continue to educate and inspire its diverse audiences and team members to learn more about LGBTQ communities and to build support for equality.

GLAAD’s Spirit Day brings together hundreds of celebrities, media companies, brands, landmarks, faith groups, schools and more to show support for LGBTQ youth.

Since 2010, iHeartMedia has ‘gone purple’ on Spirit Day, standing with GLAAD and its partners against bullying. For the sixth consecutive year, iHeartMedia expanded its efforts by launching an on-air PSA campaign across all AC, Hot AC, CHR and RCHR stations to encourage listeners to go purple and unite against bullying of LGBTQ youth. iHeartRadio also promoted Spirit Day across its social media channels as well as on iHeartRadio’s editorial platform.

In addition, Tony Morrison, GLAAD’s Senior Director of Communications, penned a guest post on the iHeartRadio blog about how youth may need GLAAD’s Spirit Day now more than ever.

"At a time when anti-LGBTQ rhetoric, violence and legislation continue to rise at alarming rates, LGBTQ youth need to hear a loud message of affirmation on Spirit Day and all year long. We hope LGBTQ youth see Spirit Day participation and recognize they are loved and supported just as they are. That’s why we are especially proud of the partnership between iHeartMedia and GLAAD, joining forces to let LGBTQ youth know: we see them, we celebrate them and we will not let others bully them for who they are.”

iHEARTMEDIA 50
One in five people in the United States experience learning and thinking differences, like ADHD and dyslexia. That means over 70 million of us are navigating a world that was not shaped for neurodiversity, and as a result are often misunderstood, undiagnosed or dismissed. Understood.org provides actionable resources, digital products and a supportive community to drive change for people who learn and think differently. Each year, Understood.org helps more than 20 million people discover their potential and thrive.

For a second consecutive year, iHeartMedia partnered with Understood.org to further its mission to shape the world for difference so that people who learn and think differently can thrive—regardless of the challenges that life brings.

In October 2022, for Learning Disabilities Awareness Month, iHeartMedia and Understood.org launched the “Wired Differently” campaign to support families, raise awareness among adults and allies and influence public perception about learning and thinking differences. The PSAs included testimonials from children, parents and adults talking about their own experiences with differences like ADHD and dyslexia. Listeners were encouraged to visit a specially curated webpage (U.org/iHeart) to take a Signs and Symptoms Quiz, explore resources and engage with a supportive community. The campaign also included digital banners on iHeartMedia stations’ websites, redirecting visitors to the Understood.org resource page.

Additionally, iHeart’s national Community Affairs program featured an interview with Dr. Andrew Kahn, Licensed Psychologist and Associate Director of Behavior Change and Expertise at Understood.org. During the interview, Dr. Kahn discussed the “Wired Differently” campaign and provided listeners with information on ADHD and dyslexia.

iHeartMedia fundamentally helped increase awareness of learning and thinking differences, such as ADHD and Dyslexia. Driving this awareness is critical and the first step in reducing stigma for the 70 million people in the U.S. who learn and think differently.”

The Black Census Project is an important step in transforming Black communities into constituencies that build power in cities and states. Over 30,000 Black people from across the country participated in the first Black Census Project in 2018. In 2022, iHeart teamed up with the Black Futures Lab for the Black Census Project 2022 with a goal of receiving 200,000 responses from across all 50 states by June — a mission to become the largest survey of Black people conducted in the United States in 157 years, six times the size of the 2018 Black Census.

iHeart stations across the country, including BIN: Black Information Network, supported the initiative through a series of on air and digital PSAs as well as with robust social media support. The stations promoted the in-person activations planned from March through June across the country that allowed Black communities to come together, share their experiences and discuss solutions to address the issues Black communities face. Additionally, national PSAs encouraged listeners to fill out the confidential, self-reporting survey online at blackcensus.org.

Angela Rye, Esq. (Principal and CEO, Impact Strategies) was a guest on the “The Breakfast Club,” “Big Boy’s Neighborhood,” “Steve Harvey,” “The WGCI Morning Show,” “The Rise & Grind Morning Show” and BIN: Black Information Network to discuss the importance of the Black Census Project and to encourage Black communities to stay engaged and wield political power to inform, influence and impact all institutions and decision-makers who are or should be engaging Black people.

If you want to take a pulse on what is happening with the country at large, listen and be responsive to Black communities. Black voters are the backbone of the Democratic party; yet our needs are often neglected and deprioritized by our elected officials.”

The CDC’s “Screen for Life: National Colorectal Cancer Action Campaign” informs men and women who are 45 years old or older about the importance of getting regularly screened for colorectal cancer. Screening tests help find precancerous polyps (abnormal growths) so they can be removed before they become cancerous. Screenings also help in finding this cancer early, when treatment works best. But many adults have not been screened as recommended.

Colorectal cancer is the fourth most common cancer in men and women. The CDC aims to reduce colorectal cancer incidence and deaths, as part of the agency’s overarching goal of ensuring that people are healthy in every stage of life.

For the second consecutive year, iHeart radio stations across the country helped promote “Screen for Life” in 2022 by airing a series of English and Spanish radio spots nationally that encouraged listeners to make an appointment for screening. Additionally, multiple radio stations conducted interviews with key CDC stakeholders and influencers hosted by Nephew Tommy and Mario Lopez. CDC messaging was also integrated into several iHeart podcasts.

“...At iHeart we consistently collaborate with partners to distribute the most critical information to keep our listeners informed and healthy. By working with the CDC’s Colorectal Cancer Control Program and their community partners we aim to increase screening rates in communities across that U.S. that will reduce the incidences of colorectal cancer nationally.”

CDC’S "SCREEN FOR LIFE"

CDC.gov

CDC’s “Screen for Life: National Colorectal Cancer Action Campaign” informs people about the importance of colorectal cancer screening beginning at age 45. Campaign development is based on an extensive review of communication and behavioral science literature. Since 1999, CDC has conducted more than 225 focus groups in 35 U.S. cities to assess knowledge, behaviors and screening practices related to colorectal cancer, and to test campaign messages and materials with target audiences. Input is also sought from state health departments on the types of materials that would be most helpful to local efforts.
Speeding endangers everyone on the road. According to National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) data, 11,258 people died in speeding-related crashes in 2020, and speeding was a contributing factor in 29% of all fatal crashes. Even with fewer cars on the road during the pandemic, 2020 saw a dramatic increase (17%) in speeding-related deaths compared to 2019.

As part of the U.S. Department of Transportation’s comprehensive safety strategy to prevent traffic deaths, NHTSA launched a public education campaign across the country in 2022 to address one of America’s most dangerous driving behaviors: The “Speeding Wrecks Lives” campaign, aimed at changing general attitudes toward speeding and reminding drivers of the deadly consequences.

To help support the all-new campaign, which ran July 20-August 14, iHeart teamed up with NHTSA to raise awareness about the dangers of speeding. The English and Spanish-language radio spots targeted drivers ages 18 to 44, who data shows are most likely to be involved in speeding-related fatal crashes. The spots drove listeners to www.NHTSA.gov/Speeding for additional information and resources.

“Much like impaired driving, speeding can steal the lives of everyone using our roads: drivers, passengers, pedestrians and cyclists. We cannot accept the status quo. Speed-related deaths aren’t inevitable. They’re preventable, and everyone has a role in addressing this crisis on our nation’s roadways.”

Each school day, millions of children ride school buses. Statistically, school buses are the safest way to transport school children. Yet a significant number of injuries and fatalities occur outside of or near a school bus because a motorist has failed to obey the stop-arm warning or follow local traffic laws. From 2011 and 2020, there were 1.6 times more fatalities among pedestrians (183) than occupants of school buses (113) in school-bus-related crashes. A total of 218 school-age children (18 and younger) died in school-bus-related crashes during that period, either as occupants of school buses or other vehicles, or on foot or bike. Of the 218 deaths, 85 were children who were walking.

It’s important for all drivers, as well as parents and students, to understand school bus safety. Illegal school bus passing poses a significant threat to children and others on the road. In every state, it is illegal to pass a school bus while the bus stop-arm is extended and the red lights are flashing. Although the school bus is one of the safest modes of transportation, illegal school bus passing is a deadly risk to bus riders and their caretakers. In 2022, iHeart shared statistics and resources on illegal school bus passing through a series of PSAs and on-air interviews to help raise awareness about its dangers.

In 2022, in support of National School Bus Safety Week, October 17-21, 2022, iHeart teamed up with The U.S. Department of Transportation’s National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) to promote School Bus Safety and to remind drivers about the importance of the local laws. iHeart radio stations ran a series of English and Spanish radio spots across the country that encouraged listeners to learn and understand the school bus laws in their state and always follow them, as well as the flashing lights that school bus drivers use to alert you.

“It is so important that drivers in every community heed the school bus stop-arm laws. They are not a suggestion. iHeart is committed to helping motorists fully understand bus laws because school bus riders and their caretakers are relying on drivers to follow the law to keep them safe.”

COVID has killed more than 1,090,000 people in the United States, making it a leading cause of death. The CDC suggests getting and staying up to date with a COVID vaccine can reduce the public’s risk that they will get seriously ill, need hospital care or die from COVID.

The all-new ‘We Can Do This’ HHS COVID-19 public education campaign was a national initiative launched in 2022 to increase public confidence in and uptake of COVID-19 vaccines while reinforcing basic prevention measures such as mask wearing and social distancing. The campaign also aimed to increase awareness about COVID treatments, heighten urgency to talk to a doctor at first sign of symptoms and educate the public about the availability of COVID treatments, particularly those most at risk of severe illness.

The ‘We Can Do This’ campaign used a science-based approach to motivate behavior change, evolving messages based on the latest scientific information and research. iHeart’s messaging was specially designed to reach both diverse populations that are most likely to take action to protect their health and those disproportionately affected by COVID.

Through a nationwide network of trusted messengers and consistent, fact-based public health messaging, the campaign’s goal was to help the public make informed decisions about their health and COVID, including steps to protect themselves and their communities.

Through a series of trusted messengers, including iHeart personalities, U.S. Surgeon General Dr. Vivek Murthy, Dr. Cameron Webb and Secretary of Health and Human Services Xavier Becerra, all of whom delivered consistent fact-based public health messaging, iHeart used all of its platforms to help the public make informed decisions about their health and COVID-19, including steps to protect themselves and their communities. Stations across the country coordinated nearly 100 interviews across multiple platforms, including its national and regional Public Affairs programming, local radio morning shows, and some of the company’s largest syndicated radio shows, including ‘The Steve Harvey Morning Show’ and ‘The Breakfast Club’, as well as across BIN: The Black Information Network.

“Public education is a critical component of our response to the COVID-19 pandemic — it is a shared effort to empower people to protect themselves, especially those in disproportionately burdened populations.”

ABOUT

HHS

The mission of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) is to enhance the health and well-being of all Americans, by providing for effective health and human services and by fostering sound, sustained advances in the sciences underlying medicine, public health, and social services.
In December 2020, iHeart launched the “iHeartRadio Communities Spotlight Media Grant Program” — an initiative to support organizations that are making a positive impact within the communities iHeart serves — using iHeart’s multiplatform media network to deliver messaging that is timely, relevant and hyper-targeted to most effectively support underserved and impacted communities.

The inaugural Spotlight Media Grants provided a national platform for Black-focused community organizations to inspire, educate and empower listeners to take a stand against systemic racism and promote social justice; celebrate Black excellence, achievement and culture; help members of the Black community express themselves; and address the unique needs of their communities, and invited institutional programs and individuals that are inspiring and supporting underserved and impacted communities.

The program featured media grants to include Spotlight Media Grant Program® (SXP) PSAs and broadcast announcements targeting specific populations and individual organizations. The program supported organizations that are making a positive impact within the communities iHeart serves — using iHeart’s multiplatform media network to deliver messaging that is timely, relevant and hyper-targeted to most effectively support underserved and impacted communities.

Additionally, in 2021 iHeart expanded its portfolio of Spotlight Grants to include several other at-risk groups. In response to the increasing number of violent incidents and hate crimes against members of the Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community, iHeart issued its second wave of Spotlight Grants to AAPI-focused organizations including Step AAPI Hate, Asian Americans Advancing Justice and the Ad Council’s “Stop the Virus, Stop the Bias” campaign to ensure that their critically important messages are heard in our communities nationwide and to help foster the understanding that is so critical to ending practice and racial violence.

Since launching the Spotlight Media Grant program, iHeart has issued additional media grants to Big Brothers Big Sisters of America to empower the potential of youth through one-to-one mentoring, and the organization’s commitment to Justice, Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (JEDI); GLAAD, an organization providing financial literacy empowerment and economic education to youth and adults; civil rights organization NAACP; Faith & Blue, an initiative focused on the reinforcement of connections between law enforcement professionals and the communities they serve through the reach of houses of worship; and Shine a Light, a comprehensive initiative to illuminate the dangers of antisemitism through education, community partnerships, workplace engagement, advocacy and media.

In addition to the support we have given our existing partners, we introduced several new organizations to the Spotlight Media Grant program in 2022. iHeart hoped to increase the visibility and inclusivity for LGBTQ+ communities by shining a spotlight on the most impactful organizations advocating for and improving the lives of the LGBTQ+ community, including CenterLink, GLAAD, National Black Justice Coalition, Outright International, SAGE and Trevor Project. Additionally, iHeart partnered with the We Are AH Human Foundation to raise awareness of the important and positive impact that Latinos have on the U.S. communities and fighting against hate and racism.

To date, iHeart has committed $4 million worth of media to these leading organizations supporting our communities and fighting against hate and racism. Future iHeartRadio Communities Spotlight Media Grant PSAs will address individual issues ranging from minority education and mental health to food insecurity and the many long-term impacts of COVID-19 on our country, spotlight critical issues facing all of our listeners; and provide a platform to explore the issues that matter most to them both locally and nationally.

In 2022, iHeart contributed over $245 million in media to thousands of national and local organizations. The “iHeartRadio Communities Spotlight Media Grant Program®” is an extension of that commitment and is designed to enable the company to address the many facets of timely issues like social justice and structural racism facing our country, offering multiple outlets for action.

ABOUT NAACP

NAACP.org

Founded in 1909 in response to the ongoing violence against Black people around the country, the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) is the largest and most pre-eminent civil rights organization in the nation. We have over 2,200 units and branches across the nation, along with well over 2 million activists. Our mission is to secure the political, educational, social and economic equality of rights in order to eliminate race-based discrimination and ensure the health and well-being of all persons.
As the nation continues to grapple with discord between law enforcement and some of the communities they serve, National Faith and Blue works to reinforce the connections between them.

For the second consecutive year, iHeart helped promote the 2022 National Faith & Blue Weekend (Faith & Blue) and address an urgent yet long-standing need for authentic collaboration between law enforcement and citizens. This public/private collaborative effort to build bridges and break biases aims to facilitate safer, stronger and more unified communities by connecting law enforcement officers and residents through local faith-based organizations.

The two-week radio campaign was focused on encouraging local communities to create grassroot events and enticing citizens to come together and participate at organized events in their local communities.

This national effort was organized by Atlanta-based human and civil rights organization MovementForward, Inc., the U.S. Department of Justice and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security along with every major law enforcement group in the country, including the National Fraternal Order of Police, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, National Sheriffs’ Association, the National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives, the Hispanic-American Police Command Officers Association and a long list of other national, regional, state and local law enforcement entities.

Faith & Blue involved 3,000 engagements in all 50 states and Washington, D.C., and over 150,000 participants. Activities included community discussions, peace, justice and unity marches, and service projects, along with over 100 other types of events that facilitated reconciliation and mutual understanding. Surveying of officers and residents who took part in Faith & Blue revealed that participating led to an increased willingness to collaborate to address crime and reduce tensions along with greater feelings of empathy and understanding.

No words can suffice in expressing the gratitude that we have for iHeart for their significant role in sharing the mission of Faith & Blue far and wide. Faith & Blue reached new heights and became a transformative movement because of this partnership.

UNCF (UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND)

The nation’s Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) produce almost 17% of all African-American graduates and 25% of African-American graduates in the STEM fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics—the critical industries of the future.

UNCF works to provide the support HBCUs need to help more students pursue their educational endeavors and graduate from college prepared for leadership roles, competitive employment and active participation in society.

UNCF works tirelessly to benefit HBCUs, in part by changing the narrative of HBCUs across the nation, and helping equip minority students with the resources necessary to transition into and graduate from college and ultimately succeed in the workforce.

2022 was a challenging year for HBCU students as over 70% of UNCF-benefiting students are from households with exceptional financial need. Long-time iHeart partner UNCF was named the company’s inaugural iHeartRadio Spotlight Media Grant partner in 2020, and this year was gifted a second grant to help reach its critical fundraising goals. iHeart's 2022 media campaign supported UNCF’s participation in the annual #GivingTuesday campaign, a global day of giving, and encouraged giving in light of the many challenges facing minority higher education, including the continued ripple effects of the COVID-19 pandemic.

“UNCF thanks iHeart for being a long-standing partner, particularly valued during these recent critical times. With iHeart’s help, UNCF can continue supporting our HBCUs and the students they educate, allowing them to remain focused on their goals, despite the many challenges they have recently faced and continue to encounter. 86% of Big Brothers Big Sisters youth are on track academically and have a plan beyond high school graduation. As the nation’s largest youth mentoring organization, Big Brothers Big Sisters of America’s proven model empowers young people on a path for their future with a mentor whose impact lasts a lifetime. Leveraging the expertise of professionally supported mentoring experiences, BBBSA’s adult volunteers (“Bigs”) inspire young people (“Littles”) to achieve post-secondary success, strengthen mental well-being and foster an inclusive environment for all.

The impactful mentoring message of Big Brothers Big Sisters of America (BBBSA) was highlighted across more than 284 iHeart radio stations as part of the iHeart Communities Spotlight Media Grant Program for the second consecutive year. The 100+ year-old national non-profit was founded out of a need to offer an innovative alternative to the juvenile justice system. Today, there are more than 230+ local Big Brothers Big Sisters agencies, in every state, from rural communities to major metropolitan areas.

The spots focused on the need for Big Brothers Big Sisters mentors, especially Black men. Through iHeart’s partnership with Big Brothers Big Sisters of America, iHeart hoped to increase equity for all young people, with an emphasis on male-identifying youth.

Additionally, Tony Coles, President of iHeartMedia’s BIN: Black Information Network and Division President of iHeartMedia’s Metro Division, expanded his leadership role in 2022 on the Board of Directors for BBBSA when he accepted the role of Vice Chairman in June 2022.

iHeartMedia also supported BBBSA’s first-ever network-wide Juneteenth Celebration hosted at the Madam CJ Walker Legacy Center in Indianapolis, Indiana which also featured a performance by Grammy Award-Winning Artist Karen Clark Sheard.

Additionally, Artis Stevens, President & CEO of Big Brothers Big Sisters of America, completed his second year on the BIN: Black Information Network Advisory Board in 2022 where he serves as a champion to help foster the common understanding necessary to create real, positive and lasting societal change.

According to the AJC’s “The State of Antisemitism” report, one in every four American Jews has been targeted by antisemitism over the past year, and nearly four in ten report changing their behavior for fear of being identified as Jewish, or for their safety or comfort as Jews. Amid a sharp and widespread rise in antisemitism in North America, an unprecedented coalition of over 100 American and Canadian Jewish and non-Jewish organizations and over 200 corporations joined together in partnership with Shine A Light — a convening platform for organizations, companies, communities, elected officials and individuals to unite in shining a light on antisemitism in all its modern forms through education, community partnerships, workplace engagement and policy advocacy — and commit to effectuating societal change through education and a shared sense of communal allyship.

Shine A Light launched during Chanukah in 2021, and in tandem with key inaugural partners including iHeartMedia, the campaign was honored by the Shorty Awards, an international awards competition honoring excellence in digital and social content, as one of 2021’s most groundbreaking campaigns. Shine A Light won in the Social Activism category and received bronze distinction in Multicultural Community Engagement.

Now in its second year, Shine A Light partnered again with iHeartMedia which issued over $725K in Spotlight Media Grants to the coalition to increase awareness and action against antisemitism. iHeart also produced a PSA that addressed the many forms of antisemitism and encouraged Jews and allies to speak up about antisemitism to send the message that one single light can dispel darkness. The series of spots aired across all iHeart radio stations leading up to and through Chanukah, the Festival of Lights, with the goal of catalyzing conversations within and across communities, on school campuses and in the workplace, so that people can better understand what constitutes antisemitism and take steps to respond.

iHeartMedia was a key inaugural partner in 2021, and in 2022 advanced their partnership and the Shine A Light message even further, carrying and conveying this critical initiative. They donated time, production and thought leadership and continued their commitment to the fight against all hatred, racism and antisemitism that so infects our society. Their partnership is critical to our success.”

Shine A Light is a comprehensive initiative to spotlight the dangers of antisemitism through education, community partnerships, workplace engagement and community advocacy. Fueled by an unprecedented coalition of over 100 North American Jewish and non-Jewish organizations from across the United States and Canada, and over 200 companies, Shine A Light draws from the inspiration of Chanukah, the Festival of Lights, to encourage Jews and allies to speak up and send a message that antisemitism, in all its modern forms, won’t be tolerated in our communities.

The following organizations were the beneficiaries of the 2022 LGBTQ+ Spotlight Media Grant:

- SAGE
- GLAAD
- National Black Justice Coalition
- Outright International
- Trevor Project.

Each PSA created a unique opportunity to highlight the specific work of each organization and drove listeners to their respective websites for more information.

The National Black Justice Coalition (NBJC) is a leading civil rights organization dedicated to empowering Black LGBTQ+ youth, especially through virtual support programs and assistance services. The Spotlight Media Grant for SAGE promoted the organization's advocacy work for LGBTQ+ aging policies and civil rights protections, as well as provided listeners with resources related to services, connection and care, offering opportunities for intergenerational connections throughout the LGBTQ+ community.

The Trevor Project is the leading organization working to end LGBTQ youth suicide in the U.S. and beyond. The nonprofit operates several programs to help prevent and respond to the public health crisis of LGBTQ youth suicide, including 24/7 free crisis services, research, advocacy, education and peer support. Proceeds from “Can’t Cancel Pride” enabled The Trevor Project to continue providing support to LGBTQ youth through crisis counselor training and maintaining a safe space for LGBTQ social networking. Additionally, PSAs for The Trevor Project brought awareness to the organization's free and confidential services via phone lifeline, text and chat, and encouraged listeners in crisis to reach out.

The Trevor Project works to support and affirm LGBTQ young people where they are, no matter what – celebrating their joys and experiences, creating educational resources and providing them with 24/7 crisis services. In 2022, support from “Can’t Cancel Pride” allowed trained Trevor counselors to spend more than 200 hours with those young people, ensuring that they never feel alone.

Outright works with the United Nations, regional human rights monitoring bodies and civil society partners around the globe to strengthen the capacity of the LGBTQI human rights movement, document and amplify human rights violations against LGBTQI people, and advocate for inclusion and equality. With the proceeds from “Can’t Cancel Pride,” Outright funded frontline LGBTQI organizations in Ukraine providing humanitarian support to LGBTQI people affected by the war. Outright also convened its annual LGBTQI global human rights conference, OutSummit, with registrants from 75 countries. And Outright brought 20 LGBTQI activists to New York to participate in Advocacy Week and advocate for LGBTQI human rights at the United Nations. The Heart PSA for Outright raised critical awareness for the organization and its fight for the human rights of LGBTQI people everywhere.
By 2050 one in every three Americans will be Latino. With more than 62 million people, 74% of new workers and $1.9 trillion in purchasing power, Latinos are an untapped source of future growth. However, at the same time Latinos are often undervalued, underrepresented and misperceived in society, which affects how they feel about their place both in day-to-day life and in the workplace.

In 2019, iHeartMedia accepted an invitation from the We Are All Human Foundation, a nonprofit dedicated to promoting diversity and inclusion, to join “The Hispanic Promise,” a collaborative effort with more than a dozen Hispanic associations and more than 150 corporations to advance and empower U.S. Hispanics as employees, customers and citizens. “The Hispanic Promise” asks employers to make the commitment to create inclusive workplaces and to take positive actions to hire, promote, retain and celebrate Hispanics through improved employee engagement, mentorship programs, employee or business resource groups and talent advancement, with the aim for Hispanic employees to feel they belong, are valued, enjoy equal access to opportunity and have a voice.

This year, iHeart awarded the We Are All Human Foundation a Spotlight Media Grant during Hispanic Heritage Month in September to raise awareness and help celebrate the current and future contributions that Latinos bring to the U.S. The series of English and Spanish PSAs drove listeners to hispanicstar.org to find ways to meaningfully activate during Hispanic Heritage Month.

Hispanic Heritage Month is a huge opportunity to educate and mobilize both the business and Hispanic communities. Our partnership with iHeart this year was a vital pathway for us to drive interest in Hispanic Heritage month and, more specifically, to our toolkit, which is used by hundreds of companies, organizations and schools. These PSAs helped drive website visits and critically attracted new interest and new relationships.”

STOP AAPI HATE
StopAAPIHate.org

In response to the alarming escalation in xenophobia and bigotry resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, AAPI Equity Alliance (AAPI Equity), Chinese for Affirmative Action (CAA) and the Asian American Studies Department of San Francisco State University launched the Stop AAPI Hate coalition on March 19, 2020. The coalition tracks and responds to incidents of hate, violence, harassment, discrimination, shunning and child bullying against Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders in the United States. Our mission is to advance equity, justice and power by dismantling systemic racism and building a multicultural movement to end anti-Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) hate.
The National Financial Educators Council estimates that financial illiteracy costs American families an estimated $415 billion each year. Operation HOPE believes that financial literacy is the civil rights issue of our generation. Having the knowledge to manage your finances equips all of us to make smart decisions – how to budget, save, borrow and build wealth. It helps us buy a car, a house, pay for school or plan for our financial future; how to access financial resources opportunities, and how to avoid – and resolve – financial challenges at all stages of life. Without this financial knowledge, there are major barriers for people to fairly participate in the economy and work toward their own version of the American Dream.

Given the importance and societal impact of financial literacy and with a goal to expand people’s access to opportunities, especially underserved communities, iHeartMedia joined a collective effort to spur a national movement of financial capability and gifted over $1 million worth of media to Operation HOPE.

“We are grateful to iHeartMedia for their dedication to the FL4ALL movement. iHeartMedia has brought exactly the kind of passion, commitment and follow-through that we need to succeed in our mission.”

The Ad Council has a long history of creating life-saving public service communications in times of national crisis and its innovative local good campaigns raise awareness, inspire action and save lives.

iHeart has contributed billions of impressions and more than $100MM in media support of Ad Council campaigns across its radio stations since the inception of its partnership, making iHeart one of the single largest audio supporters of the Ad Council over the last decade. Most recently, the two organizations have collaborated on unique campaigns around COVID-19, which helped lead the media industry’s response to the pandemic, as well as reimagined new opportunities around the iconic “Love Has No Labels” and “Project Yellow Light” campaigns.

iHeart continually lends its audio expertise and creative and programming teams to expand many of the Ad Council’s most successful campaigns into radio, podcasting and all streaming platforms.

In addition to the many nationally supported campaigns, local stations across the country work closely with regional Ad Council teams to place PSAs that address the most relevant issues within their communities.

The U.S. Department of Transportation’s National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) reported that an estimated 42,915 people died in motor vehicle traffic crashes in 2021, a 10.5% increase from the 38,824 fatalities in 2020. The projection is the highest number of fatalities since 2005 and the largest annual percentage increase in the Fatality Analysis Reporting System’s history.

For the sixth consecutive year, iHeartMedia teamed up with the Ad Council to prevent distracted driving in partnership with “Project Yellow Light,” a national PSA contest and scholarship program.

By supporting the 11th annual “Project Yellow Light” contest, iHeart helped bring attention to the dangers of distracted driving, specifically the dangers of using a mobile device while driving. The contest, created by the family of Hunter Garner to honor his memory after his death in a car crash at age 16, called on high school and college students to submit PSAs to help raise awareness among their peers about the dangers of distracted driving – creating their own radio, outdoor and television PSAs with the opportunity to win a scholarship and have their radio creative turned into a national PSA that iHeartMedia would distribute across the U.S. The 2022 “Project Yellow Light” radio winners were high school student Noah Brechbill (Schwenksville, PA) and college student Asher Mitchell (Watford City, ND), each of whom received $2,000 and had their radio creative aired nationally across all iHeartMedia broadcast radio stations.

We are honored to have iHeart’s continued partnership to help us carry the message to not drive distracted. Car crashes are one of the leading causes of death for our youth and the numbers of distracted driving crashes are sadly increasing. It’s more critical than ever to help spread the word and PYL is indebted to iHeartMedia for the vital role they play in this campaign. iHeart plays a critical role in supporting our message to prevent distracted driving; one of the leading causes of death for our youth. We are incredibly honored to have them as partners, spreading lifesaving messages on a national scale.”

We are living in divisive times. At a time when over half (55%) of adults say race relations in the US are bad, according to research from the Ad Council Research Institute, Americans are looking for meaningful actions to take. The all-new “Love Lives On” creative showed how individuals acted with love following instances of hate and injustice, including the murder of George Floyd, the alarming rise in violence and harassment toward the Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community and the deadly 2016 shooting at Orlando’s Pulse Nightclub.

iHeartMedia teamed up with the iconic campaign as an audio partner, utilizing real stories to showcase how acts of love can drive inclusion, equity and justice. The iHeart campaign focused on expanding the program’s reach to its listeners by using iHeartRadio’s Talkback, a groundbreaking new interactive feature on the iHeartRadio app that enables listeners to engage with their favorite iHeartRadio stations and podcasts. iHeart personalities across the country asked listeners to participate in the “Love Has No Labels” conversation by recording a story about how they or someone in their life faced bias, discrimination or hate, only to respond with an act of love.

The goal of the program was to help “Love Has No Labels” demonstrate and celebrate how individuals and communities can meet bias, discrimination, harassment and hate with an act of love.

LOVE HAS NO LABELS continues to demonstrate the incredible impact of convening leading media platforms behind a singular cause and the generous support of iHeartMedia is a shining example of the industry’s passion for driving positive impact through diversity, equity and inclusion efforts. We’re grateful to their commitment, creativity and ability to move hearts and minds through innovative and compelling strategies that create lasting change.”

Over the last several years, we’ve seen the outdoors become a place of respite for families throughout the continuing COVID-19 pandemic. In 2021 and beyond, iHeartMedia has teamed up with the USDA Forest Service and the Ad Council in support of the all-new “Discover the Forest” creative. Since 2009, the “Discover the Forest” campaign has encouraged parents and caregivers to take their families out to the forest to experience and reconnect with nature.

Through the power of storytelling, all the radio PSAs aired by iHeart showcase the value of the forest as a place where families can deepen their connection with each other and with the outdoors. The PSAs culminated in a singular ask: Make the forest part of your family’s story. The creative aimed to reach all parents and caregivers, with an emphasis on fostering a sense of connection to and belonging in nature among Black and Latino families. Across all PSAs, audiences were directed to DiscoverTheForest.org and DescubreElBosque.org, where they could search for nearby forests, parks and trails and find ideas for outdoor-focused activities.

In 2022, iHeartRadio stations across the country aired more than $200,000 in donated media for the USDA Forest Service, and in the last two years have contributed $1.29MM worth of media towards the Discover the Forest campaign.

ABOUT USDA FOREST SERVICE
fs.usda.gov

The USDA Forest Service has brought people and communities together to answer the call of conservation for more than 100 years. Grounded in world-class science and rooted in communities, the Forest Service connects people with nature and to each other. The Forest Service cares for shared natural resources in ways that promote lasting economic, ecological and social vitality. 193 million acres of national forests and grasslands contribute more than $13 billion to the economy each year through visitor spending alone. The Forest Service also maintains the largest forestry research organization in the world and assists state and private landowners, helping to steward about 900 million forested acres in the U.S., including 130 million acres in urban areas, which most Americans now call home.

Identifying the early signs of autism can make a lifetime of difference in helping a child access resources and thrive later in life. According to the CDC, autism affects an estimated one in 44 children in the U.S., and though autism can be reliably diagnosed as early as age two, the signs can begin to appear even earlier.

As part of their ongoing commitment to lowering the age of diagnosis and empowering more children with autism to reach their full potential, the Ad Council and Autism Speaks launched an awareness campaign encouraging parents and caregivers of young children to spot the signs early and seek support when they need it.

During Autism Awareness month in April, iHeartMedia supported the collaborative work by airing a PSA focused on some of the earliest possible signs in language development, including little or no babbling sounds in babies. While every child develops differently, research shows that early treatment improves outcomes, often dramatically. The radio spot ran across more than 266 radio stations and drove listeners to the Autism Speaks website where families could learn more and access a simple screening questionnaire.

Increasing early screening and timely interventions for kids on the spectrum has been a crucial part of our mission and our work with the Ad Council. Support of media partners like iHeart plays a vital role in advancing this effort.

The earlier a child can receive support – whatever their unique set of strengths and challenges – the better their future outcomes can be. We believe in a world where all people with autism can reach their full potential, and early diagnosis is critical to making this a reality.”

ABOUT
AUTISM SPEAKS
AutismSpeaks.org
Autism Speaks is dedicated to promoting solutions, across the spectrum and throughout the life span, for the needs of individuals with autism and their families. We do this through advocacy and support, increasing understanding and acceptance of people with autism spectrum disorder, and advancing research into causes and better interventions for autism spectrum disorder and related conditions.
Thousands of teens in foster care are waiting for the love and support from a family, but unfortunately almost 20,000 young people leave foster care without a family every year. Families that adopt teens provide them with stability during a critical period in their lives. Teens who have been adopted are more likely to graduate, go to college, and be more emotionally secure than their peers that have ‘aged out’ of foster care without the security and encouragement of family.

Inspired by real families’ stories, this honest and heartfelt Ad Council campaign reveals the remarkable value of adoption for both teens and parents. With the tagline, “You can’t imagine the reward,” the radio PSAs delivered emotional messages that reassured prospective parents and inspired them to consider adopting a teen.

In support of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services’ (HHS) Administration for Children and Families (ACF), AdoptUSKids and the Ad Council, iHeart radio stations in select markets heavily supported the campaign with on-air media in 2022 to encourage prospective parents to adopt teens from foster care.

These PSAs continue the campaign’s powerful work of sharing true and inspirational stories of teens adopted from foster care. Teens in foster care deserve love and support regardless of age and these stories show the impact that families truly have on teens adopted from foster care. It is our hope that this work continues to inspire and inform prospective parents of the lifelong rewards that can come from adopting a teen from foster care.”

Local Heart broadcast radio stations play a critical role in distributing life-saving Ad Council creative to their audiences through PSAs, social media and personality engagement. Below is a spotlight of some additional impactful Ad Council campaigns local stations have supported in 2022:

CHILD CAR SAFETY
Motor vehicle crashes are a leading cause of death for children under 13. This campaign encourages parents and caregivers to correctly buckle up their kids in the right seat for their age and size by reminding them of the importance of getting the big stuff, like car safety, right.

To ensure parents and caregivers are properly securing their children in the best car seat restraint for their age and size, PSAs encouraged listeners to visit NHTSA.gov/TheRightSeat or NHTSA.gov/Protegidos.

ENDING HUNGER
In 2020, one in five people turned to the charitable food sector for help. The pandemic presented a perfect storm with long-lasting impacts with disruptions to the supply chain and an increased need for help. This year, 34 million people (one in ten), including nine million children (one in eight), may experience food insecurity. The lingering effects of the pandemic and increasing food prices are adding to the stress on food banks while also forcing families whose budgets are tight to turn to food banks to make ends meet.

As the largest hunger-relief organization in the U.S., Feeding America is working to make sure people have enough food to realize their potential. The Feeding America network of food banks feeds millions of families each year, especially during times of disasters and national emergencies. PSAs encouraged audiences to visit FeedingAmerica.org to learn more about how they can make ends meet.

TYPE 2 DIABETES PREVENTION
More than one in three American adults have prediabetes and are at high risk of developing type 2 diabetes—a serious health condition that can lead to a heart attack or stroke. Of these individuals, more than 80% of people with prediabetes don’t know they have it. Thankfully, the vast majority of people with prediabetes can take steps to reduce their risk. Through weight loss, diet changes and increased physical activity, prediabetes can often be reversed.

PSAs encouraged listeners to visit the campaign website where they can take a one-minute risk test to know where they stand. The campaign highlights the importance of early diagnosis, speaking with your doctor and visiting DoHavePrediabetes.org to learn more about prediabetes.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS
In recent years, devastating earthquakes, tornadoes, floods and wildfires in communities across the country have highlighted the need for all Americans, regardless of background or location, to prepare for natural disasters. However, according to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), half of Americans have not discussed or developed a family emergency plan. Since 2003, this campaign has empowered individuals, families, small businesses and communities to prepare for both natural and man-made disasters.

The Ready campaign encourages, educates and empowers families to develop their own emergency preparedness plans by visiting Listo.gov/plan or Ready.gov/plan.

CAREGIVER ASSISTANCE
There are 48 million unpaid family caregivers in the United States. Most caregivers are family members or friends who are working, managing their own families and caring for their loved ones at the same time. For many, the caregiving role doesn’t start all at once — it starts with simple things, like scheduling a doctor’s visit or helping with daily errands, and gradually expands until it becomes a major commitment. On average, caregivers provide 29 hours of care a week, the equivalent of an unpaid, part-time job. Since 2011, this campaign has encouraged caregivers to care not only for their loved ones but for themselves as well.

The campaign directed listeners to AARP's Family Caregiving site, where caregivers can find free Care Guides, self-care tips, planning resources, legal and financial guidance and more.

CORONAVIRUS RESPONSE
In response to the coronavirus pandemic, the Ad Council – in partnership with the federal government, public health partners, board member companies, major media networks and digital platforms – launched a series of national PSAs and multi-channel content to provide critical and urgent messages to the American public about COVID-19 prevention. The “Coronavirus Response” campaign included a variety of research-based, targeted efforts focusing on mask use, social distancing, mental health and more. These PSAs were intended to reach individual communities with messaging that resonated and addressed each audience’s unique motivators and barriers to action. Specific audiences included all Americans, conservatives, Black Americans, Hispanic Americans and Gen Z. PSAs encouraged listeners to visit Coronavirus.gov for more information.

LUNG CANCER SCREENING
Lung cancer is the #1 cancer killer of men and women. Compared to other cancers, it has one of the lowest survival rates. But with new lung cancer screening methods detecting it sooner, approximately fourteen million people in the U.S. who are at high risk for lung cancer can be saved thanks to early detection and treatment. If everyone at high risk were screened, close to 48,000 lives could be saved.

“Saved By The Scan” drives current and former smokers to take a lung cancer screening eligibility quiz at SavedByTheScan.org. Since the campaign’s launch in August 2017, 26% of quiz respondents have been eligible for a low-dose CT scan.
For the last several years, iHeart has worked with leading mental health organizations focused on improving mental wellness for both adults and children. These partnerships with organizations including the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) and the Child Mind Institute are designed to raise awareness of mental health issues and foster a culture within communities that supports talking openly about mental health issues like anxiety and depression.

iHeart’s long-term commitment to mental health began in 2019 with the launch of the company’s signature mental health program — iHeartMedia’s “Let’s Talk” — which includes elements like weaving a virtual support system through iHeartMedia’s 860 broadcast radio stations for people struggling with anxiety and depression to let them know they are not alone, and encouraging listeners to check in on the people in their lives by starting a conversation around mental health.

Today mental wellness is more important than ever as mental crises, feelings of isolation, uncertainty and anxiety are at an all-time high. iHeart is dedicated to amplifying our focus on this critical issue, and we will continue to foster and strengthen our relationships with the most impactful organizations addressing mental wellness across our country with the goal of reducing stigma through candid conversations, informing audiences about resources they can find in their communities and encouraging anyone suffering to seek help.

Additionally, iHeart is especially focused on addressing the unique mental health needs of young people through our deep relationship with the Child Mind Institute and most recently the Inspiring Children Foundation. According to a recent study, 17.1 million young people in the U.S. will have a mental health disorder by age 18 — more than the number with AIDS, asthma, diabetes, cancer and peanut allergy combined. Common diagnoses include depression, anxiety, ADHD, dyslexia, autism and eating disorders.
Research shows that talking about mental illness has the power to reduce stigma and help a person suffering from these all-too-common struggles feel less isolated. Each year, millions of Americans face the reality of living with mental illness, yet many don’t feel comfortable sharing their experience with others.

For the last three years, iHeart has invested heavily in media programs that provide resources, support and information for people struggling with mental health and is committed to helping reduce the stigma.

In 2022, iHeart once again teamed up with the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) and The Child Mind Institute to build upon its multi-year “Let’s Talk” campaign, an initiative to raise awareness of mental health and foster a culture within communities that supports talking about mental health issues like anxiety and depression.

The goal of iHeartMedia’s “Let’s Talk” campaign was to harness the mass-reach power of iHeartMedia’s 860 stations across the U.S. and weave a virtual support system aimed at helping people struggling with anxiety and depression realize that they are not alone. The campaign aims to expand its messaging by also encouraging the general population to check in on the people in their lives by starting a conversation around mental health.

Since the program’s inception, iHeartMedia has aired over $7 million worth of diverse PSAs for “Let’s Talk” that have educated the public on the wide-reaching impact of mental illness — such as the fact that over 280 million people of all ages around the world are dealing with depression — and described the signs and symptoms associated with the most common mental health concerns to help people understand what they may be seeing in themselves and in others.

Radio spots voiced by Kristen Bell, Charlamagne tha God, Emma Stone, Pete Wentz, Wayne Brady and the band Weezer drove listeners to iHeartRadio.com/TALK where they could find curated resources published by NAMI and the Child Mind Institute, including guides to starting the conversation with a friend, child or healthcare provider; a symptom checker; and other general information on mental health. The campaign was also created to reach parents and educators and help them better identify and proactively address concerns that they may be facing with the kids in their lives.

Additionally, iHeart, NAMI and The Child Mind Institute continually work together to distribute important mental health information and resources focused on children and families as well as the general population.
Mental Wealth Alliance

In 2021, iHeart’s “The Breakfast Club” host Charlamagne Tha God launched the Mental Wealth Alliance (MWA), a forward-thinking foundation created to destigmatize, accelerate and center state-of-the-art mental health outreach and care across the U.S. while building an unprecedented long-term system of generational support for Black communities. A branch of Charlamagne Tha God’s groundbreaking effort is set to raise $100 million over 5 years and will partner with Black-led organizations and experts to activate MWA’s three major pillars of life-changing impact: train, teach and treat.

iHeart continues to lead ways to support the Alliance by donating airtime, digital impressions and event production. Additionally, for the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia joined Charlamagne Tha God and the Mental Wealth Alliance for the second annual Mental Wealth Expo, a free event open to the public and held in New York City on World Mental Health Day.

Attendees heard from curated panels on Black men and mental health, Black women and mental health, racial trauma and mental health; religion; and spirituality x mental health.

Breakout sessions with experts exploring such topics as suicide prevention in our youth, LGBTQ+ mental health, Black Men Heal and Writing as a Tool for Collective Liberation and Healing were also held.

New for 2022, the Mental Wealth Expo included the Mental Health Fast Breakout room, a room dedicated to mothers of color. Topics included Motherhood Matters: Building Systems Of Support breakout room, a room dedicated to mothers of color. Topics included Motherhood Matters: Building Systems Of Support in public K-12 education nationwide; and Emotional Learning (SEL) and Mental Health Literacy – advocate for the implementation of Social and Emotional Learning (SEL) and Mental Health Literacy in public K-12 education nationwide; and Mental Health Day.

We’re grateful to iHeart for bringing attention to the defining public health crisis of our time: youth mental health disorders. Families need to hear the message that these disorders are real, common and treatable. iHeart has generously given us a microphone to bring this message to millions across their channels.”

DR. HAROLD S. KOPLEWICZ
PRESIDENT AND MEDICAL DIRECTOR, CHILD MIND INSTITUTE

One in five adolescents struggle with a diagnosable mental health disorder. Today, the need for open conversations about mental health has grown greater than ever before; symptoms of depression and anxiety doubled during the pandemic and rates of youth suicide are at an all-time high. In late 2021, the American Academy of Pediatrics declared a national emergency in youth mental health, shortly followed by the U.S. Surgeon General Vivek Murthy issuing a rare public health advisory.

In 2022, iHeart joined longtime partner Child Mind Institute, the leading independent nonprofit in children’s mental health, to help launch the organization’s latest public awareness campaign, “Dare to Share” — a powerful mental health awareness initiative to reduce stigma and normalize conversations about emotional, social and psychological wellbeing among youth. The campaign launched in conjunction with Mental Health Awareness Month.

“Dare to Share” partnered with celebrities and influencers who spoke about difficult times they’ve encountered, what’s helped them with their mental health challenges and why it is important for kids to speak up when they are struggling.

iHeart adapted the campaign videos of participants including musicians P!nk, Paris Jackson, LeAnn Rimes, Koke Palmer and U.S. Surgeon General Dr. Vivek Murthy and created a powerful series of PSAs that ran across all iHeart radio stations.

Additionally, Dr. Janine Dominguez, Clinical Psychologist at the Child Mind Institute, was a guest on iHeart’s National Public Affairs show to talk about how children’s mental health has been impacted by the pandemic and offered strategies for navigating difficult topics in the news with kids.

We’re grateful to iHeart for bringing attention to the defining public health crisis of our time: youth mental health disorders. ABOUT

THE CHILD MIND INSTITUTE
ChildMind.org

The Child Mind Institute is dedicated to transforming the lives of children and families struggling with mental health and learning disorders by giving them the help they need to thrive. We’ve become the leading independent nonprofit in children’s mental health by providing gold-standard care, delivering educational resources to millions of families each year, training educators in underserved communities and developing tomorrow’s breakthrough treatments. Together, we truly can transform children’s lives.
According to the World Health Organization, approximately 280 million people around the world are dealing with depression. And according to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health (NSDUH) 2021 report, 27.6% of adults with mental illness reported being unable to receive the mental health services that they needed. To address these challenges, NAMI and iHeart are committed to providing credible information and resources to help people navigate through this crisis.

Throughout its more than 40-year history, NAMI has fought stigma and discrimination that marginalize people with mental illness and pose barriers to their well-being. To address the current and future mental well-being of our country and to reach listeners experiencing mental health challenges – including anxiety, depression and feeling vulnerable, fragile or scared during these uncertain times – iHeart worked closely with NAMI to remind people that they are not alone. The campaign PSAs drove to NAMI.org for more information, resources and to find support and information on how to best support others.

Over the last three years, iHeart has aired thousands of NAMI PSAs and has provided a platform for mental health experts to speak directly to its audience. iHeart continues to connect listeners to trusted local and national tools to help them thrive and overcome mental health challenges.

NAMI is grateful to iHeart for their shared commitment to raising awareness about mental health issues, encouraging frank discussions and erasing stigma. We know that early intervention can achieve positive outcomes and get help for those who need it most. Given that audio content is still an information juggernaut — especially with Millennials and Gen Z — our partnership with iHeart helps us reach these and other audiences in the millions with important messages about mental health.”

DANIEL H. GILLISON, JR.
CEO, NAMI
One in every four people in the world is affected by a mental health condition such as depression and anxiety. This is especially true of young adults, as 70% of teens say that anxiety and depression are significant problems (Pew Research Study), and suicide is the second leading cause of death in the U.S. for ages 10-34 (NAMI).

iHeart once again teamed up with longtime partner Crisis Text Line, a not-for-profit organization that provides free, 24/7 text-based mental health support, to ensure listeners are aware of the free lifesaving resource. In 2022, Crisis Text Line supported over 1.3 million conversations with over 770,000 people in need of empathy across the U.S. 67% percent of conversations were with texters under age 25, providing a unique snapshot of the mental health issues for young Americans.

Throughout the year, and especially around critical peaks of known feelings of anxiety, depression and isolation – like the holidays – iHeart ran spots across all of its stations promoting the free texting platform. Individuals were encouraged to text START to 741741 if they were experiencing a mental health crisis – anything from suicidal thoughts or abusive relationships to difficult conversations with parents or anxiety about school workload. At any time, texters can connect with volunteer Crisis Counselors, all of whom undergo a rigorous multi-stage application process, background check and training program, who can provide confidential support. Crisis Text Line recently expanded its service to include Spanish language support, becoming the first organization to provide free, text-based mental health support for Spanish speakers in the United States.

Over the last several years, iHeart has run thousands of PSAs on all its radio stations to help attract volunteers as well as educate the public that this free service is available 24/7. The 2022 PSAs acknowledge that whatever someone may be feeling or whatever they are going through, it’s real and it matters and they don’t have to do it alone.

We are continuously grateful to iHeart and their team for amplifying our critical message—help is always available with a volunteer Crisis Counselor, no matter what mental health crisis you’re experiencing.”

The power of iHeartRadio’s platform is undeniable. I am very grateful to Bob Pittman, Tom Poleman and John Sykes for using this power to help solve our nation’s mental health crisis.

JEWEL SINGER-SONGWRITER, ACTRESS, AUTHOR AND FOUNDER, INSPIRING CHILDREN FOUNDATION

Anxiety, depression and suicide rates are at a historic high, yet 50% of Americans who need proven tools and resources don’t have access to them. During November 2022, iHeart teamed up with multi-platinum singer-songwriter and mental health pioneer Jewel to launch the #NotAloneChallenge. The challenges provided free mental health tools and raised awareness for mental health throughout the holiday season.

The mission of the #NotAloneChallenge was to remind people they are not alone during the holidays, to offer free mental health resources and to raise funds to make mental health available to those in need through Jewel’s Inspiring Children Foundation.

The #NotAloneChallenge brought together an extensive collaboration, one of the largest to-date, of more than 120 thought leaders and executives in tech, finance, entertainment, music, sports and mental health, all banding together to participate in the campaign.

The #NotAloneChallenge inspired people to create a short video sharing their support and advocacy for mental health, then challenging and tagging friends to participate. iHeart participants included radio personalities Elvis Duran, Bobby Bones and Greg T who shared their personal connection to mental health challenges and encouraged others to participate via social media.

The campaign also included an auction that raised funds to make free online tools and in-person programs more readily available. The funds help provide wellness to people in need, and to scale the Inspiring Children Foundation’s best-in-class, innovative mental health curriculum. iHeart organized and sponsored a private holiday singalong and toast (choice of hot chocolate or a cocktail) with award-winning actor, singer and songwriter Darren Criss at the famed Café Carlyle on December 7th in New York City, where Darren debuted his new show, “A Very Darren Crissmas: Live at Café Carlyle.” iHeart stations promoted the opportunity across their radio and social media platforms.
2022 LOCAL MENTAL HEALTH COMMUNITY SPOTLIGHT

iHeart has been committed to fostering a culture within communities that supports talking about mental health issues like anxiety and depression for several years through partnerships with leading mental health organizations, including the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) and the Child Mind Institute. In the last three years, amidst the pandemic, the topic has become even more relevant, with increased rates of mental health problems being reported across the U.S. In addition to the many national mental health programs that iHeart supports and develops, many stations worked locally to address the mental health crisis among their listeners.

Q102 raised over $30,000 for the cause this year, keeping the local community suicide hotline – Concern Hotline – supported and running.
iHeartMedia’s commitment to combat substance misuse and overdose began with the launch of NOAC.org (National Opioid Action Coalition) in 2018 as a resource hub for the private and public sector to help communities and families combat the opioid epidemic. Additionally, for the past five years, “iHeart’s Recovery Month” media efforts have supported those in recovery, including their families and caregivers, and have helped inspire interventions to start the recovery journey. As part of this initiative, iHeart partnered with The Voices Project to support and promote “Mobilize Recovery,” a national bus tour that advocates for community-based recovery solutions and ending preventable overdose deaths.

In 2022, iHeart announced a multi-faceted campaign with the Partnership to End Addiction, a national nonprofit uniquely positioned to reach, engage and assist families impacted by addiction. iHeart was also honored by the Partnership to End Addiction for the company’s support of the organization’s work and dedication to ending addiction.
In response to the national opioid epidemic, which has killed tens of thousands of Americans and impacted millions more, WPP, iHeartMedia and Fors Marsh Group launched the National Opioid Action Coalition (NOAC), an initiative focused on reducing stigma as a barrier to addiction prevention treatment and recovery. First launched in 2018, NOAC’s work has become even more critical as the ripple effects of the COVID-19 pandemic continue to create a crisis collision that is impacting treatment and recovery.

The country is at a 50-year high in drug overdose deaths. NOAC aims to help support local, state and federal opioid misuse and addiction prevention, treatment and recovery efforts by elevating the conversation; providing communications tools, including media donations, to reduce stigma; and harnessing the power of individuals, communities and companies to get engaged. Since its inception, NOAC has launched targeted programs in several local communities highly affected by the crisis and brought together like-minded organizations that have offered expertise and tools to help address the opioid epidemic.

The coalition’s website – noac.org – is a free online resource for people seeking information related to opioid misuse prevention, treatment and recovery. The website also provides free access to online resources including a treatment locator for people seeking assistance.

Additionally, iHeartMedia continues to launch multiple initiatives around National Recovery Month that recognize people in recovery and encourage people to share their recovery stories and create hope that recovery is possible. To date, the efforts have featured pop culture icons and influencers including Macklemore, Camila Cabello, Nikki Sixx, Dan & Shay, Cheryl Burke, City Girl Gone Mom, Melissa Etheridge and many others.

In 2019, the coalition launched #TalkToMe – a science-based public awareness initiative that aimed to reduce stigma as a barrier to opioid use disorder prevention, treatment and recovery. NOAC allows and invites government agencies and private sector companies to use and deploy its #TalkToMe creative to help combat substance use disorder and addiction stigma. iHeartMedia offers a media matching program for specific public outreach campaigns to help extend the reach and results of communications efforts to end the crisis and serve our communities.
Hilary Swift, Mobile Recovery

The opioid crisis is one of the most pressing human crises in our society. The CDC estimated there were about 107,600 overdose deaths for the 12-month period between July 2021 and June 2022. There are over 23 million Americans who live in long-term recovery in the United States. When given support—without shame or judgment—we know empirically that people do get better, and that people do recover.

iHeart has been supporting National Recovery Month since 2018 and has launched several media campaigns and initiatives focused on reducing the stigma around addiction. Over the last four years, iHeart has enlisted influencers and subject matter experts to reach the most diverse and vulnerable populations in an effort to increase understanding that addiction is a disease, and that recovery is possible.

This year, iHeart, in partnership with The Voices Project’s “Mobilize Recovery, launched its largest media effort to date with radio spots recorded by musicians and influencers including Macklemore, Dylan Scott, Lauv, Cheryl Burke, Jimmie Allen, City Girl Gone Mom and many others that ran across all iHeart radio stations. A cross country bus tour in support of these efforts was heavily promoted across iHeart, including on the Heart Recovery Month website.

In 2022, iHeart expanded its reach by launching a streamlined online destination to support iHeart’s Recovery Month, becoming a leading media platform to support those in recovery, their families and caregivers, and help inspire interventions to start the recovery journey. The all-new website includes a location finder powered by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration that matches users by zip code to substance abuse and/or mental health treatment facilities in the United States; detailed information on the “Mobilize Recovery” bus tour; and access to all iHeart-produced PSAs.

It is incredibly important to raise awareness, address stigma and bring people together to celebrate America’s strong and resilient recovery community. Avenues of meaningful engagement and accessible treatment, prevention and recovery services and supports are needed now more than ever. SAMHSA remains committed to forging ahead with partners at all levels to lower barriers, create inclusivity and listen to the unique needs of those in, or seeking recovery. We want everyone across the nation to know that help is available, and recovery is possible.”

MOBILIZE RECOVERY

Now in its 33rd year, National Addiction & Mental Health Recovery Month is a month-long, federally recognized acknowledgment of substance use disorder, commonly known as addiction. September is designated as a time to celebrate the gains made by those in recovery, just as we celebrate improvements made by those who are managing other health conditions such as hypertension, diabetes, asthma and heart disease.

In 2022, The Voices Project and iHeart teamed up with tech partners Meta, Google and Twitter for the Mobilize Recovery 2022 National Bus Tour for National Addiction & Mental Health Recovery Month. The national tour ran from September 5 – October 6 and visited 27 cities across the country to host over 40 events — with each stop highlighting the recovery experience that is so unique in different regions throughout America, advocating for community-based recovery solutions and ending preventable overdose deaths.

Since 2018, iHeart has been at the forefront of addressing the nation’s opioid epidemic, as well as the country’s mental health crisis, with the launch of several public awareness initiatives designed to merge public and private audiences with pop culture influencers to reduce stigma around mental health, addiction and opioid use disorder.

This year, all iHeart radio stations promoted the tour stops via both local and national on-air and on social media. Additionally, this year iHeart’s BIN: Black Information Network coordinated with the White House to cover and promote a special bus tour stop to discuss the issue with Second Gentleman Douglas Emhoff and ONDCP Director Rahul Gupta and had them sign the Mobilize Recovery bus.

Over the last four years, iHeart has enlisted influencers and subject matter experts to increase understanding that addiction is a disease, and that recovery is possible. iHeart and Mobilize Recovery also partnered last year for the “ Recover Out Loud” concert featuring headline Macklemore, which was heavily promoted by iHeart and streamed exclusively on iHeartRadio and iHeartRadio’s Facebook and YouTube channels.

This year, all iHeart radio stations promoted the tour stops via both local and national on-air and on social media. Additionally, this year iHeart’s BIN: Black Information Network coordinated with the White House to cover and promote a special bus tour stop to discuss the issue with Second Gentleman Douglas Emhoff and ONDCP Director Rahul Gupta and had them sign the Mobilize Recovery bus.

Substance use and addiction affects more than 20 million Americans each year. One in two Americans report they have a family member or close friend with a substance use disorder. Approximately 296 people will die today from an overdose. For the last several years, iHeart has been dedicated to finding solutions to help people understand addiction and connect them with the best resources available.

In 2022, iHeart announced a multi-faceted campaign with Partnership to End Addiction, a national nonprofit uniquely positioned to reach, engage and help families impacted by addiction. The partnership provides parents and caregivers with personalized support programs, tools and resources to care for their child, feel confident about their ability to help and be more hopeful about the future, all of which ensures better outcomes.

Through a series of national PSAs, the iHeart campaign aimed to empower families and communities to help prevent and treat substance use disorders and addiction, and support recovery for their children and loved ones. The PSAs specifically targeted family members who are helping someone struggling with addiction to let them know that they are not alone and to drive them to Partnership to End Addiction’s website for support and resources.

In 2020, Enrique Santos, President & Chief Creative Officer of HeartLatino and host of “The Enrique Santos Show” and “On The Move with Enrique Santos,” hosted Partnership to End Addiction’s virtual Hope Out Loud Gala, which included an intimate conversation between Bobby Bones, host of the nationally syndicated “The Bobby Bones Show,” and iHeart’s President, Chief Operating Officer & Chief Financial Officer Rich Bressler. The virtual event took place on November 15, 2022 and was an inspiring 45 minute experience to help empower families struggling with a loved one’s addiction.

Thank you Rich Bressler and iHeartMedia for all the work you do to shine a light on addiction and mental health, topics long suppressed from public conversation. We are so grateful for your partnership on this new media campaign, which is actively reaching families across the nation with our life saving addiction resources.”

PARTNERSHIP TO END ADDICTION
DrugFree.org
Partnership to End Addiction is a national nonprofit uniquely positioned to reach, engage and help families impacted by addiction. With decades of experience in research, direct service, communications and partnership-building, we provide families with personalized support and resources — while mobilizing policymakers, researchers and health care professionals to better address addiction systematically on a national scale.
The drug overdose epidemic in the United States is a clear and present public health, public safety and national security threat. The Drug Enforcement Administration’s (DEA) “National Prescription Drug Take Back Day” encourages the public to remove unneeded medications from their homes as a measure of preventing medication misuse and opioid addiction from ever starting.

For more than a decade, DEA’s “National Prescription Drug Take Back Day” has helped Americans easily rid their homes of unneeded medications—those that are old, unwanted or otherwise no longer needed—that too often become a gateway to addiction.

For the last several years, iHeartMedia has helped inform its listeners of the thousands of local sites nationwide where individuals can dispose of expired, unused and unwanted prescription medications as part of the “National Prescription Drug Take Back Day” and throughout the year.

iHeart played an active role in supporting the official DEA “Take Back Day” in October, which yielded the disposal of 324 tons of expired, unused and unwanted prescription medications across the country. iHeart radio stations across the country helped promote “National Take Back Day” in 2022 by airing a series of radio spots meant to encourage participation in the campaign and to educate listeners about the importance of disposing of any unwanted, unused or expired prescription medications in their homes.

Since the first National Prescription Drug Take Back Day, the DEA has collected more than 8,300 tons of expired, unused and unwanted prescription medication.
iHeartMedia continually looks for ways to encourage the communities in which we live and work to protect the environment and conserve energy and natural resources.

In 2020, iHeartMedia made a company-wide commitment to this effort with the launch of iHeartRadio Earth, a long-term sustainability initiative designed to inspire iHeart’s millions of listeners to take action to positively impact the environment. Now in its third year, iHeartRadio Earth is rooted in the belief that millions of small actions have the potential to make a massive difference for the environment. Since the program’s inception in April 2020, iHeart has contributed over $17 million in donated media across all iHeartMedia stations for this campaign alone.

Additionally, iHeart supports a number of nonprofit organizations that are changing the world by helping solve pressing issues facing our planet. From PSAs to local long-form shows and live events, local radio stations use their platforms to inform and educate their audiences and incite actions that will preserve and protect our world and have a lasting impact on our environment for generations to come.

Local stations continue to support and promote the sustainability and beautification of their local neighborhoods by participating in local events and campaigns on Earth Day and throughout the year. Additionally, many of our news talk stations and iHeart podcasts are committed to instigating meaningful science-based discussions within communities across the U.S.
In April 2020, iHeart launched iHeartRadio Earth, a company-wide sustainability initiative designed to inspire iHeart’s millions of listeners to take action to positively impact the environment.

iHeartRadio Earth is designed to sharpen the company’s focus on sustainability with the goal of increasing listeners’ knowledge of simple actions they can take every day to help the environment. The campaign is rooted in the belief that millions of small actions have the potential to make a massive difference for the environment.

The series of PSAs developed in partnership with the National Environmental Education Foundation (NEEF), the nation’s leading organization in lifelong environmental learning, provide useful tips and information about environmentally conscious actions and behaviors while also helping consumers save money during this unprecedented and challenging time. The program also provides listeners with information about virtual ways to explore the outdoors, including free guided tours of national parks, online workshops and more.

The multi-year PSA campaign educates audiences across iHeart’s broadcast radio stations and platforms about small steps they can take in their daily lives to make a positive impact in their own communities and on the planet. Since the program’s inception, over 65 spots have been created addressing issues such as consumers’ behavioral changes due to the COVID-19 pandemic and its impact on energy and water usage as well as how families shop for, consume and dispose of food; waste reduction; energy optimization; reducing food waste and carpooling to reduce greenhouse emissions; and so much more. The spots run daily on iHeartRadio stations across the country. All of iHeartRadio Earth’s efforts lead listeners to an online destination for more information on how to conserve and protect the planet in their own communities. The website also provides an opportunity to search for local virtual volunteer activities powered by VolunteerMatch.

The partnership with iHeartMedia has been invaluable to NEEF. Our collaboration on iHeart Earth contributes directly to NEEF’s mission of making the environment more accessible, relatable, relevant and connected to the daily lives of all Americans by bringing our Public Service Announcements into the homes of millions of listeners across the country. The campaign motivates them to visit the iHeartRadio Earth website to learn how to incorporate smart and sustainable actions in their everyday routine to improve their lives and the health of the planet.”

MERI-MARGARET DEOUDES
PRESIDENT AND CEO, NATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION FOUNDATION (NEEF)
A PLANET REIMAGINED AND THE UNITED NATIONS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are a collection of 17 “Global Goals” designed to be a “blueprint to achieve a better and more sustainable future for all.” The goals were set in 2015 by the United Nations General Assembly, endorsed by every country in the world and are intended to be achieved by the year 2030.

Building on a long-standing relationship with Planet Reimagined (formerly Sustainable Partners, Inc.), a climate impact social venture founded by musician Adam Met of the indie pop band AJR, iHeart teamed up once again in 2022 with Planet Reimagined and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the UN’s largest agency and central coordinator of the SDGs in 170 countries.

Through this partnership, iHeart shared messages of sustainability with iHeartRadio listeners across the country.

The all-new campaign included a series of two powerful spots produced by iHeart’s creative team that explored the benefits of rooftop farms as an amazing solution for fresher foods that are healthier and better for the planet; the impact of urban gardens on pollution; and information on managing waste. Both spots encouraged listeners to think of ways that they might reduce their impact on our world through simple, everyday actions that are in alignment with the Sustainable Development Goals.

The first of a multi-year campaign launched in 2019 garnered over 88 million impressions on over 800 iHeartRadio stations. The original campaign was presented as part of the UN General Assembly Week and artists such as Steve Aoki, Runaway June, Local Natives, MAX, AJR and Rachel Crow recorded PSAs to educate the public about the SDGs through small actions like single use plastics, LED lightbulbs, recycling and reducing food waste.

Our partnership harnesses the emotional energy of music to reach people’s hearts as well as their minds, making it more likely that they’ll get involved in working for real change and real solutions to the climate challenge. We appreciate iHeart’s commitment to using its huge platform to help make change possible.”

Almost 60% of America’s drinking water originates from our national forests. Trees bring clean air and cooler temperatures to cities and neighborhoods and are vital to our health and wealth. But a map of tree cover in cities is too often a map of income and race as trees are sparse in low-income neighborhoods and some neighborhoods of color. American Forests, the nation’s oldest conservation nonprofit organization, launched a Tree Equity program that strives to create Tree Equity by bringing trees to where they are needed the most.

Through iHeartIMPACT’s partnership with Aspiration, the global leader in “sustainability as a service” for consumers and companies, a $100,000 grant was given to American Forests to help them raise awareness around tree equity and the importance of healthy and resilient forests across the country.

iHeart’s 2022 efforts were focused on the city of Phoenix, one of the nation’s hottest cities, which broke the record for most recorded high-heat days with more than 143 days above 100 degrees in 2020. Such high temperatures are dangerous to everyone, but neighborhoods without enough trees — which are frequently low-income or communities of color — face a particular threat from high heat. The funds were directed at the creation of a “Cool Corridor,” which marked a major milestone in Phoenix’s multi-year partnership with American Forests, as well as Phoenix’s Metro Urban Forestry Roundtable.

“With today’s planting of more than 250 trees in the city’s first ‘Cool Corridor,’ we mark an important milestone toward our goal of 100 Cool Corridors by 2030. With American Forests and private sector partners, we’re proud to prioritize investment in low-income and heat-vulnerable neighborhoods. This corridor models the vision for Tree Equity and will serve students walking to and from nearby schools, public transit riders and residents in this community.”

September 11th, 2001 is a day we – as a country and as a company – will never forget. Twenty-one years ago, iHeart was called upon in ways we never imagined. Following the events of 9/11, the iHeart team rallied, with many stations forgoing their usual formats to provide continuing crucial information to devastated communities; provide much-needed connection and emotional support; and help with cleanup efforts. During and after the crisis, a number of our on-air personalities served as touchstones for their listeners in the cities attacked and around the country, helping people understand what happened, what they could do to help and where they could find the assistance many of them desperately needed.

As more and more time passes, iHeart remains committed to commemorating the anniversary of the attacks on the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and flight UA 93 in Shanksville, PA and the thousands of people who lost their lives as a result. We encourage listeners in every city across the country to remember by serving their communities and neighbors as part of our work with 9/11 Day and to support fundraising initiatives for the victims of 9/11.
For more than a decade, iHeartRadio has been an important national partner with the nonprofit 9/11 Day to annually promote and support the federally-recognized September 11 National Day of Service. Working with 9/11 Day, iHeart stations across the United States have encouraged tens of millions of Americans to remember and pay tribute on the anniversary of the 9/11 tragedy by volunteering, donating to charities or performing other good deeds and acts of kindness.

These efforts have helped transform the anniversary of 9/11 into the largest day of charitable service in America. In 2022, to support and commemorate the day, iHeart aired 9/11 Day’s inspiring national PSA campaign, entitled “State of Unitedness,” which urges Americans to work together to resolve differences and rekindle the spirit of unity that arose in the nation, and in many parts of the world, following the 9/11 attacks.

iHeart’s radio campaign included a series of PSAs that featured 9/11 families, survivors, first responders, Gold Star parents and others impacted by 9/11 and its aftermath reminding fellow Americans to refocus on their common humanity. All PSAs encouraged listeners to visit 911day.org to find lists of “good deeds” they could choose to do in observance of the 9/11 anniversary. The 9/11 Day website also included free lesson plans for parents and teachers and video interviews with 9/11 family members, survivors, first responders, recovery workers, Gold Star parents and military veterans.

Additionally, 9/11 Day again hosted large-scale, in-person hunger relief volunteer events in 11 cities across the nation in collaboration with AmeriCorps – the federal agency which provides year-round investment in and support of service and volunteerism, and engages millions of its AmeriCorps members, volunteers, alumni, organizations and communities to serve in honor of both MLK Day and 9/11 Day.

Campaign Impact

- 8,000 volunteers mobilized
- 2.6M healthy, non-perishable meals packed that were donated to local Feeding America-affiliated food banks that serve those at risk of hunger

We are indebted to the iHeart organization and to its hundreds of stations, employees and on-air talent who once again inspired millions of Americans to remember and pay tribute on the anniversary of 9/11 through kindness, service and expressions of unity.

DAVID PAINE
CO-FOUNDER & PRESIDENT,
9/11 DAY
Stephen Siller, a young New York City firefighter, was one of thousands of people who lost their lives when the World Trade Center collapsed on September 11, 2001. Stephen gave his life while trying to save others. He was off duty, about to play golf with his brothers, when he learned about the attack on the Twin Towers. Since the Brooklyn Battery Tunnel was closed to traffic, Stephen ran in full 60-pound firefighting gear through the tunnel to the Towers, only to lose his life with 342 other members of the Fire Department of the City of New York. Afterwards, his family, led by brother Frank Siller, started the Tunnel to Towers Foundation with the mission of honoring his sacrifice.

The Foundation began paying off the mortgages of fallen first responders, easing the financial burden of loved ones left behind. Since that time, they’ve expanded their scope to encompass Gold Star families and are building some of the most advanced “smart” homes for critically injured veterans and first responders, veterans and their families by providing mortgage-free homes to hundreds of employers, nonprofits and other groups, to facilitate their participation in 9/11 Day.

Shelli Sonstein, co-host of Q104.3’s “The Jim Kerr Rock And Roll Morning Show,” has led iHeart’s partnership with the Tunnel to Towers Foundation for the last eight years. She’s inspired thousands of Q104.3 listeners to join her in two of the organization’s most successful events, including the “Tunnel to Towers Tower Climb NYC” at the One World Observatory, where participants climb 104 stories to celebrate the life and sacrifice of all 9/11 heroes including FDNY Firefighter Stephen Siller and FDNY Captain Billy Burke; and “The Tunnel to Towers 5K Run & Walk” in New York City, an event that symbolically recreated Stephen Siller’s final footsteps from the foot of the Battery Tunnel to the Twin Towers and pays homage to the 343 FDNY members as well as law enforcement officers and civilians who lost their lives on September 11, 2001. In the last seven years the stations’ efforts have raised over $75,000 for the organization through these two events.

Additionally, over the last two decades, iHeartMedia New York has forged a deep relationship with Tunnel to Towers and, in 2022, launched a series of campaigns and programs across all of its stations and iHeartRadio that included:

• Producing a powerful and moving #LoveSomeoneWithDelilah podcast episode, featuring Frank Siller, on the eve of the 20th anniversary of 9/11.
• Teaming up with the Tunnel to Towers Foundation to promote their 5K Run & Walk NYC to help honor those lost on 9/11 and all of those lost in the days, months and years since the War on Terror.
• Supporting Frank Siller’s “Never Forget Walk” that paid tribute to America’s fallen heroes. To commemorate the 20th anniversary of the attack, Frank Siller walked from the Pentagon to Shanksville, Pennsylvania and on to Ground Zero. Shelli joined him briefly on his more than 500-mile journey through six states in 42 days, which began August 1, 2021 and fittingly finished on September 11, 2021 at Ground Zero.
• Dedicated over a dozen of Shelli Sonstein’s Sunday community affairs programs to Tunnel to Towers.
• Social media support for Tunnel to Towers.
• Being named the beneficiary of the Q104.3 “Rock and Roll Car Show” in August.

The Tunnel to Towers Foundation’s primary mission has always been to ensure America Never Forgets the heroic actions that took place on September 11, 2001. The unwavering support we have received from iHeartMedia has allowed us to deliver this message to millions of people. iHeart’s commitment to our nation’s active service members, veterans and first responder families has been key to our continued growth. We are so grateful to have them in our corner.”

Each year, iHeartMedia makes a company-wide commitment beyond media or financial support to address a specific issue or cause. In 2022, the company reacted to a number of timely and relevant concerns in addition to our ongoing growth and development of our most successful social impact programs.

For the last nine years, iHeartMedia has been committed to addressing veteran unemployment and employment retention and launched what is still the largest public service campaign in the company’s history – iHeartRadio ‘Show Your Stripes’ – to address the national veteran unemployment crisis. On Veterans Day 2021, iHeart unveiled an all-new ‘Show Your Stripes’ program that realigns with some of the most pressing issues facing veterans today, including a focus on wellness — from health and emotional wellness to environmental, financial, intellectual, occupational, physical, social and spiritual wellness.

This year, iHeart continued to expand its relationship with the innovative and effective nonprofit GreenLight Fund which helps communities identify and address their unmet local needs. Together we are working to bring proven programs to Heart cities where they are needed most. In addition, we reached our ninth year supporting the Ryan Seacrest Foundation, assisting in his mission to build broadcast media centers, named Seacrest Studios, in pediatric hospitals for patients to explore the creative realms of radio, television and new media.

We also continued to expand our work around International Women’s Day, and this year celebrated the contributions of women and girls around the world who are leading the charge on climate change adaptation, mitigation and response to build a more sustainable future.

In addition, iHeartMedia granted holiday wishes for hundreds of families in local communities across America through its 13th annual “Granting Your Christmas Wish” program.
In 2021, iHeart relaunched its award-winning “iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes” social impact campaign with an all-new series of Public Service Announcements (PSAs), a broadened focus on veteran wellness and a multi-year commitment to create a more supportive world for veterans returning home. The program aims to connect veterans and their families with the communities, businesses, resources, programs and nonprofits that can support their different wellness needs.

Launched ten years ago to address the national veteran unemployment crisis, “iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes” realigned with some of the most pressing issues facing veterans today, including a focus on wellness — from health and emotional wellness to environmental, financial, intellectual, occupational, physical, social and spiritual wellness. The campaign promotes the eight dimensions of wellness — an effective framework for the pursuit of wellness — and drives veterans to programs and resources that provide ideas and examples for improving each specific area of well-being.

Additionally, iHeart produced a series of PSAs voiced by nationally-recognized iHeart on-air personalities Ryan Seacrest, Bobby Bones, Elvis Duran, Enrique Santos, Steve Harvey and Woody, as well as recording artists Craig Morgan and Walker Hayes, to encourage veterans facing challenges, or family and friends looking out for the wellbeing of a veteran, to visit showyourstripes.org for national and local support.

The new showyourstripes.org — a refreshed, centralized and easy-to-use online destination — offers broad recommendations and relevant resources curated by iHeart in partnership with Dixon Center for Military and Veteran Services, which provides influence, ideas and actions to organizations and individuals wanting veterans and their families to succeed where they live. The site also serves as a launchpad to many programs that are serving veterans today.

True to the program’s original mission, “iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes” celebrates the unique skills and training that make veterans such valuable leaders and members of their communities by sharing stories that highlight the strength and resilience of our military as they overcome challenges in their quest to reintegrate into civilian life.

Veterans and their families may face difficult and unique challenges, some as a result of war trauma...However, just like on the battlefield, we’ve seen our veterans thrive when they are connected to the right support, at the right place, at the right time – where they live. They are amazing people. Get them started and they will shine.”

The GreenLight Fund engages with community leaders and residents to identify unmet needs that, if addressed, could make a significant difference in the lives of residents facing barriers to economic opportunity. The organization identifies innovative models from across the country with measurable results that address those needs and, after a thorough due diligence process, selects a proven program that is the best fit for the city.

In each of GreenLight’s 12 cities, in collaboration with the local community, the organization helps open opportunities for children, youth and families experiencing poverty by engaging deeply with residents, experts and leaders and running a consistent annual process to: elevate priority issues not yet being addressed; invest in innovative, proven programs that have a significant, measurable social impact; and galvanize local support to accelerate the selected program’s launch and ensure growth and long-term viability.

Since 2019, iHeartMedia has made an annual media commitment to support new and existing GreenLight Fund sites that are working to bring effective programs to cities where they are needed. To date, iHeart has launched media campaigns in Boston, Atlanta, Baltimore, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Detroit, the San Francisco Bay Area and the Twin Cities, with several other additional cities planned over the next few years.

In each city, GreenLight was able to raise awareness about its mission and focus while also spotlighting the work of the portfolio organizations GreenLight has brought to those cities. Here are just a few examples of iHeart collaborations:

- In Cincinnati, local stations showcased stories of the work of recently selected portfolio organization The Literacy Lab’s Leading Men Fellowship (LMF) and its fellows. LMF tackles systemic education inequities by closing the literacy gap through high-quality pre-k tutoring; employing young men of color as trained, paid literacy tutors; and diversifying the teacher pipeline.
- The LMF program is also in Atlanta where GreenLight partnered with the local iHeartRadio stations to air PSAs helping to recruit young men of color as fellows who now work in pre-K classrooms to strengthen early childhood literacy skills while training to become teachers.
- In Boston, iHeartRadio supported two of GreenLight’s fundraising events by providing raffle prize packages including concert tickets, helping the organization exceed its fundraising goals.
- In the San Francisco Bay Area, a series of PSAs were used by three portfolio organizations - uAspire, EveryoneOn and Springboard Collaborative – to recruit participants, educate on college financial aid options and promote upcoming, free digital literacy trainings.

GreenLight invested in the expansion of seven new organizations this past year addressing a diverse set of focus areas including workforce development, financial security, family childcare, housing, youth mental health and community safety. As we work to open opportunities for inclusive prosperity, we are grateful to iHeartMedia for helping to amplify our work and that of GreenLight’s portfolio organizations in our communities.”

March is Women’s History Month, and Tuesday, March 8 marked International Women’s Day. In 2022, iHeartMedia and Seneca Women launched “Seneca Women to Hear: The Search For the Next Great Female Podcasters,” which kicked off the search for the next 10 breakout female podcast stars. The search was highlighted during HeartRadio’s SeeHer Hear Her celebration on March 8 with a special appearance from Michelle Williams, singer, author and host of the “Checking In” podcast. Ten winners were awarded top-of-the-line audio equipment and six weeks of specialized training at the Seneca Women Podcast Academy, followed by their own shows on the Seneca Women Podcast Network on iHeartMedia.

In addition, iHeart launched “Women Take the Mic” across iHeart’s broadcast radio stations, where some of iHeart’s most influential female personalities hosted popular iHeart radio shows during the day for conversations about equality, inclusion and inspiration, and shared their ideas and thoughts on how to help more women be heard. iHeart broadcast radio stations also devoted the hour to playing the biggest hits and new music from today’s female artists, and offered special playlists on the iHeartRadio app. Women guest personalities highlighted listeners talking about women that have made a significant impact in the community as a direct result of their exceptional leadership. The tributes included a series of on-air and digital vignettes on iHeartRadio Chicago’s six radio stations, websites and social media.

iHeartMedia’s local stations also put female voices in the spotlight. Listeners were invited to nominate local women-owned businesses for a chance to win one of two $2,000 grants.

The Ryan Seacrest Foundation (RSF) contributes positively to the healing process of children by building broadcast media centers in hospitals across the country — providing a respite for children and families being treated. iHeartMedia is committed to helping further the mission of the foundation and continually looks for innovative ways to support the organization.

RSF builds broadcast media centers, named Seacrest Studios, in pediatric hospitals for patients to explore the creative realms of radio, television and new media. There are now studios in 11 cities across the United States including Atlanta; Philadelphia; Dallas; Orange County; Charlotte; Cincinnati; Denver; Boston; Washington, D.C.; Nashville and Orlando. Three new Seacrest Studios will be opening in 2023 at Le Bonheur Children’s Hospital (Memphis, TN), Cohen Children’s Medical Center (Queens, NY) and Primary Children’s Hospital (Salt Lake City, UT).

iHeartMedia supports the amazing work of RSF in a variety of ways throughout the year, including educational experiences for studio interns, assisting with talent bookings and executing national and local fundraising programs.

For the ninth consecutive year, RSF was named the official charity partner for select iHeartRadio Jingle Ball Tour concert cities, and iHeartMedia donated $1 from every ticket sold to RSF in addition to donating a variety of exclusive packages.

Meredith Seacrest, Executive Director and COO of the Ryan Seacrest Foundation, says, “We are grateful for our incredible partnership with iHeartMedia. Due to their continued support, we are launching three new Seacrest Studios this year in Memphis, TN; Queens, NY; and Salt Lake City, UT. We couldn’t expand our studio footprint and impact without companies like iHeartMedia that truly believe in our mission.”

THE RYAN SEACREST FOUNDATION

RyanSeacrestFoundation.org

The Ryan Seacrest Foundation (RSF) is a non-profit 501(c)(3) dedicated to inspiring today’s youth through entertainment and education-focused initiatives. RSF’s primary initiative is to build broadcast media centers — Seacrest Studios — within pediatric hospitals for patients to explore the creative realms of radio, television and new media. Founded in 2009, RSF currently has Seacrest Studios at 15 hospitals in Atlanta; Philadelphia; Dallas; Orange County; Charlotte; Cincinnati; Denver; Boston; Washington, D.C.; Nashville and Orlando. Three new studios are scheduled to open this year in Memphis, TN at Le Bonheur Children’s Hospital, Queens, NY at Cohen Children’s Medical Center and Salt Lake City, UT at Primary Children’s Hospital.
For the 15th consecutive year, iHeartMedia granted Christmas wishes to those in need and who deserve a special holiday gift. In 2022, iHeart’s annual “Granting Your Christmas Wish” program attracted over 30,000 entries with wishes ranging from plane tickets to visit family members, toys for children, assistance with bills, family vacations, housing repairs and more.

Beginning November 24 through December 4, 2022, iHeartMedia stations across the country encouraged listeners to share their wish requests via their broadcast radio station websites. All participants were required to submit a short paragraph stating why they should have their wish granted or to nominate someone worthy in their lives. The program was designed to share listeners’ personal stories, with the goal of inspiring non-winners to give back and do something special for their own families or community. All 62 winning entries received gifts between $1,000 - $5,000.

Below are some winners of iHeart’s 2022’s “Granting Your Christmas Wish” program:

CYNTHIA
WISH: LAB RESCUE
“My Christmas Wish would be to help area Labrador Retriever Rescues, especially Lab Rescue of Greater Richmond. Hundreds of volunteers rescue and save my favorite dogs in need (over 3000 each year). This would be the best gift for our family and our beloved rescues too!”

WISH: FUNDS FOR CHRISTMAS MEAL AND DECORATIONS
“My Christmas wish this year is to be able to provide a nice family meal for Christmas with holiday decorations. Our house flooded in October and the insurance company has not started on the job yet. The flood wiped out our whole kitchen, so we were not able to cook Thanksgiving dinner. My four boys would be more than thrilled if we had the help to keep the family tradition going.”

WISH: DOWN PAYMENT FOR CAR
“After my mom passed away four years ago, my family has been struggling financially. Two years ago, we lost our car and haven’t been able to afford the down payment for a new one. My husband is disabled and getting to certain places has been really difficult for him. A minivan and getting to certain places has been the help to keep the family tradition going.”

LISA
WISH: DONATION TO LOCAL COATS FOR KIDS DRIVE
“Our church family is doing a coat drive for local school kids. These funds would go a long way toward not only our local school but nearby schools as well.”

DONALD
WISH: NEW ANNIVERSARY STONE
“My wife and I will celebrate our 40th anniversary in March. Her stone fell out of her wedding ring. I am 69, recently retired and I cannot afford to replace it right now. I proposed on a bridge over a 200 ft waterfall. I know she cherishes the ring, and I would love to have the stone replaced.”

TINA
WISH: GROCERY AND GIFT HELP FOR SISTER
“My wish is to gift my sister groceries and some gift cards to help her Christmas shop. My mom was in remission and her cancer recently came back. My sister without hesitation quit her job, moved in with my mom and is taking care of her full time. She is now living on one income. She is very deserving and such a kind-hearted person, and I am very grateful for her taking care of our mom. However, I see what it has done to her financially.”

BRITNEY
WISH: NEW RECLINER
“My husband has been battling cancer for the past two years. He is unable to sleep in his bed due to physical issues and has been using his recliner as a bed since this began. I would like to get him a comfortable extra wide recliner that he can more comfortably sleep in.”

PAMELA
WISH: TRAVEL EXPENSES
“I would love to be able to take my 80-year-old mother to Memphis, Tennessee to visit her sister and her brother. That would make her dream come true!”

JEANENE
WISH: MONEY FOR MOM’S BILLS AND HOME REPAIRS
“My mom is battling stage 4 cancer yet continues to work. I would love to be able to give her some money to fix her car and improve a few things around the house. This would take some pressure off of her, as she is already under a lot of stress.”

DENICE
WISH: WASHER AND DRYER FOR MOM
“My wish is for my mother to get a washer and dryer. She lost her dog the day before Thanksgiving, her car broke down and her washer and dryer stopped working. She is unable to purchase one as she’s on a fixed income and it’s hard for her to go to the laundromat, as she uses a walker.”

BRYNN
WISH: DONATION TO LOCAL COATS FOR KIDS DRIVE
“We just found out our youngest daughter needs braces. We are trying to plan for them around Christmas, but this is a big financial cost for our family. Any help would be a blessing!”
PRIDE RADIO

iHeartRadio is proud to support the LGBTQIA+ community and strives to provide the most relevant LGBTQIA+ news and information to its listeners every day. iHeartRadio’s PRIDE Radio – iHeartRadio’s digital entertainment destination for the LGBTQIA+ community – brings the best of music and programming to the LGBTQIA+ community and its allies around the country and is featured on the iHeartRadio app as well as on 29 iHeart stations via HD Radio.

The station, hosted by leading LGBTQIA+ on-air personalities, features a dynamic blend of music alongside its signature LGBTQIA+ Audio Vignette series with top music artists such as Sam Smith, Kim Petras, Lizzo, Miley Cyrus and Ariana Grande, as well as influencers from within the community.

iHeartMedia proudly supports the LGBTQIA+ community and annually participates in LGBTQIA+ events and initiatives across the country, and is very active in promoting, supporting, and developing the biggest Pride celebrations of the year across the country.

LOCAL PRIDE RADIO ACTIVATIONS

- iHeart stations celebrated “National Coming Out Day” in October with special on-air and online celebrity greetings and coming out stories from artists like Sam Smith and Lil Nas X.

- PRIDE Radio was the lead station promoting iHeartRadio’s annual “Can’t Cancel Pride” special event featuring performances by Elton John, Katy Perry, Sam Smith, Lizzo and more. The event raised millions of dollars for local and national LGBTQIA+ charities and organizations.

- PRIDE Radio was the official media partner for the “Capital Pride Concert” in Washington, DC hosted by PRIDE Radio personality Houston and local personalities from iHeart’s HOT 99.5. The concert featured performances by DNCE with Joe Jonas, Jody Watley, Vincent, “RuPaul’s Drag Race” winner Willow Pi and a special appearance by Vice President Kamala Harris.

- PRIDE Radio published a “PRIDE Guide” online directory of Pride celebrations throughout the country, complementing the on-air feature, listing both virtual and in-person events happening in all 50 states.

- PRIDE Radio broadcast live from multiple local Pride events in June. PRIDE Radio personalities broadcast live, Christie from LA Pride and Houston from the Capital Pride Parade, both on corresponding iHeartRadio floats.

- Celebrities and artists like Billy Porter, Britney Spears, Demi Lovato, Adam Lambert, Cyndi Lauper and many more recorded special Pride Month Greetings that ran throughout the month across all @PRIDERadio social channels and on-air.

- iHeart stations promoted World AIDS Day on December 1 through on-air promos and discussion, as well as other HIV Awareness campaigns throughout the year with periodic interviews featuring Dr. Laura Cheever from the Ryan White HIV/AIDS Program and the Health Resources and Services Administration.

- PRIDE Radio partnered with Murray & Peter Presents to provide experiences at drag shows across the country, supporting this important art of the LGBTQIA+ community and bringing awareness to the significant increase of threats, protests and violence against drag performers.

Throughout the year, PRIDE Radio highlighted hundreds of local Pride celebrations on-air in 60-second updates that ran multiple times per day.

Learning to play an instrument takes patience, persistence and focus — the same qualities students need to excel in school and in future careers. Neuroscience research also demonstrates how music-making changes the brain’s ability to process language and sharpen cognitive strengths, such as attention and working memory.

Harmony Program provides high quality music instruction and social support to children year-round at no cost to them. With a network of world-class instructors and continuous opportunities for advancement, the organization motivates youth to achieve their greatest aspirations and cultivate the human potential of local communities. The program was designed to support the positive growth and development of children in need through the study, practice and performance of music under the mentorship of professional musicians.

In 2022, iHeart launched its first youth mentoring effort with the Harmony Program in an effort to increase access among underserved students to high-level executives within the media world. As part of the newly launched collaboration, iHeart hosted seven students from the Harmony Program’s Alumni Corps, a program that exposes students to careers in the music industry and supports workforce readiness at the company’s NYC headquarters. The participating students had the opportunity to sit down with iHeart executives from across the organization — including top iHeart executives John Sykes, iHeart’s President of Entertainment Enterprises, and Tom Poleman, iHeart’s Chief Programming Officer & President of National Programming Group — to discuss their personal journeys in the music and media industry, offer insights and advice as the students begin their own careers and answer many thoughtful and focused questions. The students were also invited to the iHeartRadio Z100 Jingle Ball, where they were provided a glimpse into the backstage workings of a large concert event.

Harmony Program Alumni Corps members, including some who previously participated in iHeart’s mentorship program, have continued in musical study and/or pursuit of industry careers at New York University, Syracuse University and beyond, and holding internships with the Warner Music Group, Sirius XM and Pandora, among others.

“The Harmony Program is grateful to iHeart for their efforts to inspire our students on their paths to professional opportunities in music. The warmth and enthusiasm of iHeart’s senior executives speak to their genuine commitment to cultivating a diverse generation of future leaders in the industry.”

Small businesses are the heart of America’s economy and an important presence in communities across the country, but COVID-19 has driven hundreds of thousands of them out of business. While iHeart has supported Small Business Saturday for the past decade, in the last three years iHeart has launched several public campaigns aimed at helping the hardest-hit small businesses stay afloat and keep local workers employed by helping them navigate the relief resources available to them and by encouraging communities to shop local.

Additionally, iHeart remains committed to helping Black businesses and entrepreneurs as vital resources within local communities and economies and are critical to creating racial and wealth equity. Through iHeart-created programs like “Brilliantly Black” and “Building Black Biz,” we are shining a light on the thousands of Black-owned businesses making a difference in some of the country’s biggest cities, including New York and Chicago.
SMALL BUSINESS SATURDAY

Based on research conducted by American Express, $0.68 of every dollar spent at a small business in the U.S. stays in the local community and every dollar spent at small businesses creates an additional $0.48 in local business activity as a result of employees and local businesses purchasing local goods and services.

Saturday, November 26, 2022 was Small Business Saturday—a day to celebrate and support small businesses and all they do for their communities. In 2022, small businesses needed our support more than ever as they navigated, retooled and pivoted from the lingering effects of the coronavirus pandemic. Founded by American Express in 2010 and officially cosponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration since 2011, Small Business Saturday has become an important part of small businesses’ busiest shopping season.

Based on data in the Small Business Economic Impact Study from American Express, if every Gen Z and Millennial shopper spent $10 at a small business on Small Business Saturday, it would support $2 billion in local economic activity throughout the U.S. Additionally, 63% of small business owners said they want to grow their Gen Z and Millennial customer base this holiday season.

For the 12th consecutive year, iHeartMedia played a major role in American Express’ national initiative to encourage consumers to shop locally. To align with American Express’ desire to reach a younger audience, iHeart aimed to help them reach a new generation of shoppers on Small Business Saturday. iHeart crafted community-specific messaging that was targeted at reaching millennials and Gen-Z audiences across multiple platforms, including broadcast radio, digital streaming radio, social media and podcasting.

As part of the campaign, local personalities highlighted local small businesses and encouraged listeners to shop small during the holiday season—many sharing why they personally believe shopping small is important during the holiday season.

SMALL BUSINESS SATURDAY

ShopSmall.com

November 26 was the 13th annual Small Business Saturday, proudly backed by American Express. Dedicated to supporting the diverse range of local businesses that create jobs, help boost the economy and enhance neighborhoods around the country, Small Business Saturday was created by American Express in 2010 in response to small business owners’ most pressing need: getting more customers.
According to a report conducted in 2020 by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, nearly half of Black-owned small businesses had been wiped out by the end of April 2020 as the COVID-19 pandemic disproportionately ravaged minority communities. In fact, Black-owned businesses were more than twice as likely to shutter as their white counterparts. In response to these alarming statistics, many iHeart stations launched community resource initiatives to support local Black-owned businesses, restaurants and nonprofits. Among some of the biggest programs were iHeartMedia Chicago’s Brillantly Black, which encouraged listeners to visit their websites and enter keyword “brilliant” to get more information about over 800 Black-owned businesses, restaurants and community resources. Additionally, iHeartMedia New York launched Building Black Biz – an initiative designed to support, sustain and grow local Black-owned businesses in the New York metro area.

iHeart remains committed to helping build equitable growth for Black entrepreneurs and businesses through the growth and development of these programs, as supporting Black-owned businesses helps strengthen local economies, boosts community morale and can help close disparities in wealth.
An estimated 145,000 businesses in Illinois, or 12%, are Black-owned, according to the most recent U.S. Census data. iHeart recognizes that the advancement of minority-owned businesses is essential to the growth of our local and national economies.

In June 2020, iHeartMedia Chicago launched “Brilliantly Black” as a community resource initiative to support local Black-owned businesses, restaurants and non-profits. Each radio station encouraged listeners to visit its website and enter the keyword “brilliant” to get more information about Black-owned businesses and community resources. Since its inception, iHeartMedia Chicago has supported Black-owned businesses with more than $5,000,000 in promotion and in-kind advertising. In addition, they showcased nearly 1300 Black-owned businesses through digital, on-air features and the “Brilliantly Black” podcast.

In 2022, local businesses and listeners had the opportunity to nominate and vote for their favorite Black-owned business in Chicagoland and Northwest Indiana between June 16 and July 31. A total of 10 winners were selected to receive $100,000 of in-kind media on iHeartMedia Chicago radio stations and a small business development cohort from the Chicago Urban League.

The Chicago Urban League has a longstanding commitment to supporting the growth and success of Black-owned businesses. Thriving businesses that create jobs and support families are a critical component to achieving economic equity for our communities, and we are proud to partner with iHeartMedia Chicago to celebrate and support the success of Black entrepreneurs.”

THE CHICAGO URBAN LEAGUE

iHeartMedia Chicago created the first of its kind ‘Brilliantly Black’ community resource initiative. We are proud to expand the initiative and award 10 local Black-owned businesses a combined total of $1 million in marketing and advertising to further promote their products and services, while elevating economic growth for their businesses. The Chicago Urban League shares our mission and stepped up to provide small business master-level education training for the award winners as well.”

“Building Black Biz” is a long-term initiative designed to support, sustain and grow local Black-owned businesses in the New York metro area. Through the “Building Black Biz” initiative, listeners and aspiring business owners heard from successful entrepreneurs within the tristate area on how they started their business and what advice they would give to new entrepreneurs.

Over the last two years, “Building Black Biz” has created an online educational guide that features the fundamentals of entrepreneurship to help start or grow a business. The resources include curated topics that range from business development skills to finding the right funding or mentorship program for a small business. All educational opportunities have been provided by Operation Hope — a nonprofit organization providing financial literacy empowerment and economic education — the NYC Small Business Services and MetroPlus Health.

In addition, listeners are encouraged to shop and support local Black-owned businesses through the website’s vendor database including many local black-owned businesses.

The initiative also features “The Building Black Biz Podcast,” a weekly podcast hosted by prominent iHeart on-air personalities, including Angela Yee, Maxwell and more. In the last two years, the podcast has featured over 40 successful Black business owners, executives and other notable trailblazers offering advice and business guidance.

Every day, iHeart broadcast radio stations play an essential role in the lives of the communities in which we live and work, especially in times of crisis — and that has never been more critical than in the face of the COVID-19 pandemic and its aftermath.

iHeart is dedicated to being a force for understanding and support for our entire listening population and we reach our diverse audiences through over 20,000 local events every year. All of our events represent the members and voices of the many different communities we serve and are often an opportunity to embed social impact messaging. From fundraising to serving as a vehicle to deliver positive and inspiring messages, our events often mobilize communities to create positive lasting change in their own lives and the lives of others.

At iHeart, we have a responsibility to uplift and support the people making up the communities in which we all live and work, especially the most marginalized and vulnerable. We strive to provide a safe space for these communities and offer programming that is validating, inspiring and uplifting, and which connects individuals to their communities and to one another. Every year, we reach these communities through special event programming that brings more awareness and attention to their causes and celebrates their individuality.
For the third consecutive year, iHeartMedia and P&G joined forces during Pride Month for “Can’t Cancel Pride 2022 – Proud AND Together,” a fundraiser for the LGBTQ+ community celebrating visibility and inclusivity for all. Hosted by singer, actress and social media phenom JoJo Siwa, the benefit special brought together some of the biggest names in culture and entertainment and included performances from Katy Perry, Sam Smith, Lizzo, Anitta, Dove Cameron, Betty Vehe and Kim Petras. In addition, Elton John was honored with the first-ever Impact Award for his humanitarian work through the Elton John AIDS Foundation. The event was available on demand throughout Pride Month via iHeartRadio’s YouTube, Facebook, The CW App and CWTV.com and Revry.

The third annual event focused on the challenges and celebrations of “The Year in Pride,” showcasing twelve months of community and activism and the issues that continue to impact the LGBTQ+ community in 2022 as well as intersectional messages of spirit and strength.

“Can’t Cancel Pride” partnered with The Greater Cincinnati Foundation to administer and distribute financial support raised by the event to LGBTQ+ organizations with a track record of positive impact and support of the LGBTQ+ community, including GLAAD, SAGE, The Trevor Project, the National Black Justice Coalition, CenterLink and OutRight Action International. In just three years, “Can’t Cancel Pride” has raised over $11.4 million for these organizations. In 2021 alone, the event reached 6.3 million viewers and listeners. Additionally, to raise money for the six participating nonprofits, iHeartMedia partnered with Cameo and participating talent to donate a portion of proceeds from the personalized videos to benefit the “Can’t Cancel Pride” fund.

Since its inception, the annual benefit special has brought together some of the biggest names in culture and entertainment and included performances from Adam Lambert, Ben Platt, Bebe Rexha, Brothers Osborne, Hayley Kiyoko, JoJo Siwa, Katy Perry, Kyle Minogue, Lodde Odom Jr., Melissa Etheridge, P!NK, Ricky Martin and Carla Morrison, Sia and Troye Sivan, as well as Neel Patrick Harris, Darren Criss, Andrew Rannells and more, with special appearances from Billy Porter, Brandi Carlile, Cara Delevinge, Ciara, Dan Levy, Demi Lovato, Dolly Parton, Elton John, Gus Kenworthy, Jennifer Hudson, Karamo Brown and Tan France from “Queer Eye,” Kermit The Frog, Lena Waithe, Lil Nas X, Marshmello, Matt Bomer, Michelle Xuel Rodriguez, Nice Tortorella, Pete and Chasten Buttigieg, Tituss Burgess and more.

Each year, our country unites on Veterans Day to celebrate and honor the courage and sacrifice of the brave men and women who serve. For the last five years on Veterans Day, iHeartRadio has brought together some of country music’s biggest stars during the iHeartCountry “One Night For Our Military” special broadcast to honor and salute our military heroes.

This year’s one-hour special featured a compilation of some of the biggest performances from previous iHeartCountry live events, including Morgan Wallen, Luke Combs, Jason Aldean, Maren Morris, Zac Brown Band, Thomas Rhett and many more.

The special broadcast also included artists like Blake Shelton, Luke Combs, Lady A, Old Dominion, Miranda Lambert and many others discussing their personal connection to our military, the gratitude they have for our service members and the importance of remembering and commemorating our veterans.

The one-hour special broadcast of iHeartCountry “One Night For Our Military” aired on Thursday, November 10 at 7 p.m. local time on iHeartMedia Country stations across the nation and on the iHeartRadio app on iHeartRadio’s iHeartCountry Radio station.

SeeHer is the leading global movement of media, marketing and entertainment leaders and influencers committed to the accurate depiction of women and girls in advertising and media. While strides have been made in recent years to authentically portray women and girls, unconscious bias persists throughout advertising and entertainment. The average age, race and body type, among other characteristics, of women shown in media still represent only a small fraction of the female population. The SeeHer movement was launched by the Association of National Advertisers (ANA) in partnership with The Female Quotient (The FQ) in 2016 at the United State of Women.

In celebration of International Women’s Day on March 8, iHeartMedia and SeeHer, the largest global movement to eliminate gender bias in marketing, advertising, media and entertainment, hosted the second annual “iHeartRadio SeeHer Hear Her: Celebrating Women Who Make Music and Culture,” a celebration placing gender equality center stage. The special event highlighted successful and influential artists in music, with interviews from Alicia Keys, Maren Morris, Avril Lavigne, and more during a live one-hour special that streamed on iHeartRadio’s YouTube and Facebook pages on March 8.

The “iHeartRadio SeeHer Hear Her: Celebrating Women Who Make Music and Culture” event dove into the lives of these three leading female artists – from their girlhood dreams and the mentors who inspired them to achieving those goals and becoming leaders and role models for future generations. The special shared how these artists use their music platform and social media presence to activate and encourage other women, and revealed that while their experiences may come from their lives in the music industry, the challenges they face are universal.

To kick off the celebration, beginning on March 1, iHeartMedia launched an eight-day countdown to International Women’s Day across 600 iHeartMedia broadcast radio stations in every format, on social media platforms and on iHeartRadio’s biggest podcasts. The weeklong countdown culminated on March 8 with “Women Take The Mic,” as iHeart’s most influential female personalities hosted popular iHeart radio shows throughout the day, having conversations about equality, inclusion and inspiration and sharing steps everyone can take to help more women be heard. That evening, iHeart broadcast radio stations also devolved the hour to playing the biggest hits and new music from today’s female artists and offered special playlists on the iHeartRadio App.

Additionally, listeners were encouraged to join the conversation online by using #iHeartWomensDay and #SeeHer throughout the day and during the one-hour special.

Music has the ability to inspire people, and that’s why SeeHer Hear Her, a key initiative in the SeeHer movement, is striving to eliminate gender bias in the music industry and increase the percentage of women in front of and behind the mic. For a second year in a row, we are proud to partner with iHeartRadio and bring awareness to these issues with real scale on International Women’s Day, while also celebrating female trailblazers in the industry. This is an important step towards progress to ensuring the music world sees and hears her.”

iHeartRadio reaches our diverse audiences through over 20,000 local events every year that represent the members and voices of the many different communities we serve. iHeartRadio Fiesta Latina celebrates the best in Latin culture and music during Hispanic Heritage Month.

The ninth annual iHeartRadio Fiesta Latina celebrated the best in Latin music with performances by Farruko, Nicky Jam, Jhayco, Becky G, Myke Towers, Manuel Turizo, DJ Adoni, Fat Joe and iHeartRadio Corazón Award recipient Enrique Iglesias at the FTX Arena in Miami, Florida on Saturday, October 15. In addition, the 2022 iHeartRadio Fiesta Latina was broadcast live nationwide across iHeart’s Spanish Contemporary hits, Tropical, Regional Mexican, Tejano and Spanish Oldies stations.

This year, iHeartMedia and Enrique Santos presented Enrique Iglesias with the iHeartRadio Corazón Latino Award. The award honors an individual who exemplifies their big heart through their selfless work to enhance the lives of the Latin community and beyond.

Guests of the show and listeners were encouraged to donate to Americares, an organization that was on the ground aiding health facilities in Florida following Hurricane Ian. Donations were used to help deliver medicine, medical supplies and emergency support so people impacted by Hurricane Ian and other disasters could get the essential health care they needed.

HISPANIC HERITAGE FOUNDATION
POWERED BY THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Established by the White House in 1988, the Hispanic Heritage Foundation (HHF) is an award-winning nonprofit that identifies, inspires, prepares and positions Latinx leaders in the classroom, community and workforce to meet America’s priorities.

In celebration of 35 years of Hispanic Heritage Month, The Coca-Cola Company and iHeartMedia collaborated to grant a $150,000 donation to the Hispanic Heritage Foundation in support of Latinx youth through year-round innovative programs focused on education, sustainability, technology and identity as well as the creation of a tool kit – titled LatinKnow – promoting Hispanic culture to be made available year-round.

Both iHeart and The Coca-Cola Company have a long history of celebrating Hispanic Heritage Month and the remarkable achievements and contributions of Hispanic and Latinx communities across our nation. This collaboration expanded both companies’ efforts by partnering with Hispanic Heritage Foundation to support Latinx youth.

Through the partnership, HHF is assembling 35 years of content, data and inspiration to promote Latinx culture and accomplishments, creating digital assets that will be used to educate and inspire communities about the impact of the Hispanic people on our country.

This comprehensive digital package will be shared with students, families, communities and the public and private sectors to ensure our diverse stories are told in our voices and through our lenses. We will add to the LatinKnow kit as our history is added on to in collaboration with other Hispanic-serving institutions, academic institutions and cultural institutions, among others. We are grateful to Coca-Cola and iHeartMedia for understanding that our history is American history, and we look forward to sharing, inspiring and informing all communities, including our own, about our impact.”

Research shows that music has the power to heal – it improves blood pressure, manages stress, alleviates pain and improves overall mood.

As the nation’s leading provider of live music in hospitals, Musicians On Call volunteers have performed for more than one million individuals in healthcare facilities nationwide. iHeart has a deep and long history supporting the work of Musicians on Call, and in 2022 expanded its partnership to include iHeartIMPACT.

Through their bedside, virtual and streaming programs, Musicians On Call seeks to continue to give patients and caregivers access to music that supports the healing process.

In 2022, iHeart teamed up with Edible – the world’s largest franchisor of fresh fruit arrangements and other sweet treats – for a partnership with Musicians On Call to bring a bit of cheer to the nearly 400 child patients at Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta. World-renowned recording artist Blanco Brown joined MOC in Children’s Seacrest Studios for a musical showcase, including his family dance tune “The Git Up.” Edible also provided gifts and treats to patients and staff at the hospital.

“We’re grateful to Children’s and our friends at iHeartMedia and Musicians On Call for working with us to bring smiles to these kids who are away from their families during the Thanksgiving timeframe.”

Students with a healthy balanced diet are more likely to have stronger immune systems, lower risk of diabetes and heart disease and live longer. A healthy diet is crucial for optimal learning because it can boost brain function and improve mood.

Following the White House Conference on Hunger, Nutrition and Health, iHeartIMPACT and Anthem Blue Cross expanded their multi-year partnership to combat food insecurity and improve health in marginalized communities by teaming up with non-profit Common Threads to provide hands-on culinary programming focused on food as medicine in under-resourced schools.

To support their ongoing commitment to the Los Angeles, New York, Indianapolis and Atlanta communities, iHeartMedia, Anthem, Inc. and Common Threads worked together to launch culturally responsive hands-on food as medicine programs for local students, helping to ensure that students and families not only have access to nutritious food but can also build the skills to prepare healthy meals that can help combat obesity and food-related chronic conditions or diseases. Additionally, elements of the curriculum included focusing on affordable and healthy ingredients; embedding culturally relevant content and teaching practices; increasing vegetable and fruit intake; emphasizing whole grains and lean protein; and reducing sugar intake – all elements that will ultimately increase knowledge and skill of cooking at home to utilize healthy foods that have been demonstrated to improve physical and mental health outcomes.

To mark the occasion, the partnership hosted a produce distribution event with Chicas Verdes and Food Forward, providing 250 families with bags of groceries of fresh produce. Joined by the WNBA’s Los Angeles Sparks, students were able to participate in a live cooking demonstration from Common Threads instructors and Anthem Blue Cross volunteers on how to create a healthy meal from the food provided.

We are thrilled to continue working with our community partners to address health-related social needs and promote health equity through access to nutritious foods here in Los Angeles. We know that lowering barriers and making it easier for individuals to access everyday items, like nutritious food, are some of the best ways to help people live healthier. We are doing that here today by helping build hands-on nutrition knowledge for students and families, which will help open paths towards health equity for future generations.”

Alzheimer’s is the most common form of dementia, causing problems with memory, thinking and behavior. The Alzheimer’s Association is leading the way to end Alzheimer’s and all other dementia by accelerating global research, driving risk reduction and early detection and maximizing quality care and support.

In partnership with Innovation Refunds, iHeartIMPACT sponsored the Inaugural Alzheimer’s Association Orange County Gala – InspirationALZ – an evening of music and appreciation, honoring inspiring local Alzheimer’s heroes. Proceeds from the gala helped fund critical Alzheimer’s Association programs and services supporting the national mission and the local Orange County community.

Additionally, the support from iHeart helped to provide a comprehensive continuum of direct services, care and support programs and helped fund several initiatives locally that will increase access to care and support.

“Philanthropy is doing something for the public good to improve other people’s lives. Sweet Relief Musicians Fund provides financial assistance to all types of career musicians and music industry workers who are struggling to make ends meet while facing physical or mental health issues, disability or age-related problems.

In March of 2020, Sweet Relief launched a COVID-19 Fund that granted emergency financial assistance to music industry professionals impacted by the pandemic. For the second year, iHeartIMPACT and Jack Daniels donated to the fund to help pay medical expenses, lodging, clothing, food and other vital living expenses to those impacted due to sickness or loss of work.

This was the second year of the partnership, in summer 2021, iHeartRadio hosted the 2021 Jack Daniel’s Battle of the Bar Bands, spanning nearly 50 cities and including thousands of artist entries ranging from rock, country, Hip Hop, folk, EDM and more. The national campaign, made possible by Jack Daniel’s, raised more than $50,000 to support Sweet Relief Musicians Fund.

“We are so incredibly grateful for the partnership with iHeartIMPACT. They approached us when our desperate music community was still reeling from the financial impact of the pandemic and enabled us to provide emergency financial relief to over 125 people. They worked with us to truly understand our mission, and their sincerity and willingness to help was evident every step of the way.”

Fatal residential fires disproportionately affect Black communities, where the risk of fire-related death is almost twice that of individuals of any other race. According to the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), the lack of access to fire safety educational resources and websites in popular languages spoken in the U.S. contributes to the gap in fire safety.

In response to these statistics, Kidde, an iHeart partner and a trusted leader in fire safety for more than 100 years, created “Cause For Alarm,” a fire safety awareness initiative addressing gaps in education and access to fire safety measures. The “Cause for Alarm” campaign strives to provide access to education on home safety basics, product placement guides, emergency plans and more. Through iHeartIMPACT, Kidde provided a $25,000 grant to Bronx Community Foundation, an organization that supports and invests in community power to eradicate inequity and build sustainable futures for all Bronx residents.

Kidde created “Cause For Alarm” in response to the statistic that fatal residential fires disproportionately affect some communities more than others. The IMPACT funding helped the Bronx Community Foundation to create long-term sustainability that will lead to a better and equitable community in the Bronx.

The iHeartIMPACT partnership was an extension of an already robust social impact campaign with Heart that included integrations on the nationally-syndicated “The Breakfast Club” morning show with on-air personalities DJ Envy, Angela Yee and Angie Martinez supporting the program; support for a live event which unveiled a mural by renowned New York City-based visual artist Cey Adams; and a national radio PSA program across all radio stations that discussed the socioeconomic factors that are among the best-known predictors of fire rates in neighborhoods and drove listeners to CauseForAlarm.com to access visual and multilingual fire safety resources.

Access is the cornerstone to fire safety, prevention and protection. Everyone deserves to feel safe and protected in their homes, yet some people are more at risk for fatal residential fires, and this is cause for alarm. Our new “Cause For Alarm” initiative was created to raise awareness of the importance of fire safety education and products in keeping all communities safe. Kidde wants to empower residents with fire safety awareness that can help keep them and their loved ones safe.

FISHER HOUSE FOUNDATION
POWERED BY NAVY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Fisher House Foundation builds and donates Fisher Houses at military and VA medical centers, where families stay completely free of charge while supporting their loved one receiving specialized medical care at military and VA medical centers around the world. Fisher House Foundation has been dedicated to our nation’s wounded, injured and ill service members and their families for more than 30 years.

Traveling to receive specialized medical care is expensive and can be a real financial burden for our military and veteran families. With no free, temporary lodging available for the families of patients, overnight accommodation at area hotels or with friends and family during treatment must be arranged. Some may choose not to receive treatment at all if family members are unable to be at their side.

For the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia, in partnership with Navy Federal Credit Union, provided a cash donation to Fisher House Foundation to further its mission of serving more than 400,000 military and veterans’ families with 10 million days of free lodging, part of $525 million in savings to families. On any given night, more than 1200 families are offered lodging in a Fisher House.

iHeartMedia has a decade-long relationship with Fisher House Foundation, both locally and nationally, and has supported their work with media donations. In 2022, Fisher House Foundation CEO Ken Fisher joined iHeart’s National Community Affairs program to discuss the organization’s work assisting military families and the upcoming 2022 Department of Defense Warrior Games.

“iHeartMedia and Navy Federal Credit Union and their members understand the mission of being there for our military service members, veterans and their families. We appreciate the support that directly impacts the lives of those we both serve and keeps military and veteran families together during medical crisis.”

The Youth Mental Health Project is a grassroots nonprofit organization whose mission is to educate, empower and support families and communities to better understand and care for the mental health of our youth.

In 2022, iHeart teamed up with Pediatric Associates to provide $60,000 in funding to The Youth Mental Health Project to help expand their mental health support programs to parents and caregivers both in Florida and nationally. The organization’s Parent Support Network provides caregivers who are concerned about their child’s struggles with stress, anxiety, depression or other mental health challenges with the opportunity to find guidance, resources and a sense of belonging among others who have similar experiences. This funding helped to establish an in-person Parent Support Network group in Florida and will provide Pediatric Associates medical care staff with the resources needed to aid caregivers in supporting youth mental health and wellbeing.

At Pediatric Associates, we work closely with the parents, grandparents and caregivers of our patients to give them the tools to keep the children healthy and safe at home. We feel incredibly connected to the Youth Mental Health Project’s mission of providing the same support, but in the mental health space. Especially at a time when so many children and teenagers are struggling in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic."

KIDS IN NEED FOUNDATION
POWERED BY PEDIATRIC ASSOCIATES

According to Kids In Need Foundation’s annual teacher survey, 90% of teachers said that at least three out of four students show up on the first day of school without the necessary supplies to learn. Because of this gap, many teachers spend two to three paychecks per year to ensure their students have what they need to learn. Kids In Need Foundation is a national nonprofit that strategically focuses its efforts on schools in the nation’s most underserved communities, those with a student enrollment of 70% or more eligible to receive free or reduced meals through the National School Lunch Program (NSLP).

Through iHeartIMPACT, Pediatric Associates donated $60,000 to Kids In Need Foundation, providing underserved schools with the supplies and resources needed for teachers to teach and students to learn. The donations helped support under-resourced teachers and their students with essential supplies they need for active learning including pens, pencils, markers and so much more. As part of the collaboration, volunteers from Pediatric Associates and their Texas affiliate, MD Medical, filled backpacks with these essential supplies to deliver to under-resourced students throughout the Dallas, Houston, Miami and Fort Lauderdale school districts.

When supplies are lacking, the quality of education is in jeopardy, and that affects future opportunities for children. Kids In Need Foundation is grateful to partners like Pediatric Associates and iHeartIMPACT who understand it’s more than just a backpack. School supplies and resources matter because they represent belonging and ownership of a student’s education and a teacher’s career. Resources empower underestimated students to recognize that they have choices, and to make choices for themselves and their futures.”

The mission of Capital Preparatory Schools is to provide historically disadvantaged students with the college and career readiness skills needed to become responsible and engaged citizens for social justice. Capital Preparatory Charter Schools is a boutique network of free, public charter schools that are actively working to close the achievement divide, ensuring that all students can do so by offering a rigorous college preparatory curriculum, an eclectic variety of athletic programs, project-based learning and multi-tiered faculty support.

Through iHeartIMPACT, REVOLT provided $25,000 to Capital Prep Charter Schools at their first annual ‘Battle for the Crest’ Homecoming football game at Central High School in Bridgeport, CT. The Capital Prep Network currently serves over 1,500 scholars and operates three schools across Connecticut and New York (Capital Prep Harlem, Capital Prep Bronx), ensuring that as many children as possible benefit from the rigor of a Capital Prep education and the life skills it provides to succeed in college and beyond. The $25,000 will support their Critical Academic Enrichment, which encompasses their afterschool and weekend programming.

The “Battle for the Crest” football game, a Capital Prep tradition, is a contest for bragging rights between Capital Prep Harlem and Capital Prep Harbor where the two teams cross state lines and battle it out on the gridiron for the ultimate prize, the giant Capital Prep Crest.

American Farmland Trust was founded in 1980 to save America’s farms and ranches. The Brighter Future Fund was launched in 2020 to assist farmers in successfully launching, growing and sustaining farms in the face of forces impacting the food and agricultural system, including the COVID-19 pandemic, changing markets, severe weather and climate change. The Fund was initially seeded with a generous contribution from Tillamook, one of America’s favorite farmer-owned co-ops.

Through iHeartIMPACT, Tillamook provided $25,000 to American Farmland Trust, providing grants to farmers through the Brighter Future Fund. A major commitment of this program is to uplift, support and amplify the work of a wide range of farmers. These grants will be used to help improve farm viability, enable farmers to access, transfer or permanently protect farmland, or adopt regenerative agricultural practices.

In 2022, the Brighter Future Fund has prioritized support for farmers identifying as BIPOC, LGBTQ+, female or new farmers. In total, over one million dollars will be awarded to farmers located across 44 states and the territory of Puerto Rico.

"This is incredible and will provide our farm with security that we currently don’t have, increased resilience in the face of climate change and opportunities that just were not reasonably available to us before. Wow! Thank you so much.”

PLAN INTERNATIONAL USA
POWERED BY iHEARTIMPACT

COVID-19 has only increased inequality around the world and has set the fight for equal rights back decades. Now more than ever, girls around the world need your support.

Plan International USA, a global nonprofit organization partnering with adolescent girls, young women and children around the world to overcome oppression and gender inequality, was a nonprofit partner for the 2022 Z100 Jingle Ball concert, which was held at New York City’s Madison Square Garden on Friday, December 9. As a part of the partnership, Plan International USA received a $15,000 grant from iHeartMedia, kicking off a collaborative partnership to amplify and advance the rights of girls and combat gender inequality.

Plan USA encourages girls between the ages of 13 and 18 to join the “We Are the Girls” campaign and invite their friends and families to take the pledge and lend their voices as allies in the fight against gender inequality and gender-based stereotypes. The “We Are the Girls” campaign supports programs that have shown success in improving girls’ sense of agency, shifting gender dynamics and creating positive environments for learning. In 13 countries including the U.S., “We Are the Girls” donations support girl-led programs that fight against child trafficking and child marriage, make cities safer for girls, keep girls in school and create economic opportunities for girls. Plan’s campaign will also develop young leaders and advocates to fight against stereotypes and harmful practices that stand in the way of achieving gender equality.

Z100’s Sam Rosalie, a Plan International USA Ambassador, announced the grant and the partnership during the “Elvis Duran and The Morning Show.” The grant supported Plan International USA’s “We Are the Girls” campaign — an innovative, world changing initiative that will raise $200 million by 2024 to amplify the voices of girls in the U.S. and around the world and fight the root causes of gender inequality.

As a part of the partnership, Plan International USA and Z100 launched an online “We Are the Girls” Jingle Ball prize pack sweepstakes contest. Winners received access to VIP pre-event activities, tickets to the sold-out Z100 Jingle Ball concert and a special Plan International USA experience. Moreover, at the concert, 16 contest winners had the opportunity to interact with their favorite iHeartRadio on-air personalities and meet their favorite music artists.

One in five Americans provide care to family members or loved ones, a task that’s inherently connected with physical pain. With many caregivers also dealing with the added challenges of experiencing joint pain, iHeartIMPACT teamed up with Voltaren Arthritis Pain Gel and actress and caregiver Jennie Garth for the launch of CareWalks, a video and audio series that sheds light on caregivers’ stories.

As an extension of this initiative, the brand partnered with iHeart to make a charitable donation to Volunteers of America, a nonprofit organization committed to aiding caregivers across the country. At iHeartMedia, we are committed to using the power of our local assets to give back to our communities and assist the organizations that help our neighbors in need. iHeartMedia’s radiothon program has leveraged the company’s unparalleled reach and local influence to raise hundreds of millions of dollars for charitable organizations over the last decade. A radiothon typically lasts between one and two days, during which stations press pause on their day-to-day programming to dedicate all attention and resources to the issue being addressed.

Through its many local radiothon programs, iHeartMedia is one of the biggest supporters of The Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals and St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital. In addition, many iHeartMedia radio stations have established annual radiothon programs to address local, critical issues, ranging from childhood diseases and homelessness to domestic violence, veteran wellbeing and mental health.

And for more than a decade, KFI AM 640’s PastaThon has raised over $5.7 million and 727,000 pounds of food for Caterina’s Club, which to date has provided more than 7 million meals to kids and those in need in Southern California.

iHeartMedia helps Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals’ main media partners and gives support through its many local programs.

Funds provide critical life-saving treatments and healthcare services, along with innovative research, vital pediatric medical equipment, child life services that put kids’ and families’ minds at ease during difficult hospital stays and financial assistance for families who could not otherwise afford these health services. Philanthropy is vital to children’s hospitals that frequently do not have other streams of unrestricted funds.

It’s estimated that up to 50% of people who end up in a children’s hospital did not expect it when waking up that day. Yet every day, thousands of kids enter member children’s hospitals for care. Member hospitals support children's health in a wide variety of ways with 70% of hospitals addressing overall social determinants of health, including economic stability, accessibility and food security.

• 100% offer programs and/or services to foster financial stability for patients and families when receiving care.
• 75% offer school-based care programs.
• 63% offer food insecurity services as part of broader hospitals and health system efforts.

iHeartMedia is one of Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals’ main media partners and gives support through its many local programs. Driven by a common desire to ensure a better future, as partners we are committed to doing all that we can to keep children safe and spirits unbroken.

ST. JUDE CHILDREN’S RESEARCH HOSPITAL

iHeartMedia has partnered with St. Jude for over 30 years, most notably through its radiothon programs which have raised an incredible $157 million in pledges for St. Jude.

St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital is leading the way the world understands, treats and defeats childhood cancer and other life-threatening diseases. Their purpose is clear: Finding cures. Saving children. As the only National Cancer Institute-designated Comprehensive Cancer Center devoted solely to children, treatments invented at St. Jude have helped push the overall childhood cancer survival rate from 20% to 80% since the hospital opened in 1962.

CAUSE IMPACT

$12.4M raised through 61 stations

$21.8M total raised by Bobby Bones in eight years

+1M raised at K102 Minneapolis for eighth year in a row

By freely sharing discoveries, every child saved at St. Jude means doctors and scientists worldwide can use that knowledge to save thousands more children. Families never receive a bill from St. Jude for treatment, travel, housing or food — so they can focus on helping their child live. Unlike other hospitals, the majority of funding for St. Jude comes from generous donors.

iHeartMedia supports the work of St. Jude by utilizing its broad reach and national footprint with two-day radiothon events bringing the St. Jude message to communities across the country.

In 2022/2023, 61 iHeartMedia radio stations aired annual radiothons raising more than $12.4 million to help support the lifesaving mission of St. Jude.

Nationally-recognized iHeart syndicated personality Bobby Bones continues to be a champion for St. Jude, raising more than $21.8 million since he began supporting St. Jude and bringing in more than 4,000 new pledges through his audio event in December.

iHeartMedia’s partnership with St. Jude has helped push the overall childhood cancer survival rate from 20% to 80% since the hospital opened in 1962.

CATERINA’S CLUB
CaterinasClub.org
Caterina’s Club’s mission is to provide warm meals, affordable housing assistance and job training to homeless and low-income families throughout Southern California. It all started in 2005, when the owner of the exclusive Anaheim White House Restaurant Chef Bruno Serato and his mother Caterina were visiting a local Boys & Girls Club and noticed a 6-year-old boy eating potato chips for dinner. What started as feeding a few dozen children every night that year grew into the ‘Feeding the Kids in America’ program, which provides meals to more than 25,000 kids every week in 30 cities across Southern California. In addition, the charity’s ‘Welcome Home’ program has provided permanent housing for 240 families and more than 670 teenagers have been trained through the Caterina’s Club Hospitality Academy program at local high schools. The Caterina’s Club vision is to break the cycle of poverty and to provide to every child the resources, love and encouragement they need to be healthy, safe and educated.

ABOUT KFI PASTATHON

According to the USDA, more than 34 million people in the United States, including nine million children, are food insecure. In the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, unemployment and food insecurity soared; in 2021, 53 million people turned to food banks and community programs for help putting food on the table.

2022 marked KFI-AM 640’s 12th Annual KFI PastaThon, an on-air fundraising event in partnership with Caterina’s Club to help feed local children in need in Southern California. The annual KFI PastaThon raised a record $1,213,683 and 47,718 pounds of pasta and sauce to help children and families in the local community.

The annual KFI PastaThon encourages listeners to donate money, pasta and sauce to benefit Caterina’s Club, a local charity founded by award-winning Chef Bruno Serato of the Anaheim White House, which provides more than 25,000 nutritious meals every week to children in need across Southern California. In addition, the charity helps to break the cycle of poverty by helping families return to stable home environments and teaches teens the skills they need to work in the hospitality industry.

Through on-air, on-line and digital fundraising elements, all KFI AM 640 on-air personalities, including Bill Handel, Jennifer Jones Lee, Gary Hoffmann, Shannon Farren, John Kobylt, Ken Champoou, Mo Kelly and Tim Conway Jr., encouraged listeners to donate money along with pasta and pasta sauce to help feed underprivileged children who live in motels without access to a kitchen.

Since 2010, KFI PastaThon has raised more than $5.7 million and 727,000 pounds of pasta and sauce to feed thousands of children in Southern California and help end the cycle of poverty. Caterina’s Club serves 5,000 pasta dinners five days a week in more than 90 locations in 30 cities in Orange, L.A., San Diego and Riverside counties, with more than seven million meals served to date. The organization’s work has extended far beyond the local California area to include Chicago, New York, Texas, Mexico and Italy.

The KFI PastaThon is a full station and community effort, and the biggest heroes are our listeners and partners. With the economic struggles of many over the past two years, we are thrilled that every year we continue to reach new highs. Our listeners’ and partner’s donations have resulted in more meals and help for families in need, to break the cycle of poverty permanently. On behalf of the entire KFI team, we thank the community for their remarkable generosity.”

BENEFITTING ANN & ROBERT H. LURIE CHILDREN’S HOSPITAL OF CHICAGO

iHeartMedia Chicago raised $735,000 during the 13-hour annual “Lurie Children’s Radiothon” in support of the patients and families at Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children’s Hospital of Chicago.

Lurie Children’s is one of the top children’s hospitals in the nation, providing pediatric care, cutting-edge treatments and advanced research. As a non-profit medical center, it relies on an engaged and supportive community to elevate the standard of medical care for more children, create innovative programs, accelerate cutting edge research discoveries and work with community partners to make Chicago’s neighborhoods safer for children.

The “Lurie Children’s Radiothon” was broadcast live on Thursday, December 8 on 93.9 Lite FM, Rock 95.9 KVE, 107.3 WGGG, 103.5 KISS FM, V103 and Inspiration 1390 from 6 a.m. – 7 p.m. iHeartMedia Chicago’s on-air personalities encouraged listeners to call or donate online to help fuel research, support families and provide much-needed care to children in the community. Additionally, iHeartMedia Chicago and Lurie Children’s partnered with businesses in the Chicagoland community to support the radiothon.

The Radiothon has become a Lurie Children’s tradition, and we are so pleased to be able to share the stories of some of our amazing patients as well as our dedicated providers. iHeartMedia Chicago and all their listeners help us create healthier futures for children in Chicago and beyond.”

ABOUT

ANN & ROBERT H. LURIE CHILDREN’S HOSPITAL OF CHICAGO

LurieChildrens.org

In the 2022-2023 U.S. News & World Report rankings of the best children’s hospitals, Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children’s Hospital of Chicago continues to be the top pediatric hospital in Illinois, ranked in all 10 specialties. Lurie Children’s provides superior pediatric care in a state-of-the-art hospital that offers the latest benefits and innovations in medical technology, family-friendly design and research through the Stanley Manne Children’s Research Institute. The main hospital is located in downtown Chicago on the campus of its academic partner, Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. Lurie Children’s has a network of 15 outpatient centers and 15 partner hospitals, providing top pediatric care across the greater Chicago area. As a nonprofit hospital, Lurie Children’s relies on philanthropic support to care for more than 223,000 children each year.
The Warrior Foundation Freedom Station (WFFS) is a volunteer-based organization that helps wounded vets recover both physically and mentally from service injuries. The funds raised were used to purchase plane tickets for injured warriors so they could spend the holidays at home and with their families. For the past nine years, the program has raised over $7 million to benefit the Warrior Foundation Freedom Station and has grown into an annual fundraising effort that reunites families during the holidays, and helps warriors face the challenges of recovery, rehabilitation and transition from military service to civilian life all year long.

For the ninth consecutive year, Jack Armstrong & Joe Getty hosted the live, on-air fundraiser benefiting Warrior Foundation Freedom Station, with the goal of providing funds to help reunite injured military service members with their families for the holidays. The organization also supports warriors by providing transitional housing used during both recovery and transition processes. Since 2013, “The Armstrong & Getty Show” has helped raise more than $7 million for Warrior Foundation Freedom Station (WFFS).

The week-long Armstrong & Getty Radiothon benefiting Warrior Foundation Freedom Station kicked off on November 8, 2022 and wrapped up on Veterans Day. During their daily broadcasts, on-air personalities Jack Armstrong and Joe Getty encouraged listeners to donate to help injured warriors return home. By the end of the week, Armstrong & Getty listeners had donated more than $820,000 for WFFS.

Warrior Foundation Freedom Station (WFFS) is an amazing and efficient organization. We like to focus on the positive, but the truth is, there are so many sad and heartbreaking stories involving injured service members who’ve fallen into despair, loneliness, drug addiction or homelessness. Over the years, WFFS has helped so many service members avoid those outcomes by bringing the military brotherhood and sisterhood back into their lives and bringing back that feeling of excitement for their future. WFFS is changing lives every single day.”

Local Radiothons
In addition to airing millions of PSAs every year that address a number of national and local issues, iHeartMedia radio stations across America dedicate airtime every week to ensure they are informing the public about the most relevant issues facing their particular communities. iHeartMedia radio stations produce and air weekly 30-minute radio shows to address unique community interests and to connect community members to one another and to world issues. Each show takes a deep dive into important topics, ranging from health and wellness to foreign and domestic policies and local legislation, and features a variety of live interviews from top authorities in the related fields.

Each 30-minute show, hosted by a local on-air personality, is designed to be an unbiased public forum for community leaders and experts in specific fields to openly discuss the many sides of key issues. iHeartMedia relies heavily on its listeners, its nonprofit partners and its Local Advisory Boards to identify the most relevant issues to discuss each week.

22,700+ HOURS OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS PROGRAMMING WERE AIRED BY iHEARTMEDIA IN 2022 ACROSS MORE THAN 860 RADIO STATIONS NATIONWIDE
In addition to the locally produced weekend public affairs shows designed to inform the public about the most relevant issues facing their communities, in 2022 iHeart launched two weekly national public affairs specials – “iHeartRadio Communities” and “Estamos Contigo” – to address the national pandemic crisis affecting the entire country and to connect community members to one another and to world issues.

Now in its third year, the show was initially created to provide a national platform and voice for the world’s top health experts, government leaders and nonprofit organizations as they openly discussed important topics around the COVID-19 pandemic and social justice efforts. Once focused on the COVID pandemic, both programs have evolved to include a robust platform of topics and issues that resonate with iHeartMedia audiences throughout the U.S.

The weekly shows are hosted by iHeartRadio on-air personality Ryan Gorman in English and WHYI’s Claudia Mendoza in Spanish and air on select stations nationally and are made available weekly on iHeartRadio.

Some of the most relevant guests and topics of 2022 included:

iHeart uses its network of podcasts to help raise awareness for a range of causes while sparking conversation and activism on some of the most critical issues our communities are facing. The growing popularity and success of podcasts have allowed iHeart to create a positive impact on the world through the power of audio by using our multiple platforms and diverse content to connect people through companionship, compelling storytelling and service to our communities.

For the last several years, iHeart has pledged that 50% of the new podcasts the company launches on the iHeartPodcast Network would be from female and diverse creators, and today that number is close to 70%. This means partnering with the best and brightest creators to support their vision in podcasting, whether it’s shows they host themselves or giving them a platform to discover and launch new talent.

Additionally, iHeart launched new podcast networks, including The Black Effect Podcast Network, majority-owned by leading media personality Charlamagne tha God of iHeart’s Power 105.1 and the nationally syndicated The Breakfast Club. The Black Effect Podcast Network is the world’s largest podcast publisher dedicated to Black listeners, bringing together the most influential and trusted voices in Black culture for stimulating conversations around social justice, pop culture, sports, mental health, news, comedy and more.

iHeart is also the leader in Hispanic podcast programming. In 2021, the company launched ‘My Cultura,’ dedicated to elevating Latino voices and creators and sharing the Latinx experience with millions of listeners, in partnership with Enrique Santos, iHeartMedia’s top-rated on-air personality and President and Chief Creative Officer of HeartLatino. The company also has an exclusive distribution and sales deal with Revolver, the biggest Latinx podcast network in the country.

Additionally, iHeart partnered with Seneca Women Podcast Network, a new podcast network to connect and amplify women’s voices worldwide, to coproduce and distribute a slate of high quality, women-focused podcasts in the areas of women in business, leadership, current events, health and more.

The following pages include a spotlight of just a few of iHeart’s most impactful cause-related podcasts that focused on the following critical issues in 2022: Health & Wellness, Environment, Race and Equality, Social Justice, Mental Health, Women and Girls, LGBTQIA+, Citizenship, Kindness and Civic Engagement.
In 2020, iHeartMedia and Charlamagne tha God, co-host of iHeartRadio’s nationally syndicated Hip Hop radio show, ‘The Breakfast Club’, launched a historic joint venture partnership: The Black Effect Podcast Network. The Black Effect Podcast Network is the world’s largest podcast publisher dedicated to Black listeners, bringing together the most influential and trusted voices in Black culture for stimulating conversations around social justice, pop culture, sports, mental health, news, comedy and more.

The Black Effect Podcast Network has emerged as the leading platform for Black creators to raise their voices and be heard in the podcast space and gives rise to emerging and established content creators and storytellers whose perspective and creative vision have been marginalized and overlooked while serving an audience that has been underserved. The Black Effect Podcast Network helps its partners define their place in podcast culture through influence, ideas and experiences that engage, inspire, inform and empower.

Launched in September 2020, the Network has since debuted 32 shows, featuring a luminous roster of marquee talent and culture-shifting voices committed to enlightening, educating and entertaining audiences, curated by Charlamagne tha God himself.

THE BLACK EFFECT PODCAST NETWORK
‘MY CULTURA’ PODCAST NETWORK

In May 2021, iHeart launched ‘My Cultura,’ the company’s podcast network dedicated to elevating Latinx voices and stories, in partnership with Enrique Santos, iHeartMedia’s top-rated on-air personality and President and Chief Creative Officer of iHeartLatino.

The My Cultura Podcast Network is home to hit podcasts including “Connections with Eva Longoria,” “Princess of South Beach” starring Rachel Zegler (West Side Story) and Sheryl Rubio (Casa de las Flores), “Wrestling with Freddie” with Freddie Prinze, Jr., “Sisters of the Underground,” executive produced by Eva Longoria and Dania Ramirez, “Chiquis and Chik,” “Escuela Secreta,” “Enrique Santos Podcast” and many more.

In 2022, the network celebrated a successful first year, with monthly podcast downloads across My Cultura shows more than doubling since the beginning of the year. The network’s dedication to inclusive content has garnered a large audience of both Gen Z and Millennials and the network has also circulated funds back into Latinx communities with donations to various organizations totaling over $400,000 in its first year.

THE SENECA WOMEN PODCAST NETWORK
WOMEN’S EMPOWERMENT

In 2020, Seneca Women Podcast Network and iHeartMedia announced the launch of a multi-year partnership to co-produce and distribute a slate of high-quality, women-focused podcasts in the areas of women in business, leadership, current events, health and more, providing inspiring, purpose-driven and actionable content from a diverse range of women’s voices.

Season one of “Seneca Women Conversations on Power and Purpose” featured thought-provoking discussions from Seneca Women Forums at the Metropolitan Museum of Art with leaders including Andrea Jung, CEO of Coca-Cola; James Quincey, Nobel Peace Prize laureate Muhammad Yunus; Chelsea Clinton; and Valerie Jarrett, former advisor to President Barack Obama, among others.

The Seneca Women Podcast Network builds on Seneca Women’s thought leadership and its founders’ decades of experience in advancing women around the globe. It focuses on a diverse range of topics that showcase positive role models, practical insights and shared learnings, while providing a platform for the voices of established and emerging women leaders as well as organizations making a difference for women and girls.

THE PODCAST SERIES INCLUDES:

100 WOMEN TO HEAR: "Seneca’s 100 Women to Hear" is a podcast brought to you by the Seneca Women’s Podcast Network and iHeartRadio in partnership with P&G. Over the course of 100 episodes listeners hear from women who broke barriers, changed history and are building bridges across political divides and provide insight into not just what they accomplished but how they think about the world.

HERE’S SOMETHING GOOD: Each day this show aspires to bring listeners the good news. “Here’s Something Good” is a short daily podcast that offers inspiring stories, helpful tips and shared experiences to motivate and inspire listeners each day.

MADE BY WOMEN: “Made By Women” is a new weekly show from the Seneca Women Podcast Network and iHeartRadio. At a moment when businesses face some of the biggest challenges in recent history, this podcast provides inspiring stories, practical insights and shared learnings from women builders. Listeners hear from the experiences of legendary entrepreneurs, fierce up-and-comers and women leaders who are changing the trajectory of business.
iHeart teamed up with Seneca Women, a global women’s leadership platform, for the first-ever Seneca Women Podcast Academy, a program designed to help amplify the voices of women in podcasting. The inaugural class consisted of 10 winners from iHeartMedia’s nationwide initiative, “Seneca Women to Hear: The Search For the Next Great Female Podcasters,” which set out to find the next breakout female podcast stars. The Seneca Women Podcast Academy helped the winning women develop and launch their own shows on the Seneca Women Podcast Network, distributed by iHeartMedia.

The six-week intensive program kicked off in May and included one lecture per week with direct access to industry-leading mentors, all women who are at the top of their respective fields in podcasting. The workshops were led by established podcast hosts, producers and executives, allowing the winners to gain valuable information about all aspects of the podcast business including development, sound engineering, distribution, marketing, sales and overall operations. Creators also received a stipend and top-of-the-line audio equipment to produce episodes of their shows, which will all become part of the Seneca Women Podcast Network.

Seneca Women Podcast Academy mentors included Jo Piazza, award-winning journalist and host of shows like “Under the Influence” and “Committed”, Bridget Todd, activist, podcast host of “There Are No Girls On The Internet” and CEO of Unbossed Creative, a mission-driven creative studio that makes podcasts and other digital content to push the needle on social change and public good; and Dana Schwartz, a writer, author and journalist who hosts the popular podcast “Noble Blood,” among others.

The eclectic mix of winning show ideas ranged from comedic and personal to topical and informative on subjects like health, finance and social justice issues.

In 2022, iHeartMedia announced the first slate of podcasts from the company’s NextUp Initiative. NextUp aims to empower participants of all backgrounds by giving them the tools to succeed in the podcast industry, from developing and producing to using industry-leading software. The NextUp Initiative has been launched from some of iHeartMedia’s top creators and has developed shows centered around their unique voices.

The first podcast in the slate, “Beauty Translated,” debuted in June. Hosted by Carmen Laurent, the show focuses on the transgender community in the South and touched on their experiences with coming out, launching careers, and family life. Laurent, a professional skin therapist, lifetime podcast fan and trans woman, created a safe and open space for her guests to share experiences about their lives and share personal stories around their journey with gender transition, providing support to those going through their own experiences.

CARMEN LAURENT
PROFESSIONAL SKIN THERAPIST

As a transgender woman, it’s very important to me that my community’s stories are shared,” says Laurent. “The NextUp Initiative has given me the tools and platform to do just that, and it’s been so inspiring to learn from industry-leading experts in the podcasting world to create a show that really amplifies our voices.”

Beauty Translated: hosted by Carmen Laurent, trans woman and professional skin therapist, “Beauty Translated” is a podcast made by trans people for trans people. Carmen sheds light on the trans experience in the Southeast United States—an area that has little trans visibility—and covers topics around gender transition to educate listeners. Additionally, listeners will hear featured guests open up about their lives and share personal stories.

PARTITION: Inspired by her first trip back home to Pakistan in 2017, Pakistani-American writer Neha Aitzaz examines the 1947 Partition of India and the formation of Pakistan in this historical podcast. When Britain decided it could no longer afford to control India, it granted the country independence and announced that a new country would also be formed—Pakistan. This severed the country in such a way that friends and neighbors became enemies and murderers. With this year marking the 75th anniversary, Neha brings this important story to the masses—combining robust reporting with anecdotes and commentary from her research around the Partition.

ON CALL WITH KAY-B: On Call with Kay-B will introduce listeners in an audible journey around the medical TV shows that have been a staple in the entertainment industry for decades. These shows have drawn in audiences with not only their steamy romances and on-screen friendships, but the most over-the-top medical cases known to man. Kay-B, both a veteran entertainment journalist and podcaster, as well as a trained scientist, uses her unique experience to give listeners a cultural and scientific experience. A wide variety of guests—from talent, creatives and medical consultants behind the shows to real-life scientists and medical professionals working in the field—will be featured on the show.

WHEN YOU’RE INVISIBLE: When You’re Invisible is a love letter to the working class and people who have largely been excluded in society. The podcast spotlights the different experiences of these “invisible” people—many of whom are being interviewed for the first time in their life. Actor and creator Maria Fernanda Diez draws from her experience as a first-generation American born to Mexican parents, who went from living off food stamps to rising to the middle-middle class and announced that a new country would also be formed—Pakistan. This severed the country in such a way that friends and neighbors became enemies and murderers. With this year marking the 75th anniversary, Neha brings this important story to the masses—combining robust reporting with anecdotes and commentary from her research around the Partition.

The iHeartPodcast Network regularly develops and launches LGBTQIA+ podcasts covering news, leading voices, engaging interviews and the stories of Pride.

SOME OF THE TOP LGBTQIA+ SHOWS OF 2022 INCLUDED

LAS CULTURISTAS
“Las Culturistas” features culture consultants Matt Rogers and Bowen Yang going on an unforgettable journey into the beating heart of culture. Alongside sizzling special guests, they explore the hottest pop-culture moments of the day and the formative cultural experiences that turned them into Culturistas.

THE LAVERNE COX SHOW
Each week, The Laverne Cox Show features intimate conversations with folks who have helped her see and think differently so that she can act differently. With the show, Cox cultivates a place that fosters perspectives that might inspire new behavior in each of us, which in turn gets us closer to becoming the very best versions of ourselves.

LIKE A VIRGIN
A pop culture podcast with a mix of news, cultural criticism and comedy through a queer-trans lens, hosted by Fran Tirado and Rose Dommu. Each week, the show starts off with a breakdown of the week’s pop culture news, then does a deep dive into one cultural object that one of them might be experiencing for the first time. They also invite writers, comedians, activists and entertainers to help them break it down.

BEAUTY TRANSLATED
Hosted by Carmen LaLaert, a trans woman and professional skin therapist, “Beauty Translated” is a podcast made by trans people for trans people. Carmen sheds light on the trans experience in the Southeast United States—an area that has little trans visibility—and covers topics around gender transition to educate listeners. Additionally, featured guests open up about their lives and share personal stories around their journey with gender transition, providing support to those going through their own experiences.

LAUGH & LEARN
The ‘Laugh & Learn’ Podcast allows comedian Flame Monroe to deliver teachable moments, thought provoking perspectives and a satisfying dose of fun and intellect to listeners every week. Through humor, wit and heartfelt conversations, Flame Monroe aims to bring content that will entertain, enlighten, encourage self-confidence and bring an amusing joy full of laughter and inspiration influenced by the art of learning.

CUMBIA
Cumbia is an audio memoir exploring the intersection of identity, family trauma, addiction and the pursuit of love. A story that is wholly unique yet completely universal through a raw and introspective look at Emmy Olea’s romantic relationships and the unbelievable childhood that shaped them.

SVETLANA! SVETLANA!
In 1967, Joseph Stalin’s daughter braved her way over the Iron Curtain, secret memoir in tow, and landed in America as the Cold War’s most famous defector. At 40 years old, Svetlana had left everything behind for a new life in the West and the chance to finally share her story. What she found instead — a controversial commune in the Arizona desert built by Frank Lloyd Wright, a whirlwind marriage dictated by destiny and a Montenegrin matriarch with dreams of immortality — was far more complicated. In “Svetlana! Svetlana!” neurotic playwright Dan Kitrosser unravels the weird and wild life of his greatest muse.

SUPER SECRET BESTIE CLUB
Join IRL besties Curly Velasquez and Maya Murillo as they discuss super-secret topics (not that secret) like, love, men, horoscopes and normalizing crying on the bathroom floor.

BFF: BLACK, FAT, FEMME
Featuring the voices of two of the leading queer, fat and Black changemakers, the “BFF” podcast examines what it means to live oneself unapologetically in a world where loving oneself often feels impossible. The podcast is hosted by Dr. Jonathan P. Higgins, an educator, national speaker, journalist, thought leader and media critic, and Jordan Daniels, a queer Afro-Jew writer and photographer, who bring their combined passion of identity and race to discuss important topics around belonging and self-love.
HeartMedia stands against racism and injustice, and the iHeartPodcast Network offers an open forum to explore topics such as race, equality and social justice. Here are just a few of iHeart's most popular podcasts addressing these critical issues:

HOW TO CITIZEN WITH BARATUNDE THURSTON
In his podcast, Baratunde Thurston reimagines the word “citizen” as a verb and reminds us how to wield our collective power. Listeners learn new perspectives and practices from people working to improve society for the many as writer, activist and comedian Baratunde goes on a journey beyond politics as usual that will leave listeners more hopeful, connected and moved to act.

WHEN YOU’RE INVISIBLE
When You’re Invisible is a love letter to the working class and people who have largely been excluded in society. The podcast spotlights the different experiences of those “invisible” people—many of whom are being interviewed for the first time in their life. Actor and creator Maria Fernanda Diez draws from her experience as a first generation American born to Mexican parents, who went from living off food stamps to rising to the middle-middle class and achieving the “American Dream,” to welcome and reflect on each guest’s life experiences. Listeners dive into (at times) unbelievable, yet true stories from working-class folks, nannies, immigrants, houseless folks, healthcare workers and more.

THERE ARE NO GIRLS ON THE INTERNET
Marginalized voices have always been at the forefront of the internet, yet their stories often go overlooked. Bridget Todd chronicles their experiences online, and the ways marginalized voices have shaped the internet from the very beginning. We need monuments to all of the identities that make being online what it is. So let’s build them.

WRONGFUL CONVICTION
Hosted by celebrated criminal justice reform advocate and founding board member of the Innocence Project Jason Flom and Pulitzer prize-winning podcast host and producer Maggie Freleng, Wrongful Conviction features intimate conversations with men and women who have spent years in prison for crimes they maintain they did not commit. Some have been fully exonerated and reunited with family and friends while others continue to languish, with some even facing execution on death row. Each episode peels back the layers behind the stories of those who have found themselves caught in a legal system gone wrong, with illuminating insights from lawyers and leading experts sharing their in-depth knowledge about each case. This gripping series reveals the tragedy of injustice…as well as the triumph that is possible when people step up and demand change.

WAITING ON REPARATIONS
Waiting on Reparations is a show about Hip Hop and politics. Hosts Dope Knife, a rapper and visual artist, and Lingua Franqua, Hip Hop artist and politician, explore the history of public policy and its impacts on Hip Hop life; what Hip Hop culture tells us about our political reality, and the role of Hip Hop in shaping our political future.
Mental Health

As mental health continues to be a major focus of iHeart’s community efforts, the iHeartPodcast Network has been expanding its catalog of mental health podcasts with many of the shows covering important areas like grief, anxiety, depression, addiction, trauma and a variety of other issues affecting listeners or their loved ones. Many of the shows provide practical strategies for taking care of your well-being and afford listeners the opportunity to learn from renowned psychologists, authors, lecturers and everyday people.

Therapy for Black Girls
The Therapy for Black Girls podcast is a weekly conversation with Dr. Joy Harden Bradford, a licensed psychologist in Atlanta, Georgia, about all things mental health and personal development, and all the small decisions we can make to become the best possible version of ourselves.

Dear Therapists
Each week on DEAR THERAPISTS, hosts and therapists Lori Gottlieb, author of Maybe You Should Talk To Someone, and Guy Winch, author of Emotional First Aid, invite listeners to be a fly-on-the-wall in personal, raw, transformative sessions with everyday people and then hear what happens when they give concrete, actionable advice and have them report back to let them know how things went after the session ended. The hosts open their practice to the public because they believe that everyone can benefit from hearing how people just like them get through their struggles and grow and change.

Navigating Narcissism
In this groundbreaking series, clinical psychologist and world’s leading expert on narcissism Dr. Ramani Durvasula talks to survivors and experts to help millions left reeling from narcissistic abuse. The powerful, transformative conversations on “Navigating Narcissism” break down classic narcissistic patterns like manipulation, control, gaslighting and love bombing and help unpack feelings of betrayal, shame, confusion and pain.

Red Table Talk
Jada Pinkett-Smith, her daughter Willow Smith and mother Adrienne Banfield-Norris open their home for a series of groundbreaking and healing conversations at their now-iconic red table. Red Table Talk, a Facebook Watch Original, brings together three generations of women to tackle the most provocative topics of today, from race and sexuality to infidelity and addiction. No topic is off limits. Take a seat at the table by listening to the Red Table Talk podcast.

The R Spot
Each week, New York Times best-selling author and famed spiritual life coach Iyanla Vanzant invites callers to share their personal relationship issues during live sessions to help inspire, grow and guide them and other listeners to “do the work” toward healing.

The One You Feed
When host Eric Zimmer was 24 years old, he was homeless and addicted to heroin. He made his way through addiction recovery and figured out how to build a life worth living. Now he pays it forward by helping people to feed their good wolf, a metaphor stemming from an old parable about the two wolves, good and bad, living inside us all.

Anxiety Bites
Comedian Jen Kirkman has had lifelong Panic and Generalized Anxiety Disorder. Now in her late forties, she’s bringing life lessons, humor and hope to a show that’s about normalizing having anxiety so that we go from dramatically whispering, “I have anxiety,” to saying out loud with a shrug, “Yeah, I have anxiety.” Jen interviews experts with anxiety, be they PhDs, creatives or spiritual gurus, for advice on how to self-diagnose and begin to treat and live easily with everyday anxiety and panic.

The Happiness Formula
Dr. Barry Schwartz, best-selling author of “The Paradox of Choice” and “Why We Work”, returns to help you tackle the biggest decisions of your life. Through this masterful course, listeners will discover that practical wisdom is the key to happiness. Dr. Schwartz goes one step further, suggesting what is true of work is also true of love. This show gives listeners the wisdom they need to become a better worker, manager, friend, romantic partner and parent today.
Every year, local communities in which iHeartMedia employees live and work are impacted by unexpected community crises, as well as the domestic effects of global turmoil, natural disasters and terrorism. From gun violence and mental health disorders to racial tension, suicide and acts of terrorism in communities across the U.S., iHeartMedia stations are always prepared to respond immediately.

iHeartMedia employees rally their communities and provide essential services that often save lives. iHeart’s dedicated employees are regularly on the front lines of these crises and serve as a helping hand and a calming voice during moments of chaos, always keeping their communities supported and informed.
During times of crisis, iHeartMedia is essential to the lives of local residents in communities across America. Our broadcast and digital platforms often serve as the sole information sources for disrupted areas — providing local news and critical information on everything from storm updates and evacuation routes to food banks, rescue and medical care. Because emergency broadcasting is an important element of iHeartMedia’s role in local communities, we have implemented a significant "Disaster Assistance and Response Plan," which includes reserves of radio transmitters, emergency power generators and other news-gathering equipment positioned in locations around the country ready to travel — before, during and after disaster strikes — to impacted communities as needed. This ensures that we can stay on the air, delivering critical news, updates and information to impacted areas during the most damaging hurricanes and other natural disasters. We are dedicated to continually improving our innovative procedures around disaster response efforts to enable our stations to be ready to react at all times, and to continue to serve the listeners and communities that depend on us.

DISASTER ASSISTANCE & RESPONSE PLAN
iHeartMedia has forged a deep and ongoing partnership with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), which recognizes that in times of emergency, there is no more reliable source of information than local radio broadcasters. Pursuant to the federal “SANDy Act,” which helps ensure the resiliency of the nation’s communications networks during emergencies, iHeartMedia is recognized as an essential service provider and must be afforded access to disaster sites to restore and repair essential services in an emergency or major disaster. By giving broadcast radio stations official status during emergencies, the SANDy Act places iHeartMedia radio stations among a statutorily-select group of “essential service providers” — also known as “First Informers” — for public safety purposes. This statute recognizes the unique and essential role of radio stations in providing critical and often lifesaving information before, during and after man-made and natural disasters. The iHeartMedia Technical Operations Center (iTOC) and its Emergency Response Team — made up of more than 300 iHeartMedia engineers and team members — monitors operations and coordinates emergency planning and response for the company’s 860+ radio stations across the U.S. to ensure that our local communities can be served even under the most dire circumstances.

FIRST INFORMERS: IHEARTMEDIA EMERGENCY RESPONSE TEAM
LOCAL & NATIONWIDE EMERGENCY ALERT & WARNING CAPABILITIES

iHeartMedia and FEMA continually partner to improve local and nationwide alert and warning capabilities that are critical when disasters threaten public safety and national security.

AM broadcast radio stations are beacons of information for the public and are often the most listened-to stations for news and information, especially during emergencies. Class A AM stations operate at higher power levels and with FCC-mandated interference protections that enable their signals to be received reliably by millions of listeners and at great distances – especially at night, when changes in the ionosphere permit high-power AM signals to travel much farther distances, often hundreds of miles, than is possible during the day. iHeartMedia owns and operates 18 of the country’s Class A AM radio stations and as a result covers most of the United States with these strong signals at night.

FEMA’s Integrated Public Awareness and Warning System (IPAWS) relies heavily on Class A AM radio stations for rapid, nationwide dissemination of emergency information. Seven iHeartMedia Class A AM stations have been designated and specially reinforced by FEMA to serve as Primary Entry Point (PEP) stations to the IPAWS network to provide official emergency alert and warning information to the nation in the event of major emergencies because of their reach and interference protections. FEMA has also designated iHeartMedia’s Premiere Networks for satellite-based redundancy for its PEP emergency warning system.

In 2018, FEMA collaborated with iHeartMedia to initiate an important PEP station modernization project at iHeartMedia’s NewsRadio 700 WVLW-AM in Cincinnati, Ohio to improve alert and warning capabilities of FEMA’s Class A AM PEP stations. WVLW-AM is the second station in the country to complete the upgrade, which includes specialized sheltering capabilities, expanded broadcast transmission capacity and sustainable power generation to withstand virtually all types of hazardous events.
In times of greatest need, our employees act as first responders — often leaving their homes and living in broadcast studios for days, sometimes with family members and with limited food and rest, to serve their listeners and communities at times when it is needed most. Our teams’ efforts during disasters truly highlight the commitment of our people and our company to the communities they serve, and iHeartMedia established the iHeartMedia Disaster Relief Fund in 2005 to aid the families of our own team members who are impacted by natural disasters. The fund is available to support iHeartMedia employees who require assistance as the result of a declared natural disaster, such as a tornado, flood, earthquake or hurricane.
When natural disasters or traumatic man-made events occur, iHeartMedia stations do everything in their power to not only deliver comprehensive news coverage and relay key messages to listeners, but also to mobilize listeners to action by donating appropriate relief efforts that will aid those affected in addition to the lingering COVID-19 pandemic. It was once again an extraordinary year for weather and climate events in the U.S. According to NOAA’s National Centers for Environmental Information (NCEI), in 2022, the U.S. experienced 18 weather/climate disaster events with losses exceeding $1 billion in each instance.

4. Wildfire Event

5. Winter Storm Event
On May 24, 2022, an 18-year-old gunman and former student at Robb Elementary School in Uvalde, TX fatally shot 19 students and two teachers, while 17 others survived despite being injured. Earlier that day, the gunman also shot his grandmother, severely wounding her. The shooting was the third-deadliest school shooting in the United States, after the Virginia Tech shooting in 2007 and the Sandy Hook Elementary School shooting in 2012, and the deadliest in Texas.

In the wake of the tragic events at the Robb Elementary School, iHeartMedia San Antonio and iHeartMedia Austin brought together Country outlets KAJA (KJ97)/San Antonio and KASE 101 & 98.1 KVET/Austin, along with 12 sister stations, for the iHeartUvalde Benefit Concert on Sunday, June 5 at Cowboys Dancehall in San Antonio, featuring performances by Russell Dickerson, Easton Corbin, Kevin Fowler, Thompson Square and Erin Kinsey. Proceeds from the event benefited the Robb School Memorial Fund in support of the families impacted in the Uvalde, Texas community.

Additionally, iHeartMedia San Antonio and iHeartMedia Austin provided continual news coverage and support on air.
Hurricane Ian brought significant wind damage and flooding to western Cuba, central Florida and North Carolina and South Carolina in late September and early October 2022. Flash flooding generated by the storm’s relentless winds, rainfall and coastal storm surges killed approximately 160 people and produced widespread property damage in the areas in its path. Ian’s maximum sustained winds reached about 240 km (150 miles) per hour when it made landfall in Florida as a category 4 hurricane — making it the fifth strongest storm ever to strike the United States. Preliminary estimates suggest that the storm produced at least $50–65 billion in property and infrastructure losses, making it one of the costliest natural disasters in U.S. history.

LOCAL STATION SUPPORT

- Beginning on the day that Hurricane Ian hit the coast of southwest Florida, iHeartMedia Fort Myers/ Naples stations – including WBTT, WOLZ, WJZ and WCOT – responded immediately with 24/7 storm coverage and continuous distribution of relevant information for those impacted.
- All four iHeartMedia Wheeler radio stations aired on air and digital media to encourage donations to the American Red Cross in support of Hurricane Ian disaster relief.
- iHeartMedia Houston delivered three 18-wheel truckloads of supplies and clothing to those in Florida impacted by Hurricane Ian. In addition, BIN ran stories on disaster relief for Hurricane Ian.
- iHeartMedia Miami partnered with OneBlood to organize a Blood Drive in support of all the victims of Hurricane Ian.
- iHeartMedia Providence stations partnered with a local charity to collect and distribute critical supplies to Florida after Hurricane Ian. The fundraising drive was promoted for three weeks on all four stations and raised over $15,000.
- iHeartMedia Raleigh ran a Hurricane Ian Donation Drive. All five iHeart Raleigh radio stations teamed up to collect disaster relief supplies and everyday essentials for those in Florida affected by Hurricane Ian. In just three days, the iHeart Raleigh team planned, promoted and executed a successful donation drive, filling a box truck in twelve hours and distributing it to those in need.
- iHeartMedia Sarasota and iHeartMedia Tampa ran wall to wall hurricane coverage across all stations during the Hurricane. The market’s on-air personalities provided life-saving information before, during and after the storm.
- iHeartMedia West Palm Beach & Treasure Coast teamed up with the American Red Cross to collect donations for those most impacted by Hurricane Ian as well as other damaging storms.
Between July 25 and July 30, 2022, several damaging thunderstorms brought heavy rain, deadly flash flooding and devastating river flooding to eastern Kentucky and central Appalachia. These thunderstorms, at times, caused rainfall rates in excess of four inches per hour that led to widespread devastating impacts. During a four-day stretch, the overwhelming amounts of rain and flooding led to 39 deaths and widespread catastrophic damage. Entire homes and parts of some communities were swept away by flood waters, leading to costly damage to infrastructure in the region.

iHeartMedia Lexington ran “The Eastern KY Flood Relief Benefit” event, a four-hour multi-act benefit concert featuring Chris Stapleton, Tyler Childers and Dwight Yoakam. The event raised over $2.9 million to assist with ongoing relief and recovery efforts in Eastern Kentucky following the devastating floods. Funds were distributed through the Bluegrass Community Foundation, an organization that connects individuals, families, businesses, communities and nonprofit organizations with causes they care about to meet community needs and make a difference.

Additionally, iHeartMedia Somerset’s News Radio 1240 encouraged listeners to donate to the American Red Cross to help the victims of the Eastern Kentucky floods.
While the 2022 fire season was relatively quiet, wildfires still burned about 362,000 acres. iHeartMedia remained proactive in arming citizens with the information that they needed in case of a devastating fire.

To address the impact of various fires, iHeartMedia Sacramento’s KFBK News Radio ran coverage of regional wildfires. iHeartMedia San Francisco’s KMEL and STAR 101.3 supported the wildfire season with news coverage, updates on where to get aid as well as PSAs and Public Affairs Show interviews discussing disaster preparedness, fire prevention and safety and ways to help relief efforts.

Additionally, iHeartMedia Los Angeles’ KFI 640 regularly featured news and talk show segments on local disaster relief efforts throughout 2022 regarding to fire, earthquake, floods and more.
In 2022, iHeartMedia donated millions of dollars’ worth of media to nonprofit organizations helping children, families and communities through a combination of fundraising and in-kind media support. In addition, iHeartMedia employees have donated countless hours both locally and nationally to improve the lives of listeners through participation in thousands of community events across the country. Volunteerism and community are the heart of radio, and on any given day iHeartMedia’s nearly 10,000 employees can be found lending their time, energy and passion to serve and support the communities in which they live and work.
In addition to the daily community volunteer work that takes place at all iHeart stations, each day as part of iHeartMedia’s commitment to serve, every full-time iHeartMedia employee receives one additional paid leave day each year to participate in iHeartMedia’s Local Spirit Day of Service. As part of the corporate volunteer policy, all employees may take off a workday as a group/team or on their own, or on a weekend, to volunteer in the community for a nonprofit organization.

In 2022 iHeartMedia employees took time off to volunteer, spending over 11,000 hours volunteering in their local communities, equating to an investment of over $503,000 in those local communities.

The following pages include highlights of how some iHeartMedia employees spent their annual Local Spirit Day of Service in 2022:

Each year iHeartMedia, its key executives and local iHeartMedia radio stations are honored by various groups and organizations for their charitable contributions to a wide variety of causes and initiatives.
The Kristen Ann Carr Fund provides grants for cancer research and seeks to improve all aspects of cancer patient life with an emphasis on adolescents and young adults. The nonprofit honors the life of Kristen Ann Carr (1971 - 1993), a remarkable young woman who sought life and love.

John Sykes, President of Entertainment Enterprises for iHeartMedia, was honored at the Kristen Ann Carr Fund’s 2022 “A Night to Remember” Gala at Triloca Grill in New York City. The gala has been an annual tradition for 29 years. This year’s event, featuring a performance by John Mellencamp, set a new fundraising record, raising $1.35 million for sarcoma research and treatment. John Sykes has been a dedicated supporter of the organization since its inception.

The Kristen Ann Carr Fund was the first foundation formed to exclusively address, gain understanding and provide treatment of sarcoma. They have funded over 35 doctors to study sarcoma cancers, built a dedicated sarcoma laboratory and are nearly finished with a $10 million capital campaign for The Kristen Ann Carr Center for Sarcoma Treatment & Research, designed to significantly expand the ability of doctors to make progress in the lab and in patient care.

Additionally, this year the organization announced the addition of two new fellows to its training programs at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center: Surgical oncology fellow Dr. George Li and medical oncology fellow Dr. Carly Rosemore.

The Kristen Ann Carr Fund has made so much tangible progress in the research and treatment of sarcoma through its partnership with the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, and I couldn’t be more honored to play a part in that important legacy. Introducing my friend, John Mellencamp, to perform in such an intimate setting was icing on the cake.”

The Alliance for Women in Media (AWM) connects, recognizes and inspires women across the media industry. Established in 1951 as American Women in Radio & Television (AWRT), AWM is the longest-established professional association dedicated to advancing women in media and entertainment. AWM harnesses the promise, passion and power of women in all forms of media to empower career development, engage in thought leadership and drive positive change for our industry and societal progress.

The Alliance for Women in Media honored Wendy Goldberg, Chief Communications Officer, iHeartMedia, Inc. and six other female honorees with the Gracies Leadership Award on Monday, November 14, 2022, at Tribeca 360 in New York, New York. The annual event provided an opportunity to recognize and celebrate the significant impact women have made in the media industry, while also spurring to action and emboldening female leaders in attendance.

When accepting her award, Goldberg spoke on the importance of mentorship and focusing on the women around her, saying, “Instead of seeing it through my own leaders or mentors, I saw it from the people I had around me. So, for me, this award is really about them— their generosity, their talent and their example. I’m inspired by them, I respect them, and I’m often in awe of them.”

Keynote speaker Soledad O’Brien inspired the audience and referenced the honorees in the room as representing “stories not just of grit, vision and opportunity, but of women helping women and celebrating women and the story of how those women didn’t forget that they got into media to elevate people and issues and struggles that were not in the spotlight”.

EUGENE & RUTH FREEDMAN LEADERSHIP AWARD
DIXON CENTER FOR MILITARY AND VETERANS SERVICES

Founded in 2012, Dixon Center for Military and Veterans Services works with organizations from all sectors of society—public, private, social and civic—to make the lives of our veterans and their families better.

On December 13, Dixon Center for Military and Veterans Services recognized organizations and individuals working to enhance the well-being of veterans and military families. iHeartMedia was presented with the 2022 Eugene and Ruth Freedman Leadership Award on Dec. 13 in Washington, DC for the “iHeartRadio “Show Your Stripes” program and iHeart’s commitment to addressing the well-being of veterans and military families. The award is presented annually by Dixon Center for Military and Veterans Services to recognize outstanding organizations committed to veterans and their families.

The award is named in honor of Eugene and Ruth Freedman, whose lifetime of philanthropy continues through their family foundation and their three children, Penny Freedman, Nancy Remak and Rick Freedman.

Nine years ago, iHeartRadio “Show Your Stripes” made a commitment to addressing the national veteran unemployment crisis. On Veterans Day 2021, iHeart unveiled an all-new “iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes” program that realigns with some of the most pressing issues facing veterans today, including a focus on wellness—from health and emotional wellness to environmental, financial, intellectual, occupational, physical, social and spiritual wellness.

Previous recipients of the award have included Prudential; PwC Charitable Foundation, Inc.; the International Brotherhood of Teamsters; the Utility Workers Union of America; and UBS Financial Services.

It is our privilege to recognize the leadership of iHeartMedia. Your efforts to enable veterans and their families through “iHeartRadio Show Your Stripes” has made a significant contribution to their overall well-being and quality of life.”

Ryan Seacrest received the 2022 National Association of Broadcasters’ Distinguished Service Award, the organization’s highest honor, which recognizes those who have made a significant and lasting contribution to the American system of broadcasting. The award presentation took place during the Marconi Radio Awards dinner on October 19 at the NAB Show New York.

In addition to Seacrest’s successful career in radio and television broadcasting, the honor recognized his work as the Chairman and Founder of the Ryan Seacrest Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to inspiring today’s youth through entertainment and education focused initiatives.

As the host and producer of the #1 Los Angeles morning drive-time show for iHeartMedia’s 102.7 KIIS-FM, the nationally syndicated “On Air with Ryan Seacrest” and “American Top 40 with Ryan Seacrest,” Seacrest has become one of the most recognized and trusted voices in media today.

Over the past 12 years, Seacrest has dedicated his time to a cause that is important to him through The Ryan Seacrest Foundation (RSF). After visiting various children’s hospitals and speaking with patients and families, Seacrest built Seacrest Studios committed to providing entertainment for children in the hospital and those receiving medical care. RSF’s aim is to contribute positively to the healing process for children and their families during their stay, by allowing children to experiment with radio and television broadcasting in these media centers, to bring an uplifting spirit to the hospital community. Today, the Ryan Seacrest Foundation, for which he serves as chairman, has successfully installed 11 broadcast media centers in pediatric hospitals nationwide and will open its newest studio at Cohen Children’s Medical Center in Queens, NY in 2023, with additional new studios to be announced later this year.

Previous recipients include former NAB President and CEO Gordon Smith, Jim Henson, Alan Alda, Robin Roberts, Bob Schieffer, Michael J. Fox, Mary Tyler Moore, President Ronald Reagan, Edward R. Murrow, Bob Hope, Walter Cronkite and Oprah Winfrey.

“Ryan Seacrest has made an indelible mark on broadcasting while demonstrating a strong commitment to public service. For decades, Ryan has produced and hosted hit radio and television programs that have entertained millions worldwide, while dedicating his time to bring joy to children in need. NAB looks forward to celebrating his contributions to our industry and our community at NAB Show New York this October.”

The Living Legends Foundation hosted the 30th Annual Living Legends Awards Gala on Friday, October 7, 2022, in Hollywood, CA. Charlamagne tha God, nationally-recognized entertainment personality, author and co-host of the nationally syndicated radio show “The Breakfast Club” with DJ Envy, received the Jerry Boulding Radio Executive Award and was the first of eight honorees saluted at the foundation’s 30th anniversary awards gala.

Hosted by syndicated radio personality DeDe McGuire with musical interludes helmed by DJ Battlecat, the evening marked the Living Legends Foundation’s first in-person awards ceremony in three years owing to the pandemic. Among the distinguished guests and presenters on included Epic Records chairwoman/CEO Sylvia Rhone, artists P.J. Morton and Johnny Gill and talk show host/author Tavis Smiley.

All of the 30th Anniversary honorees reflected the brilliance and excellence of today’s global music leaders and follow the tradition of the organization’s past honorees, who are trendsetters, trailblazers, legends and icons. The foundation’s core mission is to honor the best among us in today’s ever-changing multimedia industry in the areas of broadcasting, recorded music, media, publishing, radio, publicity and marketing.

"Ask yourself every day who have you helped or empowered to help people be the best versions of themselves."

The Alliance for Women in Media Foundation presented the 47th Annual Gracie Awards at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel in Beverly Hills, CA. Hosted by Holly Robinson Peete, the awards recognized exemplary programming created by women, for women and about women in all facets of media and entertainment.

Among the winners were iHeart’s Medha Gandhi, co-host of the Premiere-syndicated “Elvis Duran & The Morning Show,” who was honored as “Co-host, Radio Nationally Syndicated.” Additionally, several of iHeartMedia’s incredible talent, and programming spanning several national and local categories were honored with Gracies.

I was often told by the higher ups in this industry that I was too different, too much of a tomboy, too nerdy, too outspoken and not QUITE blonde enough to advance in this business. But, thanks to a few guardian angels who had some faith in me, here we are.”

Each year, The CMA Awards nominees and winners are determined by more than 6,000 industry professional members of the Country Music Association, which became the first trade organization formed to promote an individual genre of music when it was established in 1958. The first CMA Awards Banquet and Show was held in 1967, and the 56th Annual CMA Awards aired live from Nashville’s Bridgestone Arena on Wednesday, November 9.

The CMA Broadcast Awards are among the most prestigious awards given out in the field of Country Broadcasting. The categories are established by market size based on population as ranked by Nielsen. In 2022, The Bobby Bones Show was awarded CMA Daily National Broadcast Personality of the Year.

Entries for Broadcast Personality of the Year are judged on aircheck, ratings, community involvement and biographical information. The entries are judged by a panel of distinguished broadcast professionals, representing all market sizes and regions. Similar to the Academy Awards and the Grammys, the CMA Awards are voted on by members of the Country Music Association — meaning awards nominees and winners are honored by their peers in the music industry. Members of the CMA are music executives, artists, publicists, songwriters, musicians, touring professionals and other industry professionals from all around the world.
NAB MARCONI RADIO AWARDS
THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF BROADCASTERS

The National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) presented the 2022 NAB Marconi Radio Awards during a dinner celebration held at the Javits Center at NAB Show New York. The ceremony was hosted by media mogul Nick Cannon with entertainment from VERZUZ host DJ Scratch. Established in 1989 and named after inventor and Nobel Prize winner Guglielmo Marconi, the NAB Marconi Radio Awards are given to radio stations and outstanding on-air personalities to recognize excellence in radio.

In 2022, Dan Patrick was honored with the Network/Syndicated Personality of the Year for his work on “The Dan Patrick Show” and iHeartMedia Spanish Hits WZTU (TU 94.9)/MIAMI was named Station of the Year.

Marconi finalists were selected by a task force of broadcasters, and the winners were voted on by the NAB Marconi Radio Awards Selection Academy.
The Museum of Broadcast Communications’ Radio Hall of Fame honors those who have contributed to the development of the radio medium throughout its history in the United States.

Hosted by Bill Handel, morning man at iHeartMedia talk KFI Los Angeles and the nationally syndicated “Handel on the Law,” the 2022 Radio Hall of Fame induction ceremony took place in Chicago and the class of 2022 inductees included KOST-FM Los Angeles morning host Ellen K, who was inducted by Ryan Seacrest.

Ellen K is a longstanding on-air personality with more than three decades of success in Morning Drive in Los Angeles, with more than 20 years in Morning Drive on KIIS FM as co-host with both Rick Dees and Ryan Seacrest until 2015, when she was offered her own morning show on KOST-FM.

Ellen K is the longest continuously airing Morning Drive radio personality in the nation’s largest radio market and also holds the distinction of being the first woman to solo host a Morning Drive radio program in Los Angeles radio history. Ellen K also hosts an Adult Contemporary music program airing weekends nationwide, the syndicated “Ellen K Weekend Show.”

In addition to her work in radio, Ellen has been the Announcer on CBS-TV’s The Grammy Awards telecast for more than a decade, and the Announcer of the Academy Awards telecast on ABC-TV, in addition to other similar work on other award programs.

In 2017, Ellen K’s work was recognized by receiving a Star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.
Established in 1987, the NAB Crystal Radio Awards bring national recognition to radio stations for their year-round commitment to serving communities. A panel of judges representing the broadcast industry and community service organizations review applications and select 50 finalists and 10 winners.

In 2022, iHeart's 105.3 WDAS FM in Winchester, VA was the recipient of a prestigious NAB Crystal Award. All finalists were celebrated, and the winners were announced during the We Are Broadcasters Awards ceremony held at the NAB Show in Las Vegas.

MUSIC DEVELOPMENT

MUSIC DEVELOPMENT ARTIST INTEGRATION PROGRAM (AIP)

iHeartMedia’s “Artist Integration Program” is designed to increase audience awareness of new music projects from both established and developing artists through on-air and online promotional campaigns. By leveraging iHeartMedia’s powerful properties, including its 860 radio stations in over 150 markets and its national digital iHeartRadio platform, the campaigns provide the opportunity for artists, record labels and the music industry to maximize exposure for new singles and albums—ultimately strengthening artist development and sales.

DIGITAL ARTIST INTEGRATION PROGRAM

In 2012, iHeartMedia extended its “Artist Integration Program” to the iHeartRadio digital platform. Each month, four new tracks per format are featured in new music spots that run in national inventory across format-appropriate iHeartRadio digital stations. The spots run in their entirety 3-4 times per day across all format-relevant digital streams online, helping to build impressions and artist familiarity. In 2022, the iHeartRadio Digital “Artist Integration Program” accumulated 102MM+ impressions and featured over 440 DAP custom spots throughout the year.

ON THE VERGE

The “On The Verge” Artist program promotes key tracks and artists that iHeartMedia programmers are excited about and know their listeners will love. Each quarter, iHeartMedia selects an artist in each format based on surveys and feedback from these programmers and launches an eight-week program that includes on-air exposure as well as significant digital and social support across iHeartMedia’s entire platform. “On The Verge” program launched and positioned the success of the below artists. In 2022 alone, the “On The Verge” campaign has helped to kickstart the careers of artists including Lauren Spencer-Smith, Jelly Roll, Giovannie and The Hired Guns, Muni Long and many others.

Local Advisory Boards (LABs) play an integral role in guiding iHeartMedia’s support of the most relevant issues impacting individual communities. iHeartMedia’s LABs bring together community representatives with broad-based expertise, and quarterly meetings serve as a forum for iHeartMedia executives, local communities, government and educational leaders to discuss issues and solutions in an open, collegial environment. The diverse boards carefully monitor public opinion and assist iHeartMedia teams in identifying and implementing projects that enable meaningful public service in each community. For over 17 years, LABs have improved iHeartMedia’s ability to effectively collaborate with community partners to meet important local needs. Below are comments from some representatives of iHeart’s Local Advisory Boards about their participation and the impact the boards have within the communities in which they live and work.

LES ECHOLS
DIRECTOR OF MINORITY & SMALL BUSINESS, FLORENCE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
Florence, SC – LAB Member since 2017

“With LAB, iHeart has truly created an effective and inclusive platform for change and growth in Florence and across the Pee Dee region. Working with LAB has been a great opportunity to collaborate resources, time and talents with other leaders in order to develop and unite the community.”

ROY WEST
MORTGAGE BANKER, ROY WEST HOME LOANS
Beaumont, TX – LAB Member since 2016

“I believe it’s important to give back to the community and give where you live. It’s my pleasure to serve on the iHeartMedia Local Advisory Board.”

ROBERTO A. VALDEZ JR.
MIDWEST POLICY DIRECTOR, HISPANIC FEDERATION
Chicago, IL – LAB Member since 2018

“LAB has been an incredible opportunity to provide organizational updates and talk about the work that Hispanic Federation is doing, but also hear about the incredible work that is being done throughout Chicago and potentially find opportunities to collaborate and amplify each other’s work.”

PAUL HUTTLIN
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR & CEO, RECREATION UNLIMITED FOUNDATION
Columbus, OH – LAB Member since 2011

“iHeartMedia has been a fantastic supporter of Recreation Unlimited, through their media sponsorship and promotion of our events that raise funds for the Recreation Unlimited camps and camper scholarship fund in support of individuals with disabilities. The friendship of iHeartMedia over these past many years has been genuine and consistent for the good of helping individuals with disabilities.”

JULIE O’SULLIVAN
DIRECTOR OF CREATIVE ARTS, MARKETING MANAGER, MISERICORDIA FOUNDATION
Chicago, IL – LAB Member since 2022

“I am excited to be a part of such an amazing group of people that are committed to making a difference in Chicago.”

BROOKE JEVICKS
DIRECTOR OF DEVELOPMENT, WEDGWOOD CHRISTIAN SERVICES
Grand Rapids, MI – LAB Member since 2018

“It is an honor to be a part of the iHeartMedia Local Advisory Board. This opportunity has allowed me to expand my leadership network while working with community leaders who can inspire significant impact in Grand Rapids. I appreciate the diverse perspectives that challenge me and improve my knowledge of funding and collaborative opportunities.”

JUDY SCARAFLE
MANAGING DIRECTOR, CAPE & ISLANDS MAJOR CRISIS RELIEF FUND
Cape Cod, MA – LAB Member since 2020

“It’s an honor to be on the advisory committee. We are all in this together - one team working to better the community.”

JULIE O’SULLIVAN
DIRECTOR OF CREATIVE ARTS, MARKETING MANAGER, MISERICORDIA FOUNDATION
Chicago, IL – LAB Member since 2022

“I am deeply grateful to iHeart San Francisco’s Local Advisory Board for connecting me with like-minded community leaders to raise awareness of critical issues and to support our collective action in addressing those issues. Participation has been invaluable to my leadership growth and non-profit organization.”

FABIOLA BRUMLEY
MARKET PRESIDENT, BANK OF AMERICA
West Palm Beach, FL – LAB Member since 2018
“I really enjoy being part of such a diverse and important group of community leaders. Being able to share our thoughts on the most pressing issues facing our community and how iHeartMedia can help with its huge reach is truly valuable and appreciated.”
iHeartMedia’s most popular on-air radio personalities are active members of local communities across the nation and have a rich history of connecting to listeners within their communities and offering companionship, support and trusted friendship. Because of the highly personal nature of the connection between on-air talent and their listeners, they are often driving forces in rallying local community support for important local issues. The following pages highlight a few examples of how iHeart’s — and radio’s — most well-known voices make a difference in the communities in which they live and work, both on-air and off. There is so much important work happening in every market every day that it is hard to capture it all, but here is a representative sample.
Enrique Santos, the President and Chief Creative Officer of iHeartLatino, not only excels in his professional roles but also prioritizes community engagement. He showcases his talent as a host through his highly acclaimed morning show, The Enrique Santos Show, and the weekend program, On The Move with Enrique Santos.

Santos has an unwavering commitment to giving back to his community, and is deeply involved in philanthropic endeavors. Whether it’s organizing Thanksgiving celebrations for those in need or raising funds for disaster relief, he remains committed to helping others and raising awareness for important issues.

Santos’s community involvement extends to his role as a Reserve Police officer in the community relations department of The City of Miami Police Department. Going above and beyond his duties, he volunteers his time and actively participates in annual events such as the Autism Bike Ride and the Autism Awareness and Acceptance Police Caravan. By organizing “Coffee with a Cop” gatherings at local establishments, Santos creates meaningful opportunities for listeners to engage with police department members and foster positive relationships.

Santos extends his support beyond his involvement with St. Jude Children’s Research Hospitals through local radiothons. He is also passionate about raising funds and awareness for Autism Speaks, an organization dedicated to advocating for individuals with autism spectrum disorders. Additionally, Santos contributes his efforts to the Dunkin’ Joy in Childhood Foundation, an exceptional organization devoted to bringing happiness and alleviating the challenges faced by children dealing with hunger or illness.

Santos actively participates in the annual Maestro Cares Celebrity Golf Tournament in South Florida, which benefits orphaned and disadvantaged children in Latin American and U.S. communities. This event ensures these children have safe and nurturing environments to live, learn, and play.

Santos also collaborates with the Mexican American Council, supporting their mission of providing farmworker children with access to quality education, the arts, and technology for a brighter future.
Los Angeles icon Big Boy continues to be a long-time supporter of Together in His Arms, which provides support for families who have lost a child and helps pay the family’s bills during their time of mourning. In 2022, Big Boy also made his much-anticipated annual appearance at the Kingdom Day Parade, which celebrates the life and legacy of Martin Luther King Jr., and hosted the annual East LA Classic High School Football Game, where he helped introduce Black Eyed Peas with a free concert at this very special community event. Big also partnered with artist Roddy Ricch and Fixins Soul Kitchen in Los Angeles for a special Feed The Streets event, where many meals were served for those in need. Additionally, Big was instrumental in the Real Vision Clinic, where local community members were given free eye exams and glasses. Big also partnered with Charlie “Rocket” Jabaley, Founder and CEO of the Dream Machine Foundation, to grant a wish for a teenage girl with medical challenges, enabling her to start her own fashion line and have her clothing modeled on a real fashion show runway.
The Woody Show is dedicated to giving back to the community and supports many worthy causes throughout the year. The popular nationally-syndicated program recently teamed up with The Shop Forward to produce a special line of t-shirts and stickers, with proceeds from each sale benefiting the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA). The ASPCA tirelessly works to rescue animals from abuse, advocate for humane laws, and provide essential resources to shelters across the nation.

The Woody Show also collaborates with The Power of Sight Foundation, which is dedicated to funding and providing eye care clinics, offering less fortunate individuals access to quality vision care services. The show co-hosted an event in Van Nuys, CA, where they provided local individuals with free eye exams and eyeglasses.

During National Burger Month in May 2022, The Woody Show partnered with The Habit Burger Grill to promote their “Truck Tour in LA,” which raised thousands of dollars for several causes, including lymphoma research, Hope for Paws Rescue, National Parkinson Foundation and the MS Society.
The Steve and Marjorie Harvey Foundation is committed to giving back, which is embedded in its organizational values and mission. Since its establishment in 2009, the organization has devoted time and resources to transforming the lives of youth, families, and community. The Steve and Marjorie Harvey Foundation provides youth outreach services that cultivate the next generation of responsible leaders by providing exposure to things they may not experience in their current environment. The organization strives to be the change agent in fostering excellence in the areas of education, social wellbeing and mental health and wellness in urban and diverse communities, ensuring that the needs of the whole child and family are met.

Last year continued to present challenges for everyone, including the Foundation and the population it serves. However, the organization made a tremendous impact in 2022, reaching thousands of viewers in over 35 countries with a virtual mentoring program.

The Steve and Marjorie Harvey Foundation also impacted more than 50,000 families and children with programs in partnership with community grantee, and provided over $300,000 in academic scholarships to deserving students at numerous academic institutions across the United States. The Foundation awarded grants and continued partnerships with organizations such as Next Step Education, Lawrence Taylor Family Fund Foundation, Regojo In The Lord Ministries and Rarturly Homes of Nassau, Bahamas; 100 Girls of Code; Supreme Family Foundation, YMCA of Metro Atlanta; Save a Girl, Save a World; Utopian Food Bank, and Project Swish, to name a few, with the commitment of over $250,000 to support a building campaign.

In addition, the Foundation was able to partner with music producer extraordinaire Metro Boomin on his “Single Mothers are the Real Superheroes” initiative - taking single mothers and their children to movie premieres across the region and partnering with the Atlanta Falcons with an on-field activation for 30 moms and their children.

2022 also marked the return of The Steve Harvey Boys’ Mentoring Camp, which hadn’t been held in person in over two years; the Single Mother’s Enrichment Summit; and multiple charity events that were supported by sponsors and partners in Suwanee, GA and Nassau, Bahamas. The Foundation is looking forward to impacting more lives in 2023.
Delilah continues to lend her name and considerable resources to Point Hope, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization founded in 2004. Nineteen years into her commitment, the organization is a voice for forgotten children, both in the United States and in Ghana. Delilah uses select speaking engagements, her nationally syndicated radio program and social media to inform audiences of the plight and effects of the broken foster care program in the United States, encouraging families to adopt children into forever homes.

In Ghana, Point Hope continues to provide meals and nutritional information to hundreds of children and their families who have no other support from charitable or philanthropic organizations. Point Hope also provides vocational training for women, as well as gardening instruction to communities in search of information. In 2022, Point Hope continued The Living Water project, providing fresh water to tens of thousands of Ghanaian residents living in poverty. Point Hope also raised funds to open a facility in Ghana to provide optical assistance for thousands of area residents, providing first-time optical exams, eyeglasses and education on how eyesight is improved with medical assistance.

Delilah continued her support of the National Council for Adoption in 2022, serving as a spokesperson for the organization, which provides resources and education for all people and organizations in the adoption world, and advocates for sound policies so that every child can thrive in a nurturing, permanent family.

Delilah also continues her role as an Air Force Reserve advisor, a role she shares with five other board members, reporting to the Air Force Reserve Commander. Delilah helps guide best practices for supporting families who have members enrolled within the U.S. Air Force and the Air Force Reserve.

In 2022, KDUN-AM in Reedsport, OR – the station where Delilah got her start in radio - celebrated its first anniversary after being purchased and returned to air by the veteran radio personality. Delilah used proceeds from her radio program to purchase the formerly defunct AM radio station in her hometown and put it back on the air, providing investment for broadcast equipment and local area on-air and off-air staffing to serve the community with a local media outlet. The town does not have another radio station or newspaper as a local source of information. The station management, led by Delilah, has made focused efforts to involve all members in the community, from broadcasting high school sports, to being a conduit for elected and volunteer officials, to spreading news of events, to helping community members in need and serving as a forum for public discussion.
Sean Hannity, one of the most-listened-to talk radio hosts in America and host of "The Sean Hannity Show," continued supporting several nonprofit organizations in 2022, including Building Homes for Heroes, a national nonprofit organization that builds or modifies homes and gifts them, mortgage-free, to veterans and their families; Samaritan’s Purse, a non-denominational evangelical Christian organization providing spiritual and physical aid to hurting people around the world; and Operation 300, which provides mentorship to children of fallen soldiers.

The National Radio Hall of Famer also supported The Nine Line Foundation, an organization supporting severely wounded combat veterans and their families; Folds of Honor, which provides educational scholarships to spouses and children of America’s fallen and disabled servicemembers; America’s VetDogs®, which bestows service dogs free of charge to those who have served our country so they can live with dignity and independence; and The Freedom Alliance, a charitable organization that arranges help and support to wounded troops and military families.
Throughout the year, "The Breakfast Club" uses the strength of their platform to help those in need and raise awareness for worthy causes, while inspiring positivity, hope, togetherness and love to everyone listening.

On October 8, 2022, "The Breakfast Club" host Charlamagne tha God, iHeartMedia NYC and The Mental Wealth Alliance celebrated World Mental Health Day with the second annual Mental Wealth Expo. Held at the Marriott Marquis in Times Square, this event was free and open to the public and featured curated mental health panels focused on Black men, Black women, racial trauma, religion and spirituality. Breakout sessions with experts included exploration of topics such as suicide prevention among youth, LGBTQIA+ mental health, Black men heal and writing as a tool for collective liberation and healing. New in 2022, the Mental Wealth Expo included the “MEternal” breakout room dedicated to mothers of color.

Angela Yee, former co-host of The Breakfast Club, has always had a desire to give back to her city and its people. For her efforts, New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio officially declared August 28, 2022 as Angela Yee Day in New York City. To celebrate the honor, Power 105.1 and Angela partnered with the Social Justice Fund to create a Community Day on August 27, 2022, on the Plaza at Barclays Center featuring live performances, food, small business services, games, prizes and other surprise announcements benefiting the community.
Inside and outside the studio, Amy Brown is passionate about giving back. She currently co-hosts the nationally syndicated Country radio programs “The Bobby Bones Show” and “Country Top 30 with Bobby Bones,” and hosts “Women of HeartCountry.” She also hosts the “4 Things with Amy Brown” and “OUTWEIGH with Amy Brown” podcasts, in addition to overseeing and producing the Amy Brown Podcast Network. When she’s not on-air, Amy is busy being a mom to her two adopted children from Haiti, a place that will forever have her heart. In 2015, she co-founded Espwa®, which means “hope” in Haitian Creole. She co-created branded merchandise and other items, including the signature 4 Things® Tote, to support numerous organizations in Haiti, including the orphanage where her kids lived. In 2013, Brown launched #PIMPINJOY, a movement promoting random acts of joy, which was created to honor her late mother Judy and the positive way she battled cancer. Growing rapidly and garnering national attention, the movement spurred the launch of the #PIMPINJOY clothing line, which has raised millions of dollars for various charities including St. Jude, The Red Cross, Epic Girl, Musicians On Call and more. In 2022, the sale of limited-edition #PimpinJoy merchandise benefited Global Empowerment Mission for Hurricane Ian relief, TEEM Haiti, which supports an orphanage and school in the country, and Building Homes for Heroes, including a $100,000 donation to help build a home for a wounded veteran. Plus, #PimpinJoy apparel contributed to a record-breaking St. Jude radiothon for “The Bobby Bones Show,” raising $2.7 million.
According to the Connecticut Hospital Association, each year more than three million pediatric patients are hospitalized in the United States. The Ryan Seacrest Foundation (RSF) contributes positively to the healing process of these patients by building broadcast media centers in children’s hospitals across the country – providing a respite for patients and families while being treated. iHeartMedia is committed to helping further the mission of RSF. The Ryan Seacrest Foundation builds broadcast media centers, named Seacrest Studios, in pediatric hospitals for patients to explore the creative realms of radio, television and new media.

There are now studios in 11 cities across the United States including Atlanta, Philadelphia, Dallas, Orange County, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Denver, Boston, D.C., Nashville and Orlando. Three new Seacrest Studios will be opening in 2023 at Le Bonheur Children’s Hospital (Memphis, TN), Cohen Children’s Medical Center (Queens, NY) and Primary Children’s Hospital (Salt Lake City, UT). iHeartMedia supports the amazing work of the Ryan Seacrest Foundation in a variety of ways throughout the year, including educational experiences for studio interns, assisting with talent bookings and executing national and local fundraising programs. The iHeartRadio Jingle Ball tour continues to benefit RSF with a portion of all ticket sales going to support the Foundation.
Elvis Duran is a committed philanthropist with several causes close to his heart. He currently serves on the Board of Directors for Rock & Rawhide, a nonprofit organization that aims to increase animal adoptions while also providing a stress-free life for animals surrendered to shelters. As an advocate for the LGBTQIA+ community, Duran works closely with GLAAD and takes part in their national Spirit Day campaign. In addition, Duran supports St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital and participates in the St. Jude Walk/Run to End Childhood Cancer. He is also a partner to Musicians On Call, which brings live and recorded music to the bedside of patients in healthcare facilities.

Duran continues to raise funds and awareness for many organizations, including New York’s LGBTQIA+ Community Center, Charity: Water, a nonprofit organization focused on bringing clean and safe drinking water to people in developing countries; The Trevor Project, the leading national organization providing crisis intervention and suicide prevention services to LGBTQIA+ young people under 25; the Born This Way Foundation, which is committed to supporting young people and empowering them to create a kinder, braver world; DonorsChoose.org, which makes it possible for anyone to support a classroom in need; and Cookies for Kids’ Cancer, the notable nonprofit dedicated to funding pediatric cancer research.
The nationally syndicated “Glenn Beck Program” reaches millions of listeners across the country. Glenn Beck’s vision is not only to provide a great show but also to equip his audience with opportunities to impact the world in service to others. In 2011, Glenn Beck founded Mercury One to be that opportunity. The nonprofit organization reflects his belief in the individual, self-determination, free enterprise and the essential need for faith. Over a decade later, Mercury One embodies those beliefs by providing disaster relief, offering education programs through The American Journey Experience and leading the charge of humanitarian initiatives, including efforts to fight human trafficking and protect persecuted religious minorities all over the globe.

Mercury One partners with The Nazarene Fund, which Glenn Beck founded in 2015, to rescue persecuted religious and ethnic minorities worldwide. When tragedy struck Afghanistan in 2021, Mercury One raised more than $30 million to help save Americans and American allies in Afghanistan. To date, more than 14,500 individuals have been rescued from Afghanistan and are now rebuilding their lives. This year, Mercury One has assisted in the crisis in Ukraine helping rescue around 300 people a day from war areas in Ukraine. Mercury One sees humanitarian crises through and responds, even when others do not.

Mercury One also supported domestic communities in 2022. Mercury One provided vital aid through its disaster relief initiatives in response to Kentucky flooding, tornadoes in the southeast and Hurricane Ian, which left historic damage in Florida. Mercury One also provided 10 new roofs to elderly identified by the city as most in need in Detroit, Michigan as part of their Restoring America campaign. Mercury One has entered its second decade of service and continues to reach more individuals across the world and inspire all to do their part in restoring the human spirit.
Given his affinity for helping others, Bobby Bones is involved in multiple charitable initiatives and supports an array of philanthropic causes. Since April 2014, Bones and his national radio show have helped raise more than $20 million for St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital with various events and fundraisers, including “The Bobby Bones Show” St. Jude Radiothon, which raised a record setting $2.7 million in two days in 2022. The event featured support and live performances from some of Country music’s biggest superstars.

Bones is also an avid supporter of The MusiCares Foundation, a nonprofit organization that provides a safety net of critical assistance for musicians in times of need; and he serves on the Board of Directors for Musicians On Call, an organization that brings live and recorded music to the bedside of patients in healthcare facilities. “The Bobby Bones Show” continues to raise funds through the sale of #PIMPINJOY merchandise to benefit many worthy causes, including ending the orphan cycle, medical care and cancer treatment, veteran support, serving the homeless, disaster relief efforts and more.

In 2022, “The Bobby Bones Show” promoted limited-edition #PIMPINJOY merchandise benefiting relief efforts for the Uvalde Texas school shooting victims and their families. Co-host Amy Brown also used her birthday as a fundraiser for the orphanage in Haiti where she adopted her two children. More than $40k was raised from the week-long promotion of #PIMPINJOY items. Additionally, patriotic #PIMPINJOY merchandise was created and raised nearly $100k for Building Homes for Heroes to help make a home more accessible for Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Anthony Thompson, who sustained life altering injuries during deployment.
The Johnjay & Rich Show continues its work with the Johnjay & Rich #LoveUp Foundation, a nonprofit organization that strives to be a force for positive change and impact the lives of children and adults in the community, with a primary focus on improving the quality of life for children living in the foster care system. The Foundation raises funds through the sale of #LoveUp t-shirts and merchandise, as well as private donors, corporate sponsors and community grants.

In 2022, Johnjay & Rich #LoveUp Foundation community contributions included:

- #LoveUp Moments - In February, #LoveUp helped a family whose apartment caught fire by providing furniture and gift cards for essentials.
- In July, the Foundation learned about a single mom who was living without a working refrigerator, and feeding the homeless with her food that would have expired without proper refrigeration. #LoveUp gave her a new refrigerator.
- Also in July, a family in Tucson with several foster kids housed more kids through a family member. Their financial situation became stressed, so #LoveUp helped get them back on their feet by donating two months’ rent.
- Additionally, #LoveUp donated $13500 for foster kids to go to summer camp.
- Fun with the Fuzz - #LoveUp, #LovePup, Department of Child Safety (DCS), Phoenix Police Department and ASU Data Research teamed up to encourage 25 teenage foster kids to have respectful relationships with law enforcement. The kids engaged with police officers and rescue dogs at What Dogs Want Academy, and participated in a luncheon where they could ask the officer’s questions. A team from ASU Data Research surveyed the kids before and after the event, and the data showed that some kids changed their views on law enforcement.
- #LoveUp put together the following events in 2022 for kids living in foster care:
  - #LoveUp hosted 100 foster kids and their families for a Christmas celebration at Vertuccio Farms.
  - #LoveUp hosted 60 kids from the Young Adult Program at Roadhouse Cinema. The kids watched a movie, received a $50 gift card for Christmas and were treated to dinner.
  - #LoveUp partnered with DCS for a kids’ fashion show that included foster children. Generating foster awareness and raising funds through the sale of #LoveUp merchandise, #LoveUp provided gifts for 100 kids in foster care from the FW for Kids Angel Tree.
  - #LoveUp teamed up with AZ Friends of Foster Care to celebrate foster seniors at Jake’s Unlimited. The luncheon event was hosted by Johnjay & Rich, and #LoveUp gave 110 seniors a laptop and messenger bag.
  - CHILDREN’S HEART GALLERY
    - #LoveUp was awarded the national Children’s Heart Gallery several years ago. Six times a year, the Foundation creates an event around taking pictures of foster kids that are readily available for adoption, which are then posted on the Children’s Heart Gallery website. In 2022, six photo shoots were organized and serviced 240 kids. #LoveUp promotes the kids each week on social media.
  - #LOVEUP/COX CHARITIES
    - CHRISTMAS AT THE PRINCESS
      - In 2022, #LoveUp invited 700 foster families to enjoy a night of fun at the Foundation’s Foster Christmas party at the Fairmont Scottsdale Princess.
      - #LOVEUP AND DCS LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD
        - #LoveUp and DCS partnered to create an award that honors an outstanding individual who has given their life to kids in foster care. In 2022, Mildred “Mikki” Murray, who has fostered 200 kids over the course of 40 years, was honored at a luncheon held in Tucson and Governor Ducey’s office gave her a Governor’s Commendation.
  - ADDITIONAL DONATIONS TO DCS PROGRAMS:
    - The Kinship family needed gas and #LoveUp donated a $200 gas card
    - #LoveUp donated $20,000 and is designing a playroom at the brand new DCS Welcome Center. When kids are removed from their home, they will arrive at the center for evaluation, medical treatment, safety, warm beds and food. It’s a temporary place for fosters until they receive placement.
    - Christmas Wish is #LoveUp’s signature program, and it’s been serving those in need for more than 20 years. After collecting nominations in November 2022, eight families in four Johnjay & Rich markets received wishes in December that were personalized to their needs. #LoveUp gave washers, dryers, beds, gift cards, paid rent and utilities and bought age-appropriate gifts for the kids of each family. Among the recipients were a family whose house burned down, the husband and daughter of a woman killed in the Colorado mass shooting, a foster mom battling cancer and others.
Valentine grew up in Connecticut with his two sisters and his parents who were born and raised in Ireland. He started his radio career when he was just fifteen years old thanks to an internship opportunity at a local radio station. Today, as the quarterback of MYfm, Valentine is considered a trailblazer in the industry by his peers. For more than a decade, he’s entertained and connected with millions of loyal listeners with his humor, versatility and candid style. Outside of radio, Valentine spends time with his wife and son Colin, currently in high school.

This year, 104.3 MYfm and “Valentine in the Morning” began “Get a Laptop, Give a Laptop,” a new multi-week back-to-school promotion inviting students and parents to call in and win a brand new laptop ahead of the beginning of the school year. With each giveaway, another laptop would be donated to the local organization “The Heart of Los Angeles” giving underserved kids an equal chance to succeed through a comprehensive array of after-school academic, arts, athletics and wellness programs. After a successful campaign, “Valentine in the Morning” delivered over 30 laptops to The Heart of LA.

He is proud to be from a military family and is an avid supporter of the United Service Organizations (USO) at home and abroad. Valentine has hosted over 10 overseas USO shows for the troops, and expands his support through “Valentine in the Morning’s $5,000 Girl Scout Cookie Buy,” in which he buys cookies from the winning Girl Scout troop and then donates to the Bob Hope USO at LAX for troops and their families. In addition, Valentine continues to work in various capacities in support of Children’s Hospital of L.A., Susan G. Komen, SOS Ministries and Val’s Pals. He also supports the M.S. Society on behalf of his co-host Jill Escoto, who is currently living with MS through Walk MS Los Angeles annually.
Maxwell is a hybrid radio personality and pop culture correspondent with a unique ability to extract personal truths from the most celebrated artists in music and entertainment today. His conversational interview style, coupled with the demeanor of a veteran journalist, creates a genuine exchange that both informs and entertains audiences worldwide, and he has proven to be one of the most sought-after interviewers in the industry. Maxwell is featured on the world famous Z100 in New York and on iHeartRadio’s heritage Top 40 radio station WNCI 97.9 in Columbus, Ohio. He is also heard on over 180 radio stations across the globe on the syndicated “Most Requested Live, with Romeo” show as the premiere guest interviewer.

Crystal is currently a host of “Maxwell & Crystal” on the world famous Z100 in New York City, and was previously the night host on Wild 94.9 in San Francisco. Outside of radio, Crystal is passionate about media and continues to create as a video producer, blog writer and social media editor with over 10 years’ experience creating digital entertainment, lifestyle, travel and branded content. Crystal is also the Oakland Athletics’ social media host and has been featured on the television show “My Princess Presenta” as a co-host on Azteca 50, “Good Day” on Fox 5 NYC, “EXTRA” TV, and more.

In an effort to connect with their community, Maxwell & Crystal invited 30 inner-city high school students to take a peek behind the microphone at the Z100 studios by partnering with Press Pass NYC, an organization that provides NYC public schools with tools to start student journalism programs. Maxwell & Crystal also interviewed Miss America to bring awareness to Special Olympics and local NYC Chapters.

Every Sunday, Crystal connects with her community by leading and hosting fellowship after mass at Holy Cross Church on W 42nd St. for any New York City residents who would like to join for coffee, tea and light snacks. She also hosted the iHeartRadio float at the 2022 NYC Pride March, and on International Women’s Day 2022 Crystal hosted an hour-long special on Z100 focused on women in the workforce.
The Clay Travis and Buck Sexton Show is an ardent supporter of the Tunnel to Towers Foundation. Born from the tragedy of 9/11, the Tunnel to Towers Foundation carries out its mission to “do good” by providing mortgage-free homes to Gold Star and fallen first responder families with young children and by building specially-adapted smart homes for catastrophically injured veterans and first responders.

Throughout the year, Clay and Buck invite Tunnel to Towers Foundation Founder Frank Siller to their program to promote various fundraisers and generate awareness for the organization. Clay and Buck also promote the foundation during local affiliate visits, appearances and events. During one of his on-air appearances in 2022, Siller announced the Tunnel to Towers 9/11 Institute, an education program with valuable 9/11 perspectives and resources to inform all ages about 9/11, but especially those born after that day.
In June 2020, iHeartMedia launched BIN: Black Information Network, the first and only 24/7 national and local all-news audio service dedicated exclusively to providing an objective, accurate and trusted source of continual news coverage with a Black voice and perspective and focused on service to the Black community. BIN includes both a national digital footprint and an increasing number of broadcast radio stations, with the flagship station in Atlanta. BIN is also the news source for iHeart’s 96 R&B, Hip Hop and Gospel stations and is provided as a service to other radio operators, including Black-owned stations. BIN: Black Information Network is run by senior Black employees of the company including Tony Coles, President of BIN; Andrea Coleman, Vice President, News Operations; and Chris Thompson, Vice President, Network Operations. Additionally, BIN was founded on an innovative business model; instead of being supported by traditional advertising, BIN is enabled by a group of well-known brands as Founding Partners who provide long-term support to allow BIN to focus solely on its mission of building this important platform for Black journalism and trusted news.
At the Black Information Network, we take pride in the work that we do and the voice that we give to the news and information that matters. As we sat down to begin work on our 2022 Impact Report, we were reminded of something even more important than the stories we tell – the people. We were reminded of WHY we do what we do. What follows is not just a summary of our service to the community, but rather a reflection of the people we are, the kind of people with whom we associate and, most of all, the people we serve.

2022 marked the 195th anniversary of Black journalism in America. Since the first edition of Freedom's Journal was published, there has been a quest to tell our stories, from our perspective. The Black Information Network continues this mission today with a commitment to bringing trusted news and information to every Black American, no matter where or how they get their news. From the man listening to WBIN AM in Atlanta, to the mom listening on her smart speaker in Cincinnati, to the college student in San Diego reading our social feed, we are now available on more stations and devices than ever before.

Our commitment to the Congressional Black Caucus Leadership Foundation’s Annual Legislative Conference continues to grow, and in 2022 we were proud to host a panel of Black journalists and publishers who focused on the need to ensure Black voices are heard.

We expanded upon our pledge to not only report the news but have a positive impact on the stories that matter most. Through a groundbreaking initiative with Career Builder, we launched the 100,000 Careers initiative to help listeners find jobs, reskill into new careers and acquire the skills needed to advance in their current professions. We partnered with the non-profit organization Direct Relief to address health inequity in the Black community. And through the continued financial support of our Founding Partners – Bank of America, CVS Health, GEICO, Lowe’s, McDonald’s, Sony, 23 and Me and Verizon – we were able to hire more Black journalists, give Black college students exposure to career pathways and create opportunities for Black podcasters.

Finally, we will forever remember 2022 as the year we suddenly and tragically lost Tanita Myers, our Vice President of News Operations. Not only was Tanita the first employee hired by the Black Information Network, but she was the genesis for so much of what you hear every day on BIN. Tanita built a newsroom around people who are passionate not only about the news they report, but about the people affected by the news. While she is no longer physically with us, her spirit lives on in everything we do as we continue to honor her legacy one story at a time.
BIG BROTHERS BIG SISTERS OF AMERICA (BBBSA)

BIN continued its growing partnership with Big Brothers Big Sisters of America (BBBSA), the country’s preeminent leader in one-to-one youth mentoring. Tony Coles, iHeartMedia’s Division President of Metro Markets and President of BIN: Black Information Network, serves as Vice Chair on the National Board of Directors. Other BBBSA Board members include executives from Fortune 500 companies such as Comcast, PepsiCo and Centene Corporation.

Additionally, participating BIN radio stations aired a series of PSAs focusing on the need for Big Brothers Big Sisters mentors, especially Black men. Through its partnership with Big Brothers Big Sisters of America, BIN hopes to increase equity for all youth, especially those lacking male role models or those that have experienced loss due to the pandemic. BIN also worked with BBBSA in securing special guest panelists for the organization’s national conference in Indianapolis to bring awareness about the need for more mentors.

"We are thrilled to have Tony join the board as we work to advance greater equity and access to mentorship experiences for all young people across the nation...He has already been a wonderful ambassador for the organization and his continued commitment will inspire, educate and empower more support for our mission."

bbbs.org

Founded in 1904, Big Brothers Big Sisters of America is the largest and most experienced youth mentoring organization in the United States. The mission of Big Brothers Big Sisters of America is to create and support one-to-one mentoring relationships that ignite the power and promise of youth. Big Brothers Big Sisters’ evidence-based approach is designed to create positive youth outcomes, including educational success, avoidance of risky behaviors, higher aspirations, greater confidence and improved relationships. Big Brothers Big Sisters has over 230 local agencies serving more than 5,000 communities across all 50 states.
Employment, career advancement and the quest for financial stability are some of the highest priorities in the Black community. A critical step toward building wealth within the Black community is providing the resources needed to secure a career that offers stability, important benefits and a higher income that can grow over time. In 2022, BIN partnered with CareerBuilder to launch “100,000 Careers,” a first-of-its-kind career initiative platform that aims to connect employers who are seeking a highly qualified and diverse workforce with Black American job seekers who are looking to advance to higher levels or start a career.

The mission of the “100,000 Careers” initiative is to help people in the Black community find a job and build the career of their dreams — all while giving recruiters access to a vibrant pool of qualified candidates.

This strategic partnership directly aligns with our mission of building personal success for all and will guide Black Information Network listeners to a host of tools that connect them to roles that best suit their skills leading to more meaningful careers. This partnership and the ‘100,000 Careers’ platform are both vital in bringing a valuable resource and job search experience to the Black community, and employers can now access a larger group of diverse candidates and talented workers.”

The Rainbow PUSH Coalition (RPC), headed by founder and president Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, Sr., is a multi-racial, multi-issue, progressive, international membership organization fighting for social change. The mission of the Rainbow PUSH Coalition (RPC) is to protect, defend, and gain civil rights by leveling the economic and educational playing fields, and to promote peace and justice around the world.

In support of The Rainbow PUSH Coalition’s Annual International Women’s Luncheon, Angela Ingram, Director of Local Advocacy and Engagement of BIN: Black Information Network and Senior Vice President of Communications for iHeartMedia Chicago, was honored for her service to local communities across the U.S.
The vision of the NAACP is to ensure a society in which all individuals have equal rights with no racial hatred or discrimination. The NAACP is leading the fight for equity, equality and justice to ensure that Black lives are a priority in all spaces. The NAACP works to disrupt inequality, dismantle racism and accelerate change in key areas including criminal justice, health care, education, climate change and the economy. Each year, the NAACP provides a platform for concerned citizens to step away from the front lines of the fight for civil rights to reflect, learn from each other and plot the path forward.

In support of the NAACP’s 113th Annual Convention on July 14-20 in Atlantic City, BIN stations ran a series of PSAs to encourage listeners to join NAACP, thought leaders, educators, policymakers, activists and entertainers at the convention to network, engage and brainstorm solutions to the Black community’s most pressing issues, including voter suppression, student debt, police brutality and reproductive rights.

NAACP

NAACP.org

Founded in 1909 in response to the ongoing violence against Black people around the country, the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) is the largest and most pre-eminent civil rights organization in the nation. We have over 2,200 units and branches across the nation, along with well over two million activists. Our mission is to secure the political, educational, social and economic equality of rights in order to eliminate race-based discrimination and ensure the health and well-being of all persons.
The mission of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation, Inc. (CBCF) is to advance the global Black community by developing leaders, informing policy and educating the public, and to foster equal voices in public policy through leadership cultivation, economic empowerment and civic engagement.

The CBCF’s Annual Legislative Conference (ALC) is the nation’s leading public policy conference on issues impacting Black communities across the country and around the world. The Honorary Co-Chairs of the 2022 ALC, Congresswoman Val Demings of Florida and Congressman Steven Horsford of Nevada, established ALC’s theme as “Advancing Our Purpose. Elevating Our Power.”

In 2022, for the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia and BIN: Black Information Network helped promote the 51st Annual Legislative Conference in Washington, D.C., held in person after two years of exclusively virtual programming. The conference attracted more than 10,000 in-person attendees and thousands more to join free, virtual events. Hundreds of local iHeartRadio and BIN stations across the country informed listeners to join Members of the Congressional Black Caucus, Black leaders and respected policy advocates supporting the ALC to share perspectives on issues that impact the global Black community including education, economic development, public health, voting rights and civic engagement, as well as social and environmental justice. BIN also sponsored an ALC panel entitled “Our Voices Must Be Heard,” which focused on the importance of Black voices in media and journalism.

“...The Annual Legislative Conference serves as an opportunity for CBC members to connect with current and future leaders of our nation. Through the unique perspectives of thought leaders, community organizers, activists and others, we will generate the momentum necessary to propel the Black community to new heights.”

“...The Annual Legislative Conference serves as an opportunity for CBC members to connect with current and future leaders of our nation. Through the unique perspectives of thought leaders, community organizers, activists and others, we will generate the momentum necessary to propel the Black community to new heights.”

TERRI SEWELL (D-AL)
BOARD CHAIR CONGRESSWOMAN, CBCF

The mission of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation, Inc. (CBCF) is to advance the global Black community by developing leaders, informing policy and educating the public, and to foster equal voices in public policy through leadership cultivation, economic empowerment and civic engagement.

The CBCF’s Annual Legislative Conference (ALC) is the nation’s leading public policy conference on issues impacting Black communities across the country and around the world. The Honorary Co-Chairs of the 2022 ALC, Congresswoman Val Demings of Florida and Congressman Steven Horsford of Nevada, established ALC’s theme as “Advancing Our Purpose. Elevating Our Power.”

In 2022, for the second consecutive year, iHeartMedia and BIN: Black Information Network helped promote the 51st Annual Legislative Conference in Washington, D.C., held in person after two years of exclusively virtual programming. The conference attracted more than 10,000 in-person attendees and thousands more to join free, virtual events. Hundreds of local iHeartRadio and BIN stations across the country informed listeners to join Members of the Congressional Black Caucus, Black leaders and respected policy advocates supporting the ALC to share perspectives on issues that impact the global Black community including education, economic development, public health, voting rights and civic engagement, as well as social and environmental justice. BIN also sponsored an ALC panel entitled “Our Voices Must Be Heard,” which focused on the importance of Black voices in media and journalism.

The National Urban League is a historic civil rights organization dedicated to economic empowerment, equality and social justice. Founded in 1910 and headquartered in New York City, the Urban League collaborates at the national and local levels with community leaders, policymakers and corporate partners to elevate the standards of living for Black Americans and other historically underserved groups.

With 90 affiliates serving 300 communities in 37 states and the District of Columbia, the Urban League spearheads the development of social programs and authoritative public policy research, and advocates for policies and services that close the equality gap. At the community level, the National Urban League and its affiliates provide direct services that improve the lives of more than two million people annually.

The mission of the National Urban League is to help Black Americans and others in underserved communities achieve their highest true social parity, economic self-reliance, power and civil rights. The League promotes economic empowerment through education and job training, housing and community development, workforce development, entrepreneurship, health and quality of life.

In support of the National Urban League’s 113th Annual Convention on July 20-23 in Washington, DC, BIN: Black Information Network stations ran a series of PSAs to encourage listeners to join attendees such as policymakers and thought leaders, social media influencers and entrepreneurs to network, exchange ideas, gain insights and strategize next steps toward justice. Additionally, National Urban League President and CEO Marc Morial provides regular commentary to BIN - lending a voice to the pressing issues affecting the Black community.
The #NABJNAHJ22 Convention & Career Fair is the premier conference for journalism education, career development, networking and industry innovation, attracting leaders and influencers in journalism, media, technology, business, health, arts and entertainment. The nation’s top journalists, media executives, journalism educators, public relations professional and students gathered on Aug. 3-7, 2022 in Las Vegas for the annual convention.

The joint Annual Convention and Career Fair was chaired by Natasha S. Alford, Kevin Merida, Claudia Cruz and Luz Gray and represented the spectrum of today’s media landscape, and each shared a passion for advocating for diversity, equity and inclusion.

In support of the National Association of Black Journalists and the National Association of Hispanic Journalists, BIN: Black Information Network ran a series of PSAs to encourage conference participation.
2022 BIN: BLACK INFORMATION NETWORK NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

BIN: Black Information Network is the first and only 24/7 national and local all news audio service dedicated to providing an objective, accurate and trusted source of continual news coverage with a Black voice and perspective. BIN is focused on service to the Black community and providing an information window for those outside the community to help foster communication, accountability and a deeper understanding. In 2022, BIN expanded its services and was at the forefront of covering some of the country’s most critical social and racial justice news stories, natural disasters and historic moments.

LOCAL NEWS COVERAGE
In 2022, the Black Information Network added three markets to its 24/7 local news service: Chicago, Illinois; Memphis, Tennessee; and Tallahassee, Florida. Customized and locally focused hourly reports provide an additional source of news and information for residents in those markets. BIN: Black Information Network looks forward to expanding its news service to other markets in 2023.

BREAKING NEWS COVERAGE
BIN: Black Information Network interrupted regularly scheduled programming for three major events in 2022.

BUFFALO MASS SHOOTING
In May 2022, BIN aired reports of the tragic Buffalo, New York mass shooting shortly after reports surfaced. BIN’s coverage continued through the sentencing of the suspect who pleaded guilty to killing ten people, all of whom were Black, and injuring three others.

THE ESSENCE FESTIVAL
The Black Information Network was also on the ground in New Orleans, Louisiana for the return of the Essence Festival in July. Due to the pandemic, organizers canceled the event the previous two years.

TANITA MYERS FAREWELL
In July, BIN also bid farewell to its beloved and highly respected Vice President of News Operations, Tanita Myers. Tanita was renowned throughout the radio industry and had worked with legendary Black personalities such as Tom Joyner, Al Sharpton, Rickey Smiley, Roland Martin and others. She continues to be sorely missed by the BIN News team.

JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI FLOODING
In August, BIN provided extensive coverage of the flooding in Jackson, Mississippi, a city that is more than 80% Black. Due to the water crisis there, our coverage continues while solutions to the problem are sought.

2022 STATE OF THE UNION ADDRESS
BIN started the year with special live coverage of the 2022 State of the Union Address, which took place on March 1, 2022. It marked President Joe Biden’s first address before a joint session of Congress due to COVID restrictions the year before.

U.S. SUPREME JUDGE KETANJI BROWN JACKSON CONFIRMATION HEARINGS AND SWearing IN-CEREMONY
In March, BIN provided wall-to-wall coverage of the historic confirmation hearings of then-Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson as she prepared to become the first Black Woman U.S. Supreme Court Justice. BIN also aired her historic swearing-in ceremony, which took place on June 30, 2022.

MIDTERM ELECTION
Throughout the year, the BIN News team covered the 2022 midterm election. Members of the news team spoke with several Black Senate and Congressional candidates. These interviews included Senator Raphael Warnock of Georgia, Congresswoman Val Demings of Florida, Judge Cheri Beasley of North Carolina, Lt. Governor Mandela Barnes of Wisconsin and Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee of Houston, Texas.

On Election Day, the Black Information Network aired a special radio special and produced novellas highlighting issues of most importance to the Black community and key races involving Black candidates.

HOLIDAY WINTER STORM
We closed out the year with continuous coverage of the deadly winter snowstorm that claimed at least 63 lives across the country over the Christmas holiday. The storm also caused many flight delays and cancellations that impacted tens of thousands of travelers.
PUBLIC AFFAIRS PROGRAMMING

BIN: Black Information Network has an ongoing commitment to service affiliates with programming dedicated to shining awareness on important local issues affecting the Black community. As a 24/7 news station, BIN is continually providing the public with relevant, issue-focused programming and information that is timely for all BIN listeners. Each show features interviews with experts and authorities, discussing topics of interest that dominate the news.

THE BLACK PERSPECTIVE
PUBLIC AFFAIRS SHOW
“THE BLACK PERSPECTIVE,” a one-hour weekly public affairs program, is dedicated to shining awareness on important local community issues. The commercial-free program is hosted by BIN Anchor Mike Elsend and recaps the biggest news stories of the week. The program also highlights additional topics and in-depth interviews with business and civic leaders, Members of Congress and White House Administration officials conducted by BIN news anchors.

MEET THE MAYORS
MONTHLY SERIES
The Black Information Network launched “MEET THE MAYORS,” a monthly 30-minute series hosted by BIN news anchors featuring in-depth conversations with Black mayors from across the United States. The series brought the following voices of Black mayors to the BIN airwaves to highlight their accomplishments and spread awareness on the challenges unique to their respective cities: Atlanta Mayor Andre Dickens, New Orleans Mayor LaToya Cantrell, Selma Mayor James Perkins, Jr., Birmingham Mayor Randall Woodfin, Jackson Mayor Chokwe Antar Lumumba and Gary Mayor Jermone Prince.

LEADING WHILE BLACK
MONTHLY SERIES
In late 2022, the Black Information Network rebranded the “MEET THE MAYORS” series to “LEADING WHILE BLACK.” The 30-minute monthly series includes in-depth conversations with both public and private sector Black leaders.
BIN: BLACK INFORMATION NETWORK LOCAL AFFILIATES

In 2022 BIN: Black Information Network expanded with the addition of WMFN 640 AM. Our 24/7 all news format is now heard nationwide in 34 markets.
BIN: BLACK INFORMATION NETWORK FOUNDING PARTNERS AND ADVISORY BOARD

BIN is enabled by the resources, assets and financial support of iHeartMedia and the support of its Founding Partners: Bank of America, CVS Health, GEICO, Lowe’s, McDonald’s USA, Sony, 23andMe and Verizon.

The Advisory Board serves as a critical community champion of the Black Information Network. Members of the Advisory Board share our vision to bring people together, combat racism and injustice and foster the common understanding necessary to create real, positive and lasting societal change through the Black Information Network.

Board members provide professional expertise, diverse knowledge of constituent perspectives; and their connections to local, national and international resources, colleagues or peers. The meetings address network programming, community outreach and how the Black Information Network can more effectively address the challenges and opportunities facing Black Americans in the communities we serve.

NICHOLLE DEAL

Nicholle’s broadcasting career began in the late 90s with an internship at ABC News Affiliate, KVUE Television in Austin, TX. Her time there launched a high-light career as a voice over artist and on-air personality. She has worked in various capacities throughout her career including News Bureau Chief, Public Relations Director, Anchor, Reporter, Producer, and Fill in Host. You may have heard her voice on nationally syndicated shows like “Kidd Kraddick in the Morning” and “The Car Pro Show” or other Texas stations: KLTX 99.5FM, KVET 98 FM, KPMX 105.5FM, KEYE 103.5FM, & KFFT 1060AM. Before joining the Black Information Network, Nicholle spent over 7 years as an Anchor, Reporter & Producer at the iconic WBAP/KFWB studios in Dallas, TX which offers listeners a 24/7 News/Talk format. She has also done freelance work for the Black Contemporary Television Network. Aside from radio, Nicholle has a deep partiality to residential and commercial real estate. Her career in real estate spans decades and includes positions held as Vice President & Director of Leasing, Senior Property Manager, & Leasing Consultant of the Year. Nicholle holds a Bachelor’s degree in Broadcast Journalism from the University of Texas at Arlington.

KEVIN BROWN

Kevin is a News Reporter for the Black Information Network. He is responsible for daily local and national reports targeting the African American community. Prior to taking the position at BIN in 2020, Kevin Brown was the Program Director and Morning Show Host at KBLX in San Francisco for 22 years. During his tenure as PD, Kevin directed day-to-day operations and orchestrated smooth and efficient program development focused on the Bay Area’s wide array of news stories and business interests. Simultaneously, as a Morning Show host, Kevin delivered exceptional programming to audience members. Kevin incorporated advertisers and products into shows in innovative ways and confirmed with advertising partners to develop and deploy effective promotional strategies. He served as an on-air talent for a variety of radio stations including KBLX, KGO, and KTVU. Kevin’s programming and promotions skills were recognized with the industry award as PO. MIKE EILAND

Mike couldn’t decide whether he wanted to climb towers as a radio engineer or go on air. When his love of music took over while playing in the Ohio State University Jazz Ensemble, then working at the campus radio station, his love of recorded music tipped the scales in favor of being inside of a radio station. He started his career as an air talent at a new indie album-oriented rock station, WVLQ, where he also did promotions. When that station was sold after almost 20 years, he found himself at what was then Clear Channel Radio (now iHeartMedia) and continued on the air, this time playing Top 40 classic hits, but added the duty of being the station cluster’s Public Affairs Director. He produced, wrote and hosted the weekly program for all seven stations. He enlisted the help of sister station WTVN News anchors to provide stories, and he had to reciprocate in kind and help the anchors in the newsroom. That’s when the news bug hit, but he wasn’t quite ready to hang up his headphones on music, so he did both. Remarkably, iHeartMedia’s Black Information Network came along in 2020, and he went for it. Just like at the Columbus radio cluster, he became the host of the public affairs program. The Black Perspective on BIN uses the same format as his local shows, only this time, there was a unifying African-American lean to it. BIN’s top-notch anchors contribute heavily to the show. Mike is still at home with Public Affairs hosting but admits the national angle is a sweet challenge!

JOHN MARSHAL

John found his love for entertainment & broadcasting from promoting and hosting events in and around his hometown of Atlanta, GA while attending Morehouse College. After multiple radio internships with Clear Channel & Radio One, he landed his first on-air position with legendary ATL hip-hop station WHTA/HOT 107.9. There, he honed his programming, production and promotion skills and was eventually recruited by fellow ATL hip-hop station W233BF/Streets 94.5. The weekends, both on air and in the city nightlife, were his home for the next year. Consistent work ethic eventually landed him his own weekdays show “Kicks” it with John Marshall” on WFXF/FOX10 in Columbus, GA that he took the show from #4 to #1 in the market for over 2.5 years. John was recognized as Davis Broadcasting’s Personality of the Year in 2017. Now back in ATL, attending Georgia State University for Communications and having joined the Black Information Network/iHeartMedia team, John is broadening his broadcasting horizons and bringing the news as an anchor and reporter to listeners in over 30 cities across the country.

MIMI BROWN

Mimi Brown is a Los Angeles-based journalist, TV personality, host and show producer who knows how to cut right to the heart of the culture. With her passion for broadcast journalism being the root of her success, Mimi is committed to bringing her aptitude for storytelling, amplifying the work of others and helping raise funds and brands to connect to the forefront of all that she does. Originally from Anchorage, Alaska, Mimi started her media career as a red carpet reporter covering award shows like the Oscars, Grammys and the Golden Globes. Her highly sought-after work can be seen on an array for broadcast platforms including NBC, ABC, BET and FOX. Mimi loves what she does, in a recent interview she shared, “As a girl from Alaska, I never knew jobs like this existed. Every day I get to tell a different story, champion the underdog or talk to my favorite celebrity about their next project. Each day is a fun new experience. I love that.” Mimi holds a Bachelor’s Degree from Howard University and a Master’s Degree in Broadcast Journalism from American University. She’s also a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Incorporated.
